

Fruit Trees Used On Lawns Are Ornamental

Even the most sophisticated landscape architects are becoming practical. It would seem from an article on trees for small property written by a well known eastern landscape architect.

This designer for small properties advises the use of fruit trees as ornamentals for the yard, and he especially suggests Jonathan and Winesap apples, and Japanese plum as reasonably small-growers which will yield edible crops.

Fruit trees are recommended because of the beauty of flowering in spring, then the usefulness of the fruit in summer and winter.

For this climate we might add peaches, walnuts, figs and filberts to the list of possibilities of fruit bearing trees to use as ornamentals.

When the house needs the help of tree enframement, the expert suggests trees growing to about the height of twenty to twenty-five feet, and mentions flowering Hawthorne, and mountain ash as ornamental because of their bloom.

White Cake Mixes by New Method

This white cake is mixed by the interesting new method that gives an excellent cake in a very short time. Try using this method on your own recipes, once you've mastered the procedure. The icing is unusual too.

- WHITE VELVET CAKE
- 1 cup shortening
 - 4 cups and 2 tablespoons flour
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 4 teaspoons double acting baking powder
 - 1 1/2 cups water
 - 6 egg whites
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- Blend flour and shortening together until like fine cornmeal and no particles remain. Add sugar, baking powder, and a little over half the liquid. Mix well, add eggs and stir until smooth after each egg is added. Beat well. Add remaining liquid and flavoring, mix well. Bake in 3 round layers about 30 minutes at 375 degrees.

- CREAM CHEESE ICING
- Blend 1 1/2 cakes cream cheese, work in 4 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar as for pastry. Add 6 tablespoons syrup made by caramelizing 1/2 cup granulated sugar and adding slowly 1/2 cup strong coffee. Dissolve thoroughly. Blend well. Ice cake between layers, on sides and top. With pastry tube decorate top of cake. Sprinkle chopped roasted almonds on sides.

Large Recipe Makes Many Pies

Apple Pie Designed For Family

A recipe for apple pie that's interesting appears in the Inglebrook cookbook, a favorite in this department. Here is Sister Mary J. Huffman's recipe for:

FAMILY APPLE PIE

Make dough the same as for other pies, using milk as the liquid. Line a bread pan with dough, half fill with peeled, thinly sliced apples, sprinkle with sugar and put in a thin layer of dough, finish filling to the top, with apples, sweeten, put on the covering crust and bake. Serve with sweetened cream or fresh butter.

Many a time a little forethought like this has saved the day. Taking a little forethought for dinner hostess wear, we bring you: a long, pencil-slim satin skirt, with slit-or slit, topped with a lame blouse. The fabric itself, especially if it's blatantly shiny, is top-mode. Mark its deep V-neck with a jeweled clip. With deep shoulder folds, the two important style decrees of width and drape are dutifully and decoratively obeyed.—Copyright 1937, Esquire Features, Inc.

Cookie Jar Full Of Inexpensive Varieties

Cookie jars must be full in winter, at least that's the theory that school children like to put forth to obliging parents. Inexpensive varieties, and those easy to make will be popular sweets for after-school snacks.

This overnight gingersnap is a crisp cookie which can be served for a dainty tea cake or as a children's favorite.

- GINGERSNAPS
- 1 cup sugar
 - 1 cup shortening
 - 1 egg
 - 4 cups flour
 - 1 cup molasses
 - 1 teaspoon soda
 - 1 tablespoon ginger
 - 2 teaspoons salt
- Cream shortening, add sugar, egg and dry ingredients alternating with the molasses. Let chill in a roll, slice like overnight cookies and bake at 400 degrees.

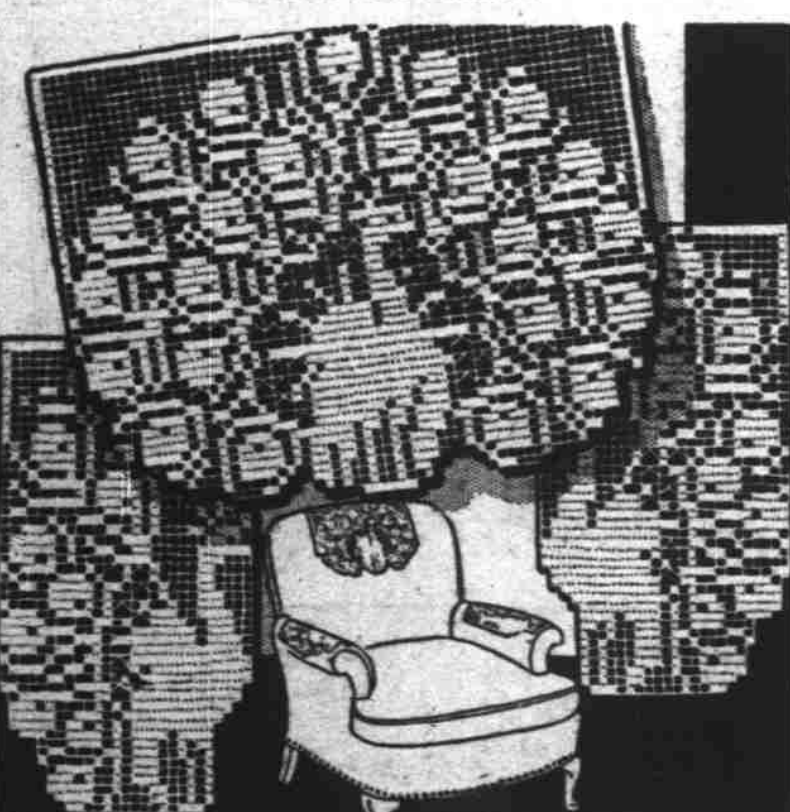

Butter balls are inexpensive cookies that are easily made, and not so rich as the name would imply:

- BUTTER BALLS
- 1/2 cup shortening
 - 1 cup brown sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 cups flour
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- Cream shortening, add sugar, egg and dry ingredients. Mix well, add vanilla, roll in balls about the size of marbles, roll in sugar and bake about 10 minutes at 400 degrees. The cookies will flatten out, makes around 70 small cookies.

- CRISP OATMEAL COOKIES
- 2 cups brown sugar
 - 1 cup oil
 - 2 eggs beaten
 - 1 teaspoon almond extract
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Mixed rolled oats, sugar and oil and let stand overnight. In the morning add the remaining ingredients and drop by spoonfuls on a greased tin. Bake at 350 degrees until done, and leave on cookie sheet until cold.

Red and black is one of the most popular color combinations for daytime wear according to a style note from London. A red woolen coat with Persian lamb collar and cuffs worn over a black silk dress is one example.

Filet Crochet

Let this filet crochet peacock brighten your room as chair seat, scarf ends or buffet set—contrasting with the K stitch and plain mesh his regal plumage is indeed a decoration. Do the design in string. Its sturdiness will give you a chair set that is as much a protection to your chair as an ornament. Pattern 1119 contains detailed directions and charts for making this set; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements.

Revise Figure On 1937 Hops

Now Estimate 110,000 Bales Harvested; Market Holds Firm

The 1937 Oregon hop production will reach at least 110,000 bales, which is 10,000 bales over the highest estimate made since harvest neared an end, yesterday predicted a local hop statistician.

The 1937 crop will run about the same as the 1935 Oregon yield, which produced slightly over 111,000 bales, some dealers now think. A heavy change during recent weeks shows that most growers ran this year within 14 or 15 bales, one way or the other, of the 1935 production for their yards. Some of the larger yards went over the 1935 figure, some under, but on the whole this incomplete survey looks like around 110,000 bales will be the answer when a care careful check is taken.

Unpicked Crop Big Too

Hops left on the vines, both due to mildew, mold and lack of pickers, would add another 55,000 bales to the Oregon production this year, some estimates declare, which means that the 1937 production, had it all gone into the bale, would probably have approximated the greatest hop crop ever picked in Oregon, 168,000 bales which is a record of some years standing.

The highest price paid on the open market for 1937 hops is 18 cents paid for 138 bales taken in last week. Fuggles have gone up to 17 and 17 1/2 cents, with the current market at 17 cents. Last week 250 bales of fuggles sold at 17 cents and this week 205 bales sold at 17 1/2 cents and 84 bales at 17 cents.

Current quotations on 1937 clusters run 16, 16 1/2 and 16 3/4 cents per pound.

15,000 Bales Sold

Estimates are that as high as 15,000 bales of 1937 hops have been sold on the open market. From 20,000 to 25,000 bales are controlled by dealer-growers and another 25,000 are under contract, which with the 15,000 bales already gone on spot deals leaves an estimated 55,000 bales of 1937 hops still in growers' hands.

Due to mold, a large percentage of the 1937 crop is of poor quality, and some estimates place 60 per cent of the Oregon crop below prime. Much of the mold developed due to having to leave the hops on the vine too long because of shortage of pickers. The last picking around here was done September 30.

Phone, Wire Aids To Gambling, Held

Joseph E. Harvey, Portland attorney, Thursday filed complaints in the state utility department here alleging that the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company are aiding and abetting in gambling in Oregon, by leasing wires to promoters of gambling establishments.

Particular reference was made in the complaints to Portland pool rooms and other establishments which place wagers on dog and horse races in other states.

Harvey asked that an investigation be conducted by the utility department and that the companies be made to desist from participating either directly or indirectly in the gambling operations.

Utility Commissioner Wallace said he had not yet decided what action he would take regarding the complaints but might call a hearing.

30 Lives Snuffed out on Oregon's Highways in September; Due Chiefly To Carelessness Says Snell Survey

Reckless driving, combined speed and carelessness, was chiefly responsible for Oregon's September highway toll of 30 lives, Secretary of State Earl Snell said yesterday.

Snell said he based his statement on a personal checkup of reports of the various accidents.

Deadliness of curves was emphasized by the September statistics with nine deaths resulting from drivers sending their cars off the highway. A fatal collision in Umatilla county followed a fast approach to a slippery curve. In three other cases the drivers wheeled their vehicles over steep banks when they failed to negotiate turns.

Near McMinnville a runaway youth sideswiped a truck as he attempted to make a night-time getaway, and was killed instantly.

An Eastern Oregon driver passed a line of waiting cars and plunged into a train. A train also claimed an automobile driver in Lane county where the tracks were visible for a mile in either direction.

Other deaths included three boys under 18 years old, one of whom darted in front of a truck on his scooter.

A freight truck, which rammed a passenger car from the rear, killed a woman in Jackson county. An unusual accident involved a man leading a horse who was struck and killed by a truck. A girl met death when she leaped from the rear door of a moving car.

Economics Class For Bankers Held

Salem, Valley Employees of Banks Open Course Under Prof. Childs

The first meeting of the economics class of the American Institute of Banking was held Wednesday night at Eaton hall, Willamette university. The enthusiasm in this work, evinced by the increasing number of bank employees enrolled in its courses from year to year, was climaxed by the largest registration ever recorded in the Marion county chapter.

A short talk was given by Dr. Bruce Baxter, introducing Prof. Frank Childs and welcoming the "Death takes no holiday when it comes to the operation of automobiles," Snell said.

AIB students to Willamette. The officers and members of the institute deeply appreciate the privilege of using the classroom, and are well aware of their good fortune in obtaining the services of Prof. Childs as their instructor. The class will meet each Wednesday night for two-hour period.

Dr. Baxter told the group that Dr. Harold Stonier, national educational director of the American Institute of Banking, who plans on being in Salem some time in the near future, was at one time his fellow worker, they having both been members of the faculty of the University of Southern California in years past.

The registration includes 29 students from the Ladd & Bush Bank, and eight from the Salem Branch, United States National Bank of Portland, while the First National Bank of Portland is represented by five members of its Salem Branch, three from Woodburn, and one from Stayton, making a total enrollment of 46 members, 43 of whom answered to the first roll call.
