Here 'tis, and could be entitled "Perry's Last Stand": "Bend plays Oregon City tomorrow for the mythical state high school football championship, and, it is generally agreed Oregon City will wish she hadn't. Salem sport scribes now allow it is just as well Salem did not tangle with the Lava Bears - as far as the title hopes of Salem are concerned it is just as well. The Bend team is just as good as the Medford squad, coached by Prink Callison, that smacked Salem 59 to 0, or some such outlandish score. The sad news will be at hand, before the upstate scribblers can think up further argument. A fan recently Bearcat Coach Spec Keene a suggestion that would aid in taking some of the fumble-itis out of, and would tend to speed up, football games played on boggy gridirons in the northwest. Says the "fan": "Why not have a man with a towel stationed on each sideline to relieve the officials of the job of wiping off the ball, and use two footballs? Every three or four plays, or as often as necessary, the referee could exchange the muddy ball for one that had been thoroughly wiped. This would keep a reasonably dry ball in play at all times and possibly take much of the raggedness out of the game. An official does not, of course, have time to clean the ball thoroughly between plays."-The suggestion has merit, and to supelement it, let's have two "sideliners" of the Al Schacht-ish variety, so they can put on cross-field clown stunts during

The crowd of 40,000 was thrown into an uproad of excitement when Tonelli, Husky fullback, suddenly broke loose from Notre Dame's 17 and raced 70 yards before he was brought down 13 yards short of the goal. Two plays later he smashed eight yards over the line for the touchdown that gave Notre Dame a glorious finish to its 1937 campaign, with six victories in nine games. It was a fitting climax for the 50th anniversary of Notre Dame football, for the Irish had made a brilliant comeback after having been pushed around the field for two periods, outplayed by the Trojans. Southern California held a 6 to 0 lead at the half as the result of a touchdown pass tossed by Grenville Landsdell to Gene Hibbs in the second period. But when the Irish broke loose in the second half, they were entirely too shifty and blocked too perfectly for the Californians. Andy Puplis broke away for a 58-yard touchdown run to tie the score in the third period and then Tonelli came through with his long, snakey runs.

German Meets Harry Elliott

Von Hoffman Is Moved up to Main Event: Polite Gestures Resented

Old imperial Germany's goateed, bemonocled mat meanie de luxe, Baron von Hoffman-the fella with the smart, military heel click and stiff-waisted bow for every remonstrance of the ring's third man-is billed against the recipient of most of those polite bows, Harry Elliott, in Tuesday night's mat thriller at the armory.

Elliott, the "rasslin' ref," has become exceedingly perturbed, according to Promoter Owen, at being unable to get the Baron to desist from his unorthodox ring manners while refereeing matches in which the Baron has participated, so is bent on giving the German some "Yankee" instructions in ring etiquette.

Harry Is Backed

Von Hoffman has succeeded in gaining the unanimous hate of Salem mat fans, one of whom actually took a whole-hearted swing Dons Dropped by at the militaristic one as he left the ring last week, and although the crowd will undoubtedly be "with" Elliott, the belief is rampant, that the debonair referee won't be able to withstand the unorthodox tactics employed by the Baron.
