Judge Paroles Lowell Bulkley

Schamper-Morris Case Is out, Mis-Trial; new Date Is Slated

Lowell Bulkley, alias Lowell Cottew, indicted for assault with intent to rob, was sentenced to two years in the state prison and paroled to H. S. Poissal when he came before Judge L. H. McMahan yesterday.

Bulkley was originally indicted, as William Lowell Cottew, for assault and robbery, according to information at the sheriff's office. However, when he entered a plea of guilty, the court refused to accept the plea and suggested that Bulkley be re-indicted on a charge which would permit the court to parole the defendant.

In each indictment, the charge has to do with the incident March 2 in which Adolph Kreibitz was held up at point of a pistol at Pratum and relieved of money.

The jury trial of Katharine Schamper against Dean Morris went out on mistrial about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon because the plaintiff's case had been completed. On argument over a point of law, Judge McMahan held the case should be retried, and the retrial was set for July 6. Plaintiff is seeking nearly $16,000 for general and specific damages as a result of personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Order Is Issued In Case of Cook
Formal order holding that it was not within the jurisdiction of Justice of the Peace Hiram Ogerton of Woodburn to sentence Edward E. Cook to the state penitentiary was entered yesterday by Circuit Judge L. H. McMahan.

The order followed habeas corpus proceedings brought in behalf of Cook, a boy from the state training school at Woodburn, by Roy Ridd, a partner in the firm.

Judge Ogerton sentenced Cook and LeRoy Randall, both of whom escaped last fall from the training school and later came before Ogerton on felony charges on which they were found guilty, to the penitentiary April 7, but Warden Lewis of the prison refused to admit them.

The Woodburn justice then directed Sheriff A. C. Burk to hold the youths pending settlement of the dispute as to his jurisdiction to sit as a trial judge in such cases. It is reported that he ordered the sheriff to return the boys to the training school at Woodburn.

Davies Contempt Action Dismissed
Disagreement Over Custody of Son Ensues; Child With Grandmother

An hour-long dispute staged in the courthouse corridors, as to whether six-year-old Billy Davies of Spokane should be allowed to stay with his mother over the weekend or obey the order of the court and be turned over to his father, proved an anti-climax to contempt proceedings against Paul E. Davies held before Circuit Judge L. G. Lewelling here yesterday afternoon.

The court dismissed the contempt case against Davies brought by his former wife, now Mrs. Fred Nagel of Spokane. And stated incidentally that the original divorce decree of March 12, 1937, gave summer custody of the son, Spokane school, to his mother, but to the father after school was out.

But when court was dismissed and Davies went to take his son, Mrs. Nagel raised objections upon plea that she wanted to keep him at her sister's home at McMinville over Sunday to take him to a circus.

At suggestion of his attorney, Davies held out for immediate possession of the child. And while older folks, including aunt and uncle on his mother's side, Davies' mother and present wife, aired their respective views, Billy clung in tears to his mother's knees.

Mrs. Tom Davies, Billy's grandmother, broke the deadlock by suggesting that she take the boy home. This the mother eventually agreed to and Billy went manfully away, hand in hand with his grandmother.

Davies and Mrs. Nagel were two husband and wife before the divorce decree of March 12, last year, and since then each has remarried. She brought the contempt proceedings on ground that he had not paid alimony.

Urge Filling of Tax Board Posts

Investors' Head Asserts Politics Should not Be Considered

The two state tax commissioner posts left vacant legally if not in fact June 4 should be filled promptly that the business of this state board may be resumed, F. H. Young, manager of Oregon Business and Investors, Inc., said in letters sent yesterday to members of the organization. The letter asserted no reasons for considering a change of commission personnel had been publicly suggested.

"Since June 4 there has not been a legal quorum of the Oregon state tax commission," Young's letter read.

The terms of Charles V. Galloway, chairman, and Earl Fisher expired on that date.

"A continuity of definite policy or the establishment of new policies at an early date is most vital to the purposes of Oregon Business and Investors, Inc., as a nonpartisan organization."

The letter continued that any effort to replace Galloway and Fisher or delay their reappointment must be on considerations that are antagonistic to continuation of the commission in its present effective membership.

"No such considerations or reasons for considering a change of the commission membership have been publicly suggested," the letter read.

Young made it plain that his organization was not endorsing any candidate or candidates for the two berths.

'Papa' Is Dead

GASTON DOUMERGUE

Tribute Is Paid Ex-French Leader
Death Comes Suddenly to Statesman, Aged 73, in Town of Birth

AIGUES-VIVES, France, June 18.—(AP)—Gaston Doumergue—"Papa" and "Gastoulet" to most of France—died today in this ancient village of his birth which he left as president and premier to lead France through critical days of political strife.

Death came suddenly to the retired 73-year-old statesman. He awoke in apparent good health from a nap at 11:30 a. m. and, his wife said, he complained of illness, fainted and died without regaining consciousness.

Death was due to an embolism, a physician said.

Tonight the body of the former president lay upon a bed within the family home.

In the chamber of deputies at Paris there was tribute from Edouard Herriot, the man who felled the Doumergue cabinet of 1934 and caused the old man to retire, disheartened and weary.

Doumergue formed a cabinet in February, 1934, after the Stavisky scandals, rioting in the streets of Paris, and political agitation forced out Edouard Daladier.

For nine months he ruled with iron hand. He was credited with restoring order and ending the Stavisky crisis.

C. I. O. Invasion Protested, Eugene
EUGENE, June 18.—(AP)—The Willamette district council of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union, authorizing a referendum on the issue of affiliating with the C. I. O., voiced a vigorous protest the invasion of the lumber industry by the industrial union movement of John L. Lewis.

The council pointed to a possibility that the Willamette district would continue its American Federation of Labor affiliation even if the rest of the area should vote to join the C. I. O.

A committee from the council will go to Longview Saturday to confer with William L. Hutchinson, president of the brotherhood of carpenters and joiners, in an attempt to iron out differences between the lumber union and the brotherhood.

Grant Guardsmen C. M. T. C. Chance

Enrollment With 2nd Year Rating Permitted This Season, Announced

With no training at Camp Clatsop this year to conflict with the annual Citizen's Military Training camp at Vancouver Barracks, Oregon national guardsmen for their first opportunity to enroll as members of the C. M. T. C., and as a special inducement to bring a large group from these ranks, guardsmen will be enrolled as second-year men, Colonel Carl Abrams, Marion county chairman for the citizens, has been informed by Major W. C. Moore of Vancouver Barracks.

Guardsmen who enroll will not only advance themselves in military knowledge and have a vacation on government pay, but will be granted credit for drill attendance in their home unit.

The annual C. M. T. C. camp will open at Vancouver Barracks July 1 for a 30 day period, and will train 543 young men from 17 to 34 years of age.

Successful completion of four summer camps leads to a commission as a Lieutenant in the army reserve corps, but under the word from Major Moore, guardsmen who enlist this year will need to take but three years of summer camp for the same commission. The usual training period at Camp Clatsop has been dispensed with this year because of the fourth army maneuvers slated to begin August 17 at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Each boy attending the C. M. T. C. will receive mileage to and from home, uniforms, meals, bedding and a $100.00 stipend. Military instruction will last from 7:30 to 11:30 a. m. and afternoons will be devoted to recreation and athletics. During the third week, a special event will be a practice march to the target range at Camp Bonneville, Wash., where a week will be spent firing the service rifle, pistol, automatic rifle, machine gun, and in maneuvers. Thursday, July 29, will be visitors' day.

Bailey Asked to Draft Parole Law
Crime Problem Is Unsolved Martin Says; Reform Is Held Necessary

Governor Charles H. Martin Friday sent a letter to Justice J. O. Bailey of the state supreme court asking him to draft all legislative bills for the special commission recently appointed to study Oregon's parole, probation and sentencing system.

The recommendations of the commission will be presented at the 1937 legislative session. Bailey is chairman of the commission.

"The problem of crime is the great unsolved problem of the centuries," Governor Martin's letter read.

"The present system of punishment of crime should be founded on the principles of reformation and not on vindictive justice."

"Oregon was one of the first states to provide a system for clemency from the bench and to supplement that with a constitutional pardoning power. Your commission will have an opportunity to carry forward the standard of reformation treatment of our convicts which has been continuously a basic principle of our government."

Governor Martin said the records of the executive department would be available for the commission.

Real Estate Ads Topic of Speaker
Some of the principles of effective advertising as applied particularly to classified real estate ads were outlined by Robert Sprague of the Statesman advertising staff in a talk before the Salem realty board at its Friday noon luncheon.

Care in the writing of ads so that they would contain a word-picture of the property offered for sale was urged by the speaker, as well as a definite idea before the ad-writer begins his task, as to what the outstanding appeal of the property is.
