"Trouble at Midnight" Is Story of Fight Upon Cattle Rustlers

A rapidly moving story about cattle rustlers who organize as efficiently as city gangsters and steal vast herds of cattle through the use of swift trucks, "Trouble at Midnight" is offered today at Mickey Mouse with Noah Beery, Jr., Larry Blake, Catherine Hughes and Bernadene Hayes in the leading roles.

"Trouble at Midnight" tells of the reverence of Kirk Cameron, (Noah Beery, Jr.) for the memory of his brother, and of the manner in which Beery enlists the aid of fellow dairymen to fight thieves who are stealing cattle in the dead of night.

Opposed to Beery in his colorful fight is Charles Halton, the father of the girl, Catherine Hughes, with whom Beery is in love. Included in the plot is one mysterious ex-army sergeant, played by Larry Blake, whose skilled use of any manner of gun creates suspicion in the farming community where he allies himself with Beery to battle the rustlers.

The picture rises to its climax in a pitched battle at midnight when the leader of the gang is captured. The movie was filmed on large picturesque cattle ranches in southern California, or terrain similar to northern Illinois, the locale of the story.

Action Filled Feature Today

There probably isn't much action in this scene, however there are plenty of G-men thrills in the special Mickey Mouse feature "Trouble at Midnight," starring Noah Beery, Jr., Larry Blake and Catherine Hughes.

The door bell rang, soap was sizzled on the window panes, kiddies snickering. This was what I heard and saw Hallowe'en. Yes, it's a great event that every boy and girl looks forward to each year.

In a local restaurant a fellow came in and before he ate he dusted off his plate. "What's the idea," remarked the waiter. "Never mind," said the fellow, "I'm an umpire."

Very soon our able pianist, Marion "Met" Draper, will shove off for Hawaii, where he will spend a few months in relaxation and fun. I'm telling you, that's what you get for working in the canneries—enough money to take a vacation.

"Skip" Spooner couldn't get a deer this season so he is resorting to duck hunting. He has spent nearly two weeks in building a hideaway spot where he can get an easy shot at the poor little ducks.

Probably this is old news, but this is how Leslie beat Parrish in that exciting football game. It is understood that Fred Andrews, our Mickey Mouse crooner, who is also a member of the Little squad, sang a popular song in the middle of a Parrish run and the runner, wondering what the noise was, dropped the ball to hear dear little Freddie's voice. Therefore honors should be given Fred for singing such a song that would make a ball carrier stop in the middle of his run to listen to the crooning. Nat said.

Last week's program was short and sweet and consisted of the following people: Juanita Weichert from Barbara Barnes, Virginia, Elizabeth Steed and Max Holt, Jackie Williams, and Jerry Cottow and Cleve Bartlett. M. M. C. As a special Mickey Mouse feature Manager Carl Porter has booked "Trouble at Midnight," plus the regular attraction "The Bride Wore Red," with Joan Crawford, also cartoon, serial and the latest news of the day. See you at 1 o'clock. BILL, Mickey Mouse Chief.
