

Foreign War Vets Picnic on Sunday

Other Overseas Warriors and Especially Recent Arrivals Invited

All committees, sports, entertainment and refreshment, are working overtime in preparation for the Veterans of Foreign Wars picnic, to be held at Paradise Island, near the Salem airport, Sunday, August 22, under the auspices of Marion Post No. 561. As special guests for the occasion Marion Post extends invitations to all veterans of any war who have seen service overseas, and especially to those veterans who have migrated to Oregon from other states to whom it is desired to extend a hearty welcome to the state of their adoption.

The ladies' auxiliary is cooperating actively toward the success of the event. Members of the post and the auxiliary will bring over-stuffed baskets to make allowance for such guests as many will not be supplied with necessities of life, and coffee and ice cream will be furnished free to all by Marion Post.

There will be plenty of entertainment and diversion to satisfy all tastes; swimming, games, playgrounds for children and sports in which men and women, boys and girls will participate.

Chairman Herman Lafky, of the picnic committee, has his committee and sub-committees hard at work and nothing will be spared to make of it the big success of the organization's experience.

Writers' Session Held Interesting

Highly interesting sessions of the League of Western Writers in Portland were reported by Mrs. Viola Price Franklin upon her return in the middle of the week.

Dr. W. E. Nelson, president of Redlands college of California, and also president of the National Writers' league was a speaker. Others included Dean Collins, Harold Hunt and B. F. Irvine, Portland newspapermen interested in literary activities. Dr. Clara C. Ingham is the state president.

Hazel Hall chapter of Salem was well represented with four members on one day's program. Mrs. Franklin presented a report on her recent visit to the Browning library at Waco, Tex. Mrs. J. C. Nelson, Mrs. William Merriott and Mrs. Donald McLeod read some of their work.

Five Million now In Job Insurance Funds of Oregon

Funds of the state unemployment compensation commission will aggregate approximately $5,000,000 on January 1, 1938, when the payment of benefits will begin, D. A. Bulmore, administrator, announced Thursday.

The commission now has $4,000,000, all of which was contributed by employers. This year the employers pay two per cent of their payrolls and next year the amount will be increased to three per cent.

Officials said an effort would be made at the next legislature to amend the law so that employees will contribute a part of the fund.

Bulmore said it would be necessary to double the number of employees in the unemployment insurance department when the payment of benefits gets under way.

Action During Japanese Attack Upon Tientsin

This graphic photo was made during the recent fighting between Chinese and Japanese at Tientsin. A Japanese machine gunner is firing from the top of an armored train. His target is the railroad station of Lanfang, which had been captured by Chinese, who later were driven out. In background smoke is rising from incendiary bombs dropped by Japanese aircraft.

Vocation Schools Must Be Licensed

Licensing of private vocational schools and their salesmen in Oregon has started under the direction of the state educational department, C. A. Howard, state superintendent of schools announced.

Howard said the licensing of these schools and their salesmen is the outgrowth of a large number of "fly-by-night" schools that have developed in the last few years.

Many young people have enrolled in these schools without any educational returns for their money," Howard said.

The law required each school to post a bond of $2500 and each salesman a bond of $1000 to guarantee that they will fulfill all contracts and conduct their business in compliance with the 1937 legislative act.

Howard suggested that prospective students determine whether the school they expect to attend is licensed.

Wadsworth Only Legislator Left Of 1880 Session

F. M. Wadsworth of North Plains, a member of the state legislature in 1880 and now over 100 years old, has written Secretary of State Snell to determine if any of his fellow legislative members were still living.

Records of the state department do not reveal that any other members of the 1880 legislature are in Oregon at this time and Mr. Wadsworth probably has the distinction of being the oldest living member of the state assembly.

Only two members of the regiment of 1010 men in which Mr. Wadsworth served during the Civil war are now living.

In his letter to Snell, Wadsworth said that 75 years ago on August 9, 1862, he was shot down on a Virginia field, but recovered after receiving medical treatment for several months.

Mr. Wadsworth cast his first vote in 1860 and has been keenly interested in politics and government throughout his life.

Courts Cracking Down on Drivers Lacking Licenses

Automobile owners who have failed to obtain their current operators' permit are now being fined as much as $5 in a large number of justice courts, information received at the state department revealed.

State police have launched a drive against these delinquent motor vehicle owners and no excuses are being accepted. All drivers who are unable to produce a current permit are being cited to appear in court.

Secretary of State Snell estimated that there were more than 50,000 automobile drivers in Oregon who have not yet sent in for their permits.

Baker Roads Will Be Inspected by Highway Officers

The members of the state highway commission will leave here Tuesday for eastern Oregon where they will inspect the Baker-Halfway road and other highways in Baker county, R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, announced Thursday.

The commission will make the trip to Baker by train while Baldock will travel by automobile. En route he will inspect the Willamette highway.

Civic leaders in Baker recently censured the highway commission for its failure to improve the Baker-Halfway road. They charged that Baker county had not received its just share of road funds.

Clatsop Official To Oust Pinballs

District Attorney Green of Clatsop county is the latest prosecutor to promise his cooperation to Assistant Attorney General Ralph Moody in cleaning up the pinball machine and marble board situation in the state.

Green was in Salem Thursday conferring with Moody and other state officials.

Moody said his information indicated that more than half of the district attorneys already had served notice on the owners of pinball games and marble boards to remove them within a reasonable time.

In a few of the coast counties these machines are still operating and no attempt has been made to eliminate them, Moody said.
