

No Armistice Seen in Labor

AFL-CIO Parley Next Week Probably Will Fail, Is Observers' Opinion

By JOSEPH L. MILLER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Labor leaders say next week's peace conference between the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization probably will fail.

In their private conversations, leaders in both camps say the negotiations may be continuing for a long time. Proposals and counter proposals to end labor's bitter civil war probably will be made. Long recesses may be taken.

But these leaders say there is little likelihood of peace while each side is celebrating victories in battle. One AFL official said recently "wait until one side or the other starts sliding downhill fast; then we'll have peace."

"AFL Surrender Wanted" Lewis' closing remarks at the CIO Atlantic City meeting last week indicated the attitude which the rebel committee will carry into the conference. He said:

"If the AFL officials choose to lay aside their weapons and join the CIO in working out a program of unity, 'tis well."
"If they elect not to do so, the responsibility for that decision will be upon their heads and their shoulders."
"But the CIO will go on—it will go on working out its own destiny, and its destiny is to make true some of the dreams of its millions of members."
When the Federation agreed to the peace conference, AFL leaders decided not to talk for publication about their attitude or what their proposals would be.

CIO Surrender Wanted
From a source close to the Federation's executive council, however, it was learned that the dominant faction in the council wanted no peace without a complete CIO surrender. This faction, it was said, felt Lewis was licked.

If Lewis refuses to disband the CIO, and if the dominant AFL craft union leaders refuse to stand for unqualified industrial unionism in the mass production industries, the peace conference probably will end in short order.

Some leaders suggested, however, that each side might offer a compromise.

If the peace conference comes to naught, both sides are ready to intensify the war.

Doneys to Visit Salem This Week

Dr. and Mrs. Carl G. Doney are expected to arrive in Salem

Grid Scores

(By the Associated Press)

Stanford 13, Washington 7.
Brigham Young 10, Portland 13.
Oregon State 14, Oregon 0.
Washington State 3, UCLA 0.
Southern California 6, California 20.
College of the Pacific 7, Nevada 2.
San Diego State 20, New Mexico 0.
Amherst 12, Wesleyan 2.
Army 47, Washington U. (St. Louis) 7.
Bates 7, Maine 0.
Detroit 14, Boston college 0.
Western Reserve 7, Boston U. 0.
Bowdoin 30, Colby 0.
Buffalo 13, Kent State 0.
Duke 13, Colgate 0.
North Carolina 6, Connecticut State 15, Trinity 0.
Dickinson 18, Delaware 0.
Drexel 12, Juniata 0.
Fordham 7, Texas Christian 6.
Franklin & Marshall 12, Penn. State 0.
Alabama 19, George Washington 0.
Allegheny 3, Grove City 0.
Dartmouth 20, Harvard 2.
Johns Hopkins 13, Haverford 12.
Hobart 13, City College of N. Y. 7.
Holy Cross 6, Western Maryland 0.
Gettysburg 19, Lehigh 6.
New Hampshire 34, Vermont 0.
Lafayette 13, New York U. 0.
Niagara 19, St. Lawrence 0.
Georgetown 0, Pennsylvania 0.
Pittsburgh 21, Wisconsin 0.
Princeton 6, Rutgers 0.
Providence 9, Springfield 6.
Hamilton 16, Rochester 0.
Williams 13, Tufts 0.
Rensselaer Poly. Union 6.
Mahlenberg 6, Ursinus 0.
West Virginia 6, Waynesburg 0.
Villanova 21, Bucknell 0.
Worcester Poly 14, Massachusetts State 0.
Yale 9, Cornell 0.
Geneva 6, Westminster 6.

Midwest

Notre Dame 9, Navy 7.
Olio State 7, Northwestern 0.
Michigan 7, Iowa 6.
Indiana 27, Cincinnati 0.
Kansas State 15, Creighton 7.
Wheaton 7, Elmhurst 6.
Lake Forest 13, James Millikin 0.
Kalamazoo 26, Hope 0.
Akron 7, Baldwin-Wallace 0.
Alma 12, Olivet 0.
DePauw 13, Evenville 0.
Earlham 18, Franklin 13.
Wabash 25, Rose Poly 0.
Ball State 12, Hanover 0.
Carroll 27, Lawrence 7.
Cornell (Ia.) college 12, Ripon 0.

Willamette Valley League

Independence . . . 3	W	L	T	Pct.
Silverton 3	0	0	1.000
West Linn 3	1	0	.750
Woodburn 2	1	1	.500
Dallas 2	1	0	.667
Newberg 2	1	0	.667
Mollala 0	3	0	.000
Canby 0	3	0	.000

SILVERTON — Independence maintained its lead in the Willamette Valley league this week-end by defeating Mollala 20 to 0 while Woodburn toppled from the tie at the top when West Linn won 20 to 13.

This leaves Silverton and West Linn within shooting distance of first place with Woodburn a little the worse for her tie with Newberg a week ago.

Pep Not Excessive
Silverton failed to show much pep against Canby but won 25 to 13. Dallas defeated Newberg 14 to 7.

The big game of the coming weekend will be Independence at Silverton. Should Silverton manage to down Independence, Silverton will be in a place to try for tops in the league.

Other games for this week are Woodburn at Dallas, Canby at West Linn and Newberg at Mollala.

Independence and Silverton to Vie

First Place Is at Stake With West Linn Also Crowding Leader

WILLAMETTE VALLEY LEAGUE

Independence . . . 3	W	L	T	Pct.
Silverton 3	0	0	1.000
West Linn 3	1	0	.750
Woodburn 2	1	1	.500
Dallas 2	1	0	.667
Newberg 2	1	0	.667
Mollala 0	3	0	.000
Canby 0	3	0	.000

SILVERTON — Independence maintained its lead in the Willamette Valley league this week-end by defeating Mollala 20 to 0 while Woodburn topped from the tie at the top when West Linn won 20 to 13.

This leaves Silverton and West Linn within shooting distance of first place with Woodburn a little the worse for her tie with Newberg a week ago.

Pep Not Excessive
Silverton failed to show much pep against Canby but won 25 to 13. Dallas defeated Newberg 14 to 7.

The big game of the coming weekend will be Independence at Silverton. Should Silverton manage to down Independence, Silverton will be in a place to try for tops in the league.

Other games for this week are Woodburn at Dallas, Canby at West Linn and Newberg at Mollala.

Army's Comeback Proves Effectual

WEST POINT, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Army, trimmed by Yale a week ago, took revenge of a sort by overwhelming the Washington university Bears of St. Louis, 47 to 7, on a rain-pelted field here today.

It never was a contest, though the boys from the west undoubtedly did their dead-level best. Coach Gar Davidson of the Cadets sent in all the substitutes he could lay hand on, yet it still wasn't a contest.

It wasn't an ideal day for golf, but a goodly number of the physicians and surgeons who had been attending the state medical society convention here turned out Saturday afternoon to participate in the convention tournament on the Salem Golf club course.

Due to the "Oregon mist," no spectacular scores were turned in. Dr. D. C. Burkes of Portland won the big cup which had been hung up for log gross, turning in an 84. His low net of 72 was also good for first place and his medical kit awarded in that connection. Dr. Vern Miller of Salem, with a handicap of 11, shot a gross of 86 and was second in both of those contests.

There were also a number of prizes for closest tee shot to some of the par three holes, longest drive and similar marks of excellence, which were rather widely distributed among the contestants. Taking it all together, the tournament was a success and the visiting medical men enjoyed it.

The Salem Golf club's annual fall tournament is all over except for the first flight which has practically not played at all. We expect they'll get together in a gangsome first sunshiny Saturday or Sunday when there isn't an all-absorbing football game conflicting, and get it over with.

Anderson Favors Boycott on Japan

ASTORIA, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The United States must "stop playing a lone hand and cooperate with Britain and France in whatever steps are needed to stop Japan," Dr. Elam Anderson, Linfield college president, told 400 teachers in convention here yesterday.

Dr. Anderson declared an economic boycott will halt Nippon's efforts to seize China.

Pitt to Frown on Athletic Subsidy

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The University of Pittsburgh announced tonight a revised athletic policy which Athletic Director James Hagan said "is designed to bring football to a proper plane in relation to other college educational activities."

The new policy "reserves the right to secure employment for students with athletic ability on the same basis such help is given to other university students" but opposes outright athletic subsidies.

It also declares after existing contracts expire, Pitt will play no more than nine games, but all with major opponents. The season will not open until the first Saturday in October beginning in 1940 and "warmup" games will be eliminated.

McEntyre Dies at 101; Said Oldest Oregon Resident

MEDFORD, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Phyllander McEntyre, 101, reputed to have been Oregon's oldest resident, died here today of a cold and ailments incident to extreme old age.

McEntyre was born near Urbana, Ohio, December 24, 1835, and had resided in Jackson and Josephine counties for the past 37 years. The past 10 years he has been ward of Dr. C. T. Sweeney of Medford.

McEntyre's oft expressed philosophy of life was: "More people should follow the Bible, than each other." McEntyre spent most of his life as a laborer throughout the nation and as farmland. He was employed by Dr. Sweeney in this capacity for many years.

Ten years ago, McEntyre retired to a home and acre of ground provided by his benefactor.

Yale Heading for Ivy League Title

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Yale overcame Cornell's gal-

Linn Delinquency Reaches new Low

ALBANY, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Linn county tax delinquency today reached a new low—so far as the memory of incumbent officials is concerned.

Nearly 75 per cent of the 1937 roll has been collected, County Clerk R. M. Russell said. More than two months remain before final payments are due. Last year, considered exceptional and one that yielded the county a surplus of more than $200,000 in all funds because of lowered delinquencies, was only 68 per cent collected on a corresponding date.

The clerk said the 1936 delinquency is now less than 9 per cent. Linn county has been in debt for more than a decade, but its financial condition at the present time is far better than ever before, within the knowledge of the county clerk.

Religious Courses Proving Popular

The Monday and Tuesday night classes in religious education being offered as part of the WPA Adult Education program are proving interesting to students. Earl Litwiler, county supervisor. The Monday class provides instruction in Hebrew history, types and biblical evidences. Principal emphasis is placed upon the study of Genesis, Exodus and Leviticus.

The class on Tuesday nights goes on from the work of last year's course and continues with Hebrew history, the book of Numbers and further Old Testament and New Testament studies as well as with Christian evidences through archeology.

Apportionment of School Funds Is Due Next Week

A county school fund apportionment of 65 cents per pupil will be distributed next week, Mary L. Fulkerson, county superintendent, announced yesterday. This payment will constitute the last of the first half of the fund for the year 1936-37.

Get Five Deer

ORCHARD HEIGHTS.—The local deer hunters returned Thursday from Paisley, Lake county, having bagged five deer. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Ammon Grice, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rodgers, Larkin Grice, Jim Bert, Bob Adams, A. A. Withers and O. E. Dorn, Lester Lipsett and James

Three Dallas Girls Are Given Memberships in Phi Kappa Phi at OSC

DALLAS.—Certificate of membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary, were recently awarded three Dallas girls who are attending Oregon State college.

The local girls receiving the awards were: Miss Doris Riggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Riggs; Miss Helen Elle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Elle; and Miss Beulah Budke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Budke.

64th Traffic Fatality For Portland Recorded

PORTLAND, Oct. 23.—(AP)—J. D. Sanford, 50, died today from injuries suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle. His rider was C. E. Munger, who said Sanford was crossing a street against the lights. Police records show 64 traffic deaths during their fiscal year.

Lepley who returned earlier had no luck at all

Lepley who returned earlier had no luck at all.

"The Silver Rood Mystery"

By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

CHAPTER XXX

Mason had quite a dinner for me. I told Sally what had happened. I could guess that Mason was listening on every opportunity, and took care not to say anything that would give away the fact that Morin claimed to be Montie's daughter.

"I don't see how you could resist the temptation to go through those letters, right then and there," Sally said.

"I wanted to take my time, Old Girl," I explained. "I wanted to get the box out here safely, then go through it. I'm betting some of those letters are from Nola Lutzmann—what was that?"

"What? You're getting panicky, Harley. I didn't hear anything."

I got up softly and walked to the arch. One of the portieres swung lightly. Mason was just disappearing into the butler's pantry.

I sat down again with a grin. "I thought I heard some queer sound. It's your perfect, but noisy, butler."

"Why shouldn't he be curious? I don't suppose, in all of his experience, he ever got so close to a crime mystery before."

I finished eating and we went up to the room.

The letter postmarked in Hoboken and dated, quite clearly, "Nov. 12, 1914" would have been enough to knock Morin's claim into forty cocked hats. It was addressed to Nola Lutzmann at a place in New York that was once one of a row of cheap rooming houses. At this time a forty-story block was there.

It was in the same queer handwriting as the letter purporting to be from Mrs. Felder to Nola Morin telling her she was Gerard Montie's daughter.

"Dear Nola," it read. "Your little Nola sends so much love to her mama, wit thanks, and wit kias, for the lovely waxen doll for her three years birthday. It comes jost on time for the ten of the month."

There was a great deal more, some of importance, as proof of Morin's attempted trickery, much that was of no importance; but just that much would have been sufficient.

"Three years back from November ten, 1914, would have been when, Sally?" I cried.

"November ten, 1911, can't you?"

"When Nola Lutzmann got to this country with Mr. Montie and Mrs. Stapleton, it was May, early in May, 1911. Mrs. Stapleton is quite positive of this and has plenty of proof."

"And so—" Sally counted on her fingers, woman-like.

"And so," I said, "since Montie never saw Nola Lutzmann until the first week in May, this Nola Morin is the daughter of the husband Nola Lutzmann ran away from—well, at least, she isn't Montie's daughter."

"That's so, Harley."

"They forged the letters and dates, made it appear that Morin was born on February 10, 1912, which nicely planned the pagitance on Montie—as much as it can be pinned on any man."

"Now," Sally said, "if you can clear up the murder as thoroughly as you have cleared this, all will be well."

I was going through the other papers and letters. Some had belonged to Mrs. Lutzmann and some to her sister, Mrs. Felder. Why both should be in the box in Mrs. Felder's attic I wasn't certain, but decided that Mrs. Lutzmann might have gone back to her sister's when she had her last sickness, bringing her belongings with her.

When, next day, Mrs. Stapleton, myself, and the green box arrived at Judge Wentworth's office, there was considerable excitement as well as rejoicing.

We discussed the situation at length. If Nola Morin and Wilbur Fellows were prosecuted, there would be the publicity that Mrs. Stapleton wanted to avoid. We sent for Mary and, for the first time, acquainted her with what Nola Morin was attempting to do. She was almost overcome with amazement and horror. She was even more anxious than Mrs. Stapleton to avoid publicity.

"The thing to do, if possible," I pointed out, "is to get Morin here quietly, without arousing her suspicions, and to keep Fellows under watch constantly. If that won't work, we can force them to come here together."

"Then what?" Judge Wentworth asked.

"If they will sign a complete confession we can let them go. If not, we shall have to lock them up."

"They will sign. They wouldn't dare let it go to court," the Judge agreed.

"Nola Morin expects to hear from you quite soon; she won't stay up in Atlantic City for long. I will get in touch with Phil at once, also with Sergeant Harper," I told them.

An hour later I was with Sergeant Harper, explaining the whole situation.

"The thing to do," he decided, "is to go after them now. If they get back home, discover that someone has taken the box of evidence, they may blow."

"We wouldn't mind that if we were sure they'd never trouble us, Sergeant."

"Better not take a chance."

I telephoned Phil and learned that Morin and Fellows were still there. It was easier than I thought it would be. Sergeant Harper, with one of his men, went along with me up to Atlantic City and we surprised them in their hotel rooms.

Their attempted bluff didn't last two minutes. Morin was rather cool but Fellows turned gray with fear when I told him that his previous record, and his forgery of some Montie checks, would help to keep him behind bars for twenty years or more.

They came along with us to Greatport and when, it being late, Harper put them in the local jail for safe keeping over night, they were thoroughly frightened and subdued.

Harper and I took them to Judge Wentworth's office the next day. One of Harper's men kept Fellows

POLLY AND HER PALS

Standing Room Only!

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

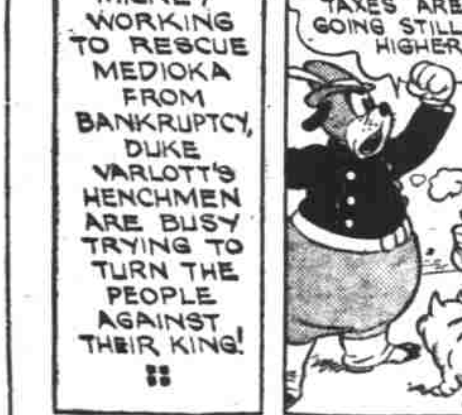

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

MICKEY MOUSE

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

THIMBLE THEATRE

