Episcopal Bishop Given new Power

Presiding Head Accorded Actual Leadership by Convention's Vote

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church voted informally late today to turn over the administrative reins of the denomination to its presiding bishop, who already is the spiritual leader.

The action, taken in committee of the whole, must be confirmed later by the house in regular session, probably Tuesday.

The house of deputies at the general convention began a warm debate on a recommendation to liberalize the church marriage and divorce laws.

The house of bishops also decided in committee the presiding bishop, now elected for a six-year term, should hold his office until he reaches the age of 70, and took steps toward selecting a see for him.

Argument over the question of marriage and divorce in the house of deputies precipitated such applause the presiding officer admonished the delegates against demonstrations.

Amendments were offered to prohibit marriage absolutely after divorce as well as to wipe out all restrictions on remarriage.

Governor Martin said the trip was to be "fact finding" in order to get first hand information.

27 Boys Going to Camp at Cascadia

Twenty seven Marion county youths will leave Salem at 1 p. m. Thursday for Cascadia to be enrolled in the CCC camp named after that resort.

A truck from the camp will call for them at the county relief offices here at that hour. The relief committee has another assignment of enrollees available yet this month. Glenn C. Niles, executive secretary, said, but the exact number of positions to be filled has not been definitely decided upon.

Youths interested in enrolling for the winter period may apply at Niles' office, 357 North High street. The second group will be assigned to the Belknap Springs camp.

Marble Handlers In Great Demand

The boom in the marble setting trade occasioned by construction of the new postoffice and state capitol buildings in Salem threatens to exhaust the supply of experienced workmen available in Oregon, Manager D. D. Dotson of the state employment office commented here yesterday. He received half a dozen orders yesterday for marble setters or helpers.

There were few qualified marble setters in or near Salem available to start with and they have all been hired, Dotson said. The orders are now going to Portland and reports coming to him are that if many more calls are received, they will have to be directed to the employment service outside the state. The public works and employment service rules provide that residents of Salem and vicinity shall be called first, then those of the state outside the local office's territory, before non-resident tradesmen may be assigned to the local jobs.

Convention Goers Invited to Oregon

Palmateer Reveals Plans for LA Meet; Head of Auxiliary Speaks

Thousands of American Legion members from the east, south and middle west will head westward for the national convention in Los Angeles next year, and it will be a community service project of the legion in Oregon to convince as many as possible of these tourists to make Oregon a part of their itinerary.

This was the announcement of O. E. "Moose" Palmateer, Oregon department commander of the legion, in a talk at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon Monday noon. He declared that Community service will be the slogan of the legion through the year of administration. He hopes to have an "Oregon Open House" at the national convention, and a delegation of 1000 from Oregon.

Describing the national convention in New York City, Palmateer said the big town was "tied up" for four days during which the only way to get across it was by subway or elevated—no surface travel was possible. But during the 18 1/2-hour parade, police had the crowd of three million persons who witnessed it under such perfect control that no one got past the street curbs except on official business.

See Trouble Ahead Among the notables—Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of War Woodring, President Green of the American Federation of Labor, Herbert Hoover, the governors of several states and the mayors of several large cities—who addressed the convention, nearly all saw dangerous times facing the world and looked to the legion to help pull American through them, Palmateer declared.

The convention's platform in this connection included adequate national defense, maintenance of strict neutrality and the plank for which the legion has been working for 14 years, universal service in case of war.

Martin no Foe of Pension Age Drop

Wharton Denies Charge of Roth That Governor Opposes Change

Wallace C. Wharton, executive secretary to Governor Charles H. Martin yesterday sent a letter to Representative Paul E. Roth of Multnomah county, denying the latter's recent statement in which he charged that Governor Martin was not in favor of reducing the limit for old age assistance from 70 to 65 years at the last legislative session.

"Your letter to Governor Martin dated October 9 was received in his absence and will be called to his attention on his return," Wharton wrote.

"In the meantime, permit me to say that Governor Martin at the time of making up the 1937-38 budget by the state budget division issued instructions in July, 1936, to conduct a thorough examination of the state's finances to the end that the age limit for old age assistance be reduced to 65 as soon as possible keeping in mind the additional tax burden to be placed upon the counties.

"Inasmuch as this was six months before the legislature convened this does not indicate that the governor was at all times opposed to the reduction of the old age limit as your statement indicates.

"I believe that if you will confer with members of the ways and means committee you will find that they are in accord that the program submitted an enacted reducing the age limit to 65 as of January 1, 1938, was prepared jointly by the budget division and the state relief committee."

Idahoans 'Assist' Martin, Fehl Suit

The Boise chamber of commerce yesterday sent to Governor Charles H. Martin $50,000 of so-called "Koo Koo" money, issued by the "Idaho Marches On" celebration, to be used by the executive in defending the $548,000 damage suit recently filed against him by Earl H. Fehl, ex-Jackson county judge.

"If this is not sufficient more money will be available," the chamber wrote.

Institution Fuel Shed Is WPA Job

A WPA crew of eight men yesterday began construction of a $7,000 hog fuel shed for the state at Fairview home. It was announced at the work relief offices here. The shed will have concrete walls and a roof supported by steel trusses. The WPA will bear $3725 of the cost.

Two old projects were also resumed yesterday, one landscaping of Champoeck park and the other, improvement of Salem Indian school streets at Chemawa.

Jury Finds Hurley Guilty; Fine $250

Suspended Sentence Given Also but Appeal Is to Be Taken

WEST SALEM—Alton D. Hurley of Salem, tried by a jury in municipal court here today on a charge of drunken driving, was found guilty.

City Recorder Pattison, trial judge, assessed a fine of $250 and costs and sentenced Hurley to 30 days in the county jail, with the jail sentence suspended on condition that Hurley does not drive a car for a period of one year.

W. W. McKinney, attorney for Hurley, said after the trial today that appeal would be taken to higher court.

In the companion case of Mrs. June Cooley, arrested at the same time as Hurley and both of whom were alleged to be driving the same car at the same time as they were picked up by Bob Mauch, arresting officer, the court also handed down sentence today. Mrs. Cooley was found guilty by a jury last week, but sentence was held up pending outcome of the case against Hurley.
