Recent Strikes for Power of few And not for Betterment of Wage Earner; Speakers Assert to IEU

SILVERTON—That none of the recent strikes were for the betterment of the wage earner, either by lowering working hours or raising wages, declared two speakers, Walter Smith and O. F. Anderson, at a mass labor meeting called here Monday night by the Industrial Employees union. They were simply, the speakers emphasized, for the benefit of the power of a half dozen men. The majority of men, it was explained, who went on strike wanted to vote.

"John Lewis," said Anderson, "has no right to pull men off their jobs in Portland, Sacramento or Seattle. The only reason for a strike is for the betterment of workers if workers are dissatisfied with conditions locally. Then no one but those immediately concerned in that locality has any right to have anything to do with it."

Lewis Machine Political Lewis has no labor organization, the speakers insisted, only a political machine. They urged the American people to wake up and face the grave situation before this country "became as Italy, Germany and Russia."

"If," said Anderson, "this country hadn't been asleep, the Wagner act wouldn't have been passed. Worse will happen if the people do not soon wake up. The Wagner act has come nearer making this country one of communism than anything we have had for a long time."

He also said that "the American Federation of Labor is one of the most perfect machines of destruction and economic warfare this country has even seen."
