Glamorous Autumn Brings Forth Smart Styles

The most truly glamorous of all American seasons is the late fall, and it is during this time that the social whirl results in display of many new and brilliant designs. Simone Simon is wearing a new winter print, considerable of an innovation as far as styles go. White butterflies stand out against a wine-colored background and the high schoolboy collar and long sleeves add an unusual touch. Luxuriant formality is mirrored in every line of the silk and wool beige dress which Barbara Stanwyck is modeling. It has a shirred bodice caught into a high-waisted belt and the skirt fits snugly over the hips, flaring down from there. The draped cape has a high standing collar of cross fox. For more formal evenings the creation chosen by June Lang is most striking. It is a youthful waltz frock of iridescent moiré-taffeta cut with wide, pointed front lapels. The skirt is ankle-length.
