Hesitancy Noted In Retail Trade

PORTLAND, June 13—(AP)—Dun and Bradstreet's weekly review said today unfavorable weather conditions depressed local retail trade the past week and activity barely exceeded that for the corresponding period a year ago.

There is a hesitancy on the part of retail traders to place large orders due to advancing prices of most commodities. Structural steel demand and heavy hardware was reported greater than usual despite a slump in building.

New and used automobile sales were reported brisk.
