Assistance with many of the ordinary farm building needs is now available to a greater extent than ever before through the O. S. C. extension service, as shows by the recent issuance of a progress report on a farm building plan service. This has been issued in the form of a 23-page mimeographed handbook, one copy of which has been distributed to each county agent, where it may be examined by anyone interested in farm construction.

It is not intended for general distribution, as it is more in the form of a descriptive catalog of WE HAVE never paid less than this rate on savings able through the extension service. Descriptions of many building and equipment plans are plans and specifications now availbuilding and equipment plans are given to aid Oregon farmers in planning and constructing better, and more serviceable buildings. A few of the items listed are farm houses, barns, roof designs, hog, sheep and poultry build-ings, machine shed, shops, ga-rages, manure pits, hay sheds. grain elevators and granaries, MAN WITH some sales ability for organization expanding, small investment required.
