Miss LaDue Tells Wedding Date At Party

Each week a number of engagements and wedding dates are announced and the most interesting one revealed this week is that of Miss Charlotte LaDue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. LaDue, and Ross Gladden, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gladden of White Salmon, Washing-The wedding will be an event of Sunday, August 15, at the house of Rev. Earl McAbee at Grand View, Washington, Rev. McAbee is an old friend of both

The news was told at a smartly arranged bridge party Thursday night for which Mrs. Frederick LaDue was hostess at her home on Kingwood avenue. Miss Lula McClay received high score for bridge and Miss Charlotte LaDue won second. Summer flowers were arranged about the rooms and supper served at a late hour. A bowl of walnuts was passed to the guests and the announcement was concealed in one of them.

Guests present were Miss La-Due, Mrs. Ira Hull, Mrs. Ida Hewitt, Mrs. George McKenzie, Miss Colene Mennis, Miss Myrtle and Miss Lula McClay, Miss Eula Beckner, Miss Dorothy Dingle, Miss Luetta Baker, Miss Helen McElroy and Mrs. LaDue.

Miss LaDue is a popular member of the younger set of the capital. She attended schools in White Salmon before coming to Salem to make her home, For several years she has been emin the principal's office of the Salem high school.

Mr. Gladden graduated in June from Willamette university. He is a member of Sigma Tau fraternity serving as president this last year. He is also affiliated with Blue Key, national service honorary. He received his earli-er education in White Salmon.

New Ideas

A trip, no matter how brief. to some other woman's kitchen will yield several bright ideas for your own housekeeping.

For instance there's the realization of how pleasant it is to get out the jars for summer canning when each one has been carefully washed and fitted with a lid before putting away.

Watching your hostess prepare dinner may give the idea that the large green beans cut diagonally across have a different flavor from those cut square, and are more tender.

A glance in the closet off the living room may reveal an entirely different set of toys at grandma's that keeps youngsters out of the cookie jar and makes transportation as well as entertainment a more simple process.

Upstairs there is an idea; modern equipment reminds one that there's no handier place than a bedroom for an ironing board.

The hostess herself may offer the suggestion that she's found that combs are cleaned with ease when allowed to stand awhile in undiluted ammonia, then rinsed in clear water. The dirt is dissolved and the comb looks like new in a few minutes.

Berries Make Dessert On Outing

Years ago, when camping was a childhood pleasure, youngsters in the family used to pick wild berries that were then stewed and cooked until the dumplings were done. A variety of berries nations as blackberries, wild huckleberries, salmon berries, wild black caps and Oregon grape.

Here is the recipe for

BERRY DUFF Wash berries, put in a saucepan or deep bucket, add sugar to taste and cook a few minutes until soft. When boiling drop the dumplings on by spoonsful. Put on a tight lid and boil for 18 minutes without lifting the lid

DUMPLINGS 2 cups flour 4 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

1 egg Sift dry ingredients into a bowl, pour milk in center, drop in egg right out of the shell, stir from center out until well mixed, drop into hot fruit. Boil 18 minutes with lid on.

Orange Sherbet Goes Into Dressing

A topping of sherbet on a fruit salad makes an unbelievably good warm weather salad dressing, in addition to being decorative and different. Line an individual bowl or plate with lettuce. Make a fruit salad by adding to orange segment as a base other fruits in season-melon, peaches, pears, taly and more are scheduled for cherries, berries, grapes, banana. Top with a small scoop of orange sherbet.
