

Escape From Jail Taken at Hopyard

Walter Findley, Charged With Auto Theft, Prys Cell Bars Loose

DALLAS—Walter Findley, who escaped from the Polk county jail Monday night where he was being held in connection with an automobile theft in Klamath county, was quickly apprehended by the local sheriff's office when he was arrested Tuesday night at 11:15 at the Wierich hopyard south of Independence.

At the time of his first arrest he was in possession of the car belonging to Lawrence Smith of Dallas which was taken from Smith's garage sometime Monday night.

Personal belongings of Findley were in the Smith car. The arrest was made by Sheriff J. B. Hooker, deputy sheriff Williams and special deputies Oscar Moore and Elmer Beach.

Findley appeared before Justice of the Peace Gregory this morning charged with grand larceny. He waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the grand jury. Bail was set at $2,500. He is now being held in the Polk county jail.

Findley escaped Monday night after he had pried loose the bars from the cell window and dropped twenty feet to the ground.

He had been up twice before. Once in Yamhill county for attempted burglary and once for forgery. He was being held at the time of his escape for the Klamath county authorities in connection with an automobile theft.

Plugger Vital to Tin Pan Alley

One of the important factors in keeping Tin Pan Alley's tune factories producing is the modern song plugger. It is he—a dapper gentleman of wide acquaintance and smooth manner—who is the middleman between the tunesmiths and the artists and public for whom they compose. It is his job to persuade stage and radio stars, especially the latter, to introduce new songs and thus interest the public in buying the sheet music. Much in the manner of the "contact man" of brokerage offices, he manages to ingratiate himself with headliners of the broadcasting world and get them to present the latest songs. His contacts are made in the radio studios, at dinner or some other social occasion, and he has proved himself an invaluable adjunct to the specialized business of tune selling.

August Building Lower Than 1936

Last month brought a decline in building permit values in Salem but nevertheless went into Building Inspector E. C. Bushnell's records as by far the second best August since 1929, when construction of the $500,000 state office building was started. The 132 permits issued last month had a total value of $67,593 as against $95,573 for 111 permits in July and $181,417 for 149 permits in August, 1936.

Other August permit values have been as follows:
In 1935, $26,482.25; 1934, $24,076; 1933, $27,047.10; 1932, $32,274; 1931, $27,162.41; 1930, $16,907.18; 1929, $530,336.

Residential construction continued last month to bolster building values. Permits were issued for 12 new houses costing $24,150. Other new construction included a $5000 warehouse, a $1265 service station, a $1200 store and several private garages and other small structures. New construction values totaled $36,795.
