

Old Newspapers Yield Notes On Manners

"They didn't do that in my day" has been said so many times its effectiveness has been lost. Maybe they didn't do that, but they did something else.

Field workers of the historical records survey, a WPA project, have found in old newspaper files many interesting commentaries on changing modes and manners. A copy of the Oregon City Spectator dated February 19, 1846, describes a ball curiously reminiscent of those held during the recent Portland fleet week. "Captain Baillie and the gun room officer of H. B. M. S. Modeste, entertained a numerous circle at a ball there upon Wednesday evening. There was a brilliant assemblage of the 'fair sex' of Oregon, and although in the far west, yet from the gay display that night, we are proud to state that the infant colony can boast of as pretty faces and handsome 'figures' as the mother country. Dancing commenced at 8 o'clock and it was pleasing to see 'tripping on the light fantastic too' kept up with such spirit. The dresses of the ladies was a theme of universal admiration, combining neatness, elegance and ease.

"Reels, country dances, figures eight and jigs was the order of the evening; and if we do not yet come to that fashionable dance, the polka, still, we live in hopes of seeing it soon introduced at our own balls, a gentleman who knows and dances it well, and who lately visited the Falantine Plains, having volunteered to instruct the Oregonian beauties in its intricacies."

A few years later, March 30, 1852, the Oregon Statesman complained bitterly in describing a "shocking new dance called the waltz." Despite the disapproval of certain elements, dancing continued. Formally worded invitations have been found reading: "The pleasure of your company is respectfully solicited to attend a cotillion party at the Metropolis hotel, Friday, December 25, 1857." The cost of tickets for this Portland function was not recorded, but that for a similar party held in Canyon City at Christmas time during the gold rush was $7.50.

"Guess what you would have had for dinner tonight if I hadn't burned it!"

We'll guess it's his favorite dish—and no doubt the carefree little bride had her thoughts on a golf or tennis match while cooking, for her piquant recipe is as adequate for active sports as for preparing meals—even successful ones. It's of Jap silk in a brown and yellow plaid, the front "slides" shut and the back tucks a wide pleat under the yoke for the "action back" favorite of sports wear.

Today's Menu

A tuna casserole is the fish dish planned for dinner today.

Jellied grapefruit salad
Tuna casserole
New peas
Green apple pie

The tuna casserole includes potatoes and makes a about the whole main dish. Put alternate layers of flaked tuna or other fish in a buttered casserole, with potato chips. Over it pour the contents of a can of cream of mushroom soup or some cream sauce. Top with crumbs and dots of butter and brown well.

Mushroom Sauce Makes Lamb Good

Handy old mushroom soup comes into popularity again when it's used in this recipe:

LAMB WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter
3/4 teaspoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 medium can cream of mushroom soup
Cayenne
1/4 cup grated cheese
1 1/2 cups diced cooked lamb

Melt butter, add flour, salt and soup. Cook over hot water until thick and smooth. Add few grains cayenne, grated cheese and lamb. Mix well, heat and serve on toast.

Beans Make Garnish Or Salad

String beans left full length make a handsome vegetable when stripped with pimiento pieces. A pile of them arranged on lettuce, garnished with tomato quarters and topped with mayonnaise make an easy but good tasting salad to go on a luncheon plate with the main dish.

Some good cooks like to cut their green beans (we don't say "string" anymore) in very thin lengthwise strips, especially now that they are getting pretty well matured.

Peaches Ready To Can This Weekend

Peach canning is going to start with a boom the first of next week, if indications prove right. Sloppy, those flavortul not-so-good looking peaches that are grand when canned are supposed to make their appearance on the 15th. They usually have to be ordered as there are not so very many grown.

The old standby Crawlford, will come along almost immediately, then will be Elbertas to end up the successful canning season.

Below is a chart for canning peaches, just about every possible way.

Some good cooks can peaches with the skins on. It's certainly a simple way. Merely wash and wipe the peaches, can as usual. If open kettle method is used, the skins can be taken out as the fruit is packed in jars. If oven method is used, they are taken out when the fruit is served. Peaches are pinker, have a perfectly grand flavor and are awfully good canned this way. Try a few jars this year and see how the family likes them.

OPEN KETTLE METHOD

Plunge the fruit into boiling water, put in cold water and slip off the skins. Some prefer to leave the seeds in, while others have the fruit and remove them. Drop fruit into a syrup made from 6 cups boiling water and 6 cups sugar, cook just enough to fill two or three jars. When peaches are soft and done through, pack into jars that have been boiled for at least 5 minutes. Fill up with the syrup and cover with sterilized lids. Add more fruit to the kettle of syrup, and more sugar and water if necessary and continue until fruit is used.

HOT WATER BATH

Tack skinned halved fruit into jars, add syrup made from cup for cup of sugar and water, put on the lids and set in hot water up to the neck of the jars. There should be a rack so that jars do not set directly on the bottom of the pan. Bring water to a full rolling boil and process 20 minutes. Mason or Presto lids must be tightened after removing. Kerr lids are tightened before processing.

OVEN CANNING

Proceed as for hot water bath canning except put the jars in a cold oven, set the heat for 250, and when temperature is up to 250 degrees count 45 minutes for the pinks or 1 hour and 8 minutes for quarts. This method cooks the peaches so little that often the top one turns brown. Many canners, however, think the flavor warrants the loss of some of the peaches.

PEACH CHUTNEY

Heat 4 quarts cubed peaches with 1 cup vinegar until steaming, add 1/2 cup finely diced onion, 1 cup brown sugar, 1/4 pound seeded raisins, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 ounces finely diced ginger, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon paprika. Cook slowly until thick.

PEACH PRESERVES

Halve and slice 5 pounds peaches, add 10 cups sugar and let stand 1 hour. Cook slowly about 3 1/2 hour or until thick. A medium can of drained, crushed pineapple may be added before cooking if wanted.

PICKLED PEACHES

Make a syrup of 2 cups vinegar, 2 teaspoons stick cinnamon and 1 teaspoon cloves and 7 cups sugar. Pour over 7 1/2 pounds peeled fruit in a crock. Repeat this for 3 more days, each time heating the syrup. The fourth day, cook fruit until done if it is not already clear and done.

Insurgents Renew Santander March

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The Insurgents renewed their drive of "liberation" against Santander today, while government air forces repeatedly raided insurgent-held cities west and southwest of Madrid.

Details of the Santander drive were withheld, although the daily communiqué of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco claimed it had scored important advances.

This campaign is designed to wipe out all remaining government resistance along Spain's northern coast, now confined to the city of Santander and its surrounding province and Asturias farther west.

In eastern Spain, insurgents are driving southward in an attempt to sever communications between the vital government cities of Madrid and Valencia. Insurgents shelled government positions at Canigral.
