He to say yesterday regarding the outcome of the election, which drew only 25 per cent of the registered voters to the polls.
Commissioner Leroy Hewlett said he had believed the proposals would carry by a slight majority and added that he did not think the possibility of a new courthouse being built was dead.
"I look for it to come up again in some form or other," Hewlett commented. "No, I haven't any plan in mind."
Commissioner Roy S. Nelson remarked that "at least, the court is not responsible now if something happens to the old building."
No surprise at the election result was expressed by County Judge J. C. Sigmund.
Attention Turns To Need of Repair
The court members agreed that with immediate prospect of a new courthouse being erected now wiped out, consideration should be given to repairing the old one. Judge Sigmund said the tower structure, bearing tons of weight in the form of the bronze statue and the clock, should be inspected and reinforced.
Final unofficial tabulation of the vote showed the following totals for the second, third and fourth questions on the ballot:
Question No. 2, transfer of funds—Yes 3483; no 4354.
Question No. 3, two-mill tax—Yes 3256; no 4476.
Question No. 4, exceeding 6 per cent limitation—Yes 3111; no 4496.

School Boundary Mixup Is Viewed

idents at the time were led to believe a greater amount of land was involved in the boundary change and the result was that at one time citizens residing in one district served as school directors in the other.
Recently it was discovered certain residents of the Sublimity district were sending their children to the Aumsville school. The purpose of the petitions is to change the boundary line in order that these children may continue to attend school at Aumsville.
The Aumsville district petition is signed by Charles L. Martin and 18 others and the Sublimity petition, by Mike Benedict and nine others.
Jury Report Will Not Be Unusual
Any indictments or reports the Marlow county grand jury may return when it reconvenes Friday morning will not be "of an unusual nature," it was reported at the district attorney's office yesterday.
The grand jurors are expected to be in session again next week with routine matters out of the way and "if there is anything of an unusual nature to be taken up, we will consider it at that time," it was indicated.

Stark Sorrow Stalks Streets of Shanghai

Wandering aimlessly in search of safety from the horrors of war, this aged Chinese refugee is pictured asking directions of a Chinese Settlement police-officer in front of the British Consulate General near Shanghai's Garden Bridge. Thousands of natives have been forced to abandon their homes and seek safety elsewhere, many of whom have never ventured out of the neighborhood in which they were born.—H.N. photo.

Eldridge Berry Patch Yielding Ripe Cuthberts

ELDRIDGE—For the past two weeks Pearl Patterson has been picking Cuthbert raspberries on his farm a mile west of the Eldridge schoolhouse on the Wheatland ferry road. 15; The berries, which bring $2 a crate on the market, are of fine quality and if weather continues mild the vines will yield ripe berries until Christmas as there are many green berries now.
Farmers, however, agree that unless there is a slight frost soon, fruit and nut trees throughout the valley will be badly damaged when a severe frost hits the trees that are still growing.

Rumored Raid at Plylock Lacking

PORTLAND, Nov. 3.—(P)—Scattered reports of broken windows and a rumored raid on the Plylock corporation plant at St. Johns, which did not occur, marked Portland's labor war today.
Seventy officers were on hand when AFL Plylock employees left the plant. A mixed assemblage greeted them with jeers but there was no violence.

Hi-Y Dinner Held With 64 Present

The three Hi-Y chapters, 64 strong, dined at the Y last night, listened to sparkling speeches by Supt. Gaiser, superintendent of city schools, and Roy S. "Spec" Keene, Willamette university coach, and made plans for forthcoming events.
Supt. Gaiser and Coach Keene shared the topic "School Spirit." Gaiser pointed out what it was necessary to do in a school as large as Salem high to promote school spirit and friendliness, saying that each would have to make it a personal obligation to meet and be friendly with as many others as possible.
Coach Keene explained to the gathering what an athletic team could do for the school, and what the school could do for an athletic team to promote school spirit. He said that both the school and team had a definite obligation to fulfill in that promotion.
The Hi-Y council met following the dinner, which was attended by Fred Wolf, principal of the high school; Wesley Roeder, leader of the Able Gregg chapter; C. A. Carleton, co-leader of the Harrison Elliott chapter; and Gus Moore and Claude A. Kells, Arthur Cotton chapter leaders, besides Supt. Gaiser, Coach Keene and the three Hi-Y chapters.
The council outlined plans for a pep rally preceding the trek to Eugene by the Vikings next Thursday to play Eugene in the annual Armistice day game. The plans include a huge bonfire and pep parade.
Tentative plans were also drawn up by the council for a father and son banquet to be held two weeks from last night, November 17.

Two Arrested in Counterfeit Case

PORTLAND, Nov. 3.—(P)—Two men booked as Leo F. Darling and Birdsell C. DARRING, brothers, were held for federal officers tonight on charges of counterfeiting.
Detectives Orville Williams and C. H. Robertson, who made the arrests, said they found a complete outfit for the manufacture of spurious dollars in housekeeping rooms occupied by the men.
The search was made after a number of counterfeit coins were found in Birdsell Darling's possession when he was arrested on a drunkenness charge, officers said.

Martin said the administration would "probably unfold its final plans in the next session of congress" and the republicans would then be in a better position to plan the 1940 campaign.
"A convention in January or February, 1938," he said, "might be of real benefit if it were a free convention.... There is no need for premature haste. Like the man at Bunker Hill, we can afford to wait until we see the whites of their eyes before firing."

Franciscovich Is State's Governor

Senator Frank Franciscovich, serving as chief executive during the absence of Governor Charles H. Martin, will arrive here early Monday to preside at a meeting of the state board of control, he advised Secretary of State Snell Wednesday.
Governor Martin crossed the state line late Tuesday enroute to Tulsa, Okla., to attend a reunion of the old 90th division, US army, of which he was in command during the world war.
Franciscovich, by virtue of being president of the state senate, is governor in the absence of the state's regularly elected official.

Oregon Utility Assessment up

$4,000,000 Increase Noted Over 1936 Figures, Tax Commission Report

Public utility assessments in Oregon for the year 1937 aggregated $169,417,114.04 as against $156,432,247.58 for 1936, the state tax commission announced yesterday. This is an increase of approximately $4,000,000.
The apportioned value of power companies shows an increase of $2,958,000 over 1936 or $2,984,000 after allowing for reclassification of the Oregon Electric as a steam railroad.
Groups receiving lesser increases were express companies and car companies. Telegraph, telephone, water and gas companies were but slightly less than last year. There was no change in aircraft assessments from 1936.
PGE Rise Largest
The largest increase of dollars for power companies involved the Portland General Electric company which was about twice that of the Northwestern Electric company. The largest percentage increase was the West Coast Power company. Other percentage increases, in their order, involved the Northwestern Electric company, California-Oregon Power company, Eastern Oregon Light and Power company and the Mountain States Power company.
Increases over last year ranged from 12 percent to between 3 and 4 percent.
The largest increases in dollars affecting railroads involved the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Oregon Trunk, Central Pacific and Oregon Short Line.
Portland Improvements Less
The greatest improvement made by power companies included those serving the coast and interior sections of Oregon rather than the Portland area.
Railroads showing the most improvement were the Great Northern and Oregon Trunk, both in eastern Oregon. The Oregon Electric made the poorest showing.
Hearings disclosed that the net earnings of railroads probably would be less in 1937 than in 1936 due to increased costs of labor, materials and taxes.

Five Killed in Air Collision

Naval Amphibian's Crew All Lost; Get no Time to Use Parachutes watched the collision from his office window.

"Both were circling and suddenly they came toward each other, head on," he said. "Both planes, it seemed to me, went into power dives, each pilot trying to get under the other."
"They came together with a terrific crash. The wings of the big plane seemed to fold back and her pontoons fell off. Great pieces of fabric ripped from both planes and were wafted out into the sky."
"The small plane fell like a plummet, with no spin. Almost as it started falling, one man bailed out with a parachute. A moment later the second man leaped likewise. They floated down slowly."
"The big plane went into a full spin after the crash," he said. "It must have been 10 minutes before all the pieces of floating fabric reached the ground."
Parachutes still were strapped to the bodies of the five men when they were taken from the tangled jumble of wreckage. Witnesses said the amphibian crew had no opportunity to bail out.

Molly no Villain Jurors Conclude

SEATTLE, Nov. 3.—(P)—Molly the cow, variously described as a bovine "Jekyll and Hyde" and as a "he" who "snarled," was found to be no such thing by a superior court jury today.
The jury, in less time than it takes a novice to perch on a milk stool, and stay on it—found that Mrs. Amelia Schwab was not entitled to $4000 or any damages for injuries and indignities she said she received when Molly assertedly bore her to the ground and rolled her around.
Mrs. Schwab had sued Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Penozo, former owners of Molly, for $4000. The Penozas since have sold Molly.
In Mrs. Schwab's testimony, she caused Superior Judge Malcolm Douglas' eyebrows to rise when she consistently referred to Molly as "he" and said "he snarled" at her.
The Penozas and 10 character witnesses they marshaled in behalf of Molly, insisted the cow was a lady.

Property Owners Seen by Banfield

Harry Banfield of the capitol reconstruction commission was in Salem Wednesday interviewing persons whose property is desired by the state for construction of the new state library and office building and the north approach to the capitol on Summer street.
It was reported that he would talk with Chief Justice Henry Bean of the supreme court and Louis Lachmund, whose homes on Cook street east of Summer street. This property is not in the block on which the new building will be placed, but is desired for the widening of the Summer street approach.

Governor Martin Receives Honor

Governor Charles H. Martin yesterday was accorded a new honor when he received the degree of bachelor of science in the United States military academy at West Point.
The degree was issued by the academic board over the signature of Major General William D. Connor, superintendent and commander of the academy, and Lieutenant Colonel Thurston Hughes, secretary of the board.
Until the act of congress approved in July, 1937, graduates of the United States military and naval academies received no recognition in the way of academic proficiency except commissions in their respective services. Under provisions of the new act graduates of both academies become bachelors of science.
