of this menace." Safety Director Eliot Ness said the inquiry "is only beginning."

Conviction on today's indictments, brought under state extortion statutes, would bring sentences of one to 25 years for the defendants, all representatives of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

DETROIT, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The city of Dearborn was upheld today by Federal Judge Edward J. Molloy in its controversy with the United Automobile Workers of America over distribution of literature at the gates of the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co.

In upholding the legality of a traffic ordinance which makes the area adjacent to the Ford plant a prohibited zone for hawkers, vendors and distributors, the court held that regardless of whom it affected it was the right and the duty of Dearborn police to enforce any law or ordinance deemed necessary for the protection of the property. Judge Molloy declared the right of free press had not been denied.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(AP)—An independent union, in the first elections ever held by the national labor relations board for employees of a power utility, won over the CIO today in a vote to determine the collective bargaining representative of the physical forces of the Pacific Gas & Electric company.

Mrs. Alice M. Rosseter, regional director of the labor relations board, announced the following results: California Gas & Electric Employees' union, 3,500; CIO United Electrical & Radio Workers, 2,254.

Shortly after the result was reported, the CIO union announced it had filed a complaint with the labor board accusing the company of "coercion," and asserting the election result did not represent the wishes of the company workers.

Holman Points to Democracy Perils

must beware of the ambitions of those who seek leadership, while lacking the moral courage to assume the personal hazards and responsibilities which true leadership demands.

"This is no time for men who seek votes rather than espouse principles; who trim their sails to every wind that blows, and temporize with the sinister forces that are undermining our government today."

Holman declared that persons who commit personal violence, or trespass on private property, or obstruct traffic in public streets, or highways should be suppressed promptly by the constituted authorities; and urged citizens who witness acts of intimidation or violence or disorder to report the same to public authorities.

Holman also warned against financial excesses which bring the ruin of public credit, saying, "If governments will not hold their expenditures within the limits of their revenues, disaster, both to the government and to the people is inevitable."

PORTLAND, Dec. 21.—(AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the republican national committee, told party leaders here tonight a definite decline in President Roosevelt's popularity "started with the supreme court fight, continued through attempts to usurp the power of the whole government and grew through the continued increase in the cost of living."

4 Road Petitions Filed With Court

Bunker Hill, Hubbard and Mission Bottom Areas Are Represented

Four road petitions were filed with the county court yesterday by residents of the Bunker Hill, Mission Bottom and Hubbard districts.

The Helms estate and 27 other owners offered labor and the use of teams if the court would improve the Bunker Hill road as a standard graveled county road from the J. W. Bolding farm to the South River road intersection, a distance of less than one-half mile. The petition says the road referred to is at present impassable during the winter.

Removal of the stop sign at the junction of the Wheatland ferry road and the Salem-St. Paul road at McNary's corners was urged in a petition signed by Mrs. V. O. Keeley and 25 others. After the sign was torn up several times the county court ordered the present one embedded in concrete.

Another petition from the same vicinity, signed by Theodore Jelander and 11 others asked that the market road through Mission Bottom north from the hill to the St. Paul-Newberg highway be either oiled or otherwise surfaced next summer.

C. C. Helfer and others submitted a petition for the development of a 375-yard road in the Dimick tract near Hubbard as a county road to serve eight families.

New Citizens Are Guests at Dinner

Thirty members of the YMCA citizenship class who recently received their state citizenship papers were honored at a turkey dinner in the Y Saturday night.

Col. Charles Abrams, chairman of the education committee, expressed deep appreciation for the faithful work carried on for many years by C. A. Kells, general secretary of the Y, in conducting these classes. The speaker also gave an inspirational talk concerning United States citizenship and the freedom which it entails, differing from the privileges of citizenship in any other country. His emphasis was that freedom and citizenship should not be confused.

J. J. Fitzsimmons was another speaker. Musical numbers included a Norwegian song by Selma Hanson, a solo by William Dunville, Jr., with C. E. Wheeler as accompanist, and the singing of the national anthem of the countries from which several of the new citizens came.

Final Rites Held Here for Coshow

Funeral services for the late Oliver P. Coshow, ex-member of the state supreme court, who died here Saturday night were held Monday afternoon.

Members of the supreme court acted as honorary pallbearers. The body was taken last night to Roseburg where grave services will be held at 1:30 p. m. today.

previously made by American naval officers and British, American and Italian civilian survivors of the attack December 12.

The army version not only was at variance with that of the survivors and the Tokyo foreign office but contradicted itself.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The United States government reaffirmed today a policy of maintaining protection for Americans in the Sino-Japanese war zone.

Answering a letter from Senator Smathers (D-NJ), who favored the withdrawal of American ships and citizens from the dangerous zone, Secretary of State Hull said the present "does not seem an opportune moment."

The secretary asserted that the government long had expected to withdraw American ships and citizens from the far east, but only "when their appropriate function is no longer called for."

"In a situation such as now prevails," he wrote Senator Smathers, "many of our nationals cannot suddenly disavow, or cut themselves off from the past, nor can the American government suddenly disavow its obligations and responsibilities."

A new demand for withdrawal of American ships and troops came from Representative Cannon (D-Wis.) in a radio address tonight.

He charged that the American gunboat Pansy was not carrying refugees at the time it was sunk by Japanese airplanes, but was "protecting the property of the Standard Oil company and conveying their oil boats through the line of fire."

Newman Heads Chamber, 1938

Christmas Message Given by Baxter Based Upon Bethlehem Visits

Barkley A. Newman was elected president of the Salem chamber of commerce for 1938 when the annual election was held at Monday's luncheon. He will take office, succeeding W. W. Chadwick, at the first meeting in January. There will be no chamber luncheon next week.

Clifford Harold was elected vice-president, Silas Gaiser, secretary, and Leif Bergavik, treasurer. Department heads who will also serve as directors were elected as follows:

Harry Scott, social; H. L. Stiff, civic; E. H. Bingenheimer, industrial; Reynolds Allen, legislative; Percy Blundell, agricultural; Tella of Bethlehem.

President Bruce R. Baxter of Willamette university was the speaker Monday, presenting a Christmas message based upon his own visits to Bethlehem and the legends he heard recounted there.

The fact that the three wise men were led to Jesus' birthplace by the best knowledge of their day, might be an apologetic attitude by modern observers of religion while forgetting that they are realms into which science does not extend, Dr. Baxter said.

The mention that there was "no room in the inn" for Joseph and Mary might also provide a thought for modern observers of Christmas, for whom the gift-giving custom crowds out the religious significance, the speaker mentioned.

Salvation Army's Receipts Are low

More needy people and two-thirds less money to provide for them, such is the picture presented by the Salvation Army as Christmas approaches, with only a scattering tinkle of coins into the kettles the Army has placed, in accordance with its custom, on downtown streets in Salem.

Adjutant J. Allen reports that the receipts of the street kettles are two-thirds reduced from the figures of a year ago, and unless they improve, it will be impossible to meet the demands made upon the Army at Christmas time.

It was pointed out that although the Army was one of the participating agencies in the Community Chest, the normal receipts from the kettles were deducted from the Army's budget as approved by the chest committee.

200 Employees to Start UCIC Work

Approximately 200 persons will be employed in the claims and employment divisions of the state unemployment compensation commission here January 1, T. Morris Dunne, member of the commission declared Monday.

First payment of claims under the act will be made late in January, he said.

Examinations involving service accountants and claim deputies have been completed and examinations for claim clerks as typists and stenographers, will be held January 3.

All original assignments to positions will be temporary pending completion of permanent service records.

Administrative offices of the commission are located in the old Salem high school building.

Rotary Troop to Hold Investiture

Rotary troop No. 1, Boy Scouts, will hold an investiture ceremony tonight at the Rotary hut on the Leslie junior high school grounds. There will be eight new members installed under the direction of B. B. Ruel Richards, scoutmaster. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock and parents and interested friends are invited to attend.

The new members are James Richardson, James Mehloff, James Baker, Wilmer Graham, Robert Mack, Dean Ray, Quinton Nelson and Kenneth Wolfe. Other troop members taking part in the candlelight service are Charles Baker, Burrell Birch, Donald Clark, Charles Johnson, Jack Pollock, Byron Ray and Robert Tompkins. Stunts and demonstrations will also be put on by the troop.

Ballot Title Suit Slated Wednesday

The suit of the Oregon Merchants Legislative league contesting the ballot title on its initiative measure to legalize virtually all forms of gambling and lotteries will be heard by the state supreme court Wednesday, it was announced yesterday.

The league charged that the ballot title prepared by Van Winkle was "unfair, false and partial."

Carl Hogg Heads Business League

Anti-Racketeering Work in Past Year Is Reported, Resolutions Passed

At a meeting of the Business Men's league, held last evening at the chamber of commerce, Carl Hogg was elected president for the year 1938, Clarence J. Hamilton, vice president, and C. E. Wilson, secretary and treasurer.

Directors elected were Frank Chatas, Floyd M. White, Donald J. Madison, Clifford E. Farmer and Ira J. Pitts.

Philip H. Holmes, president of the league for 1937, reported on the work done during the year to prevent various racketeering and especially that of out of town advertising solicitors.

The league went on record as opposed to soliciting of any kind by telephone. It also urged business and professional men to demand cards of endorsement by the league from those who had special advertising schemes to present.

Ordinances Studied
The secretary was instructed to write for copies of peddling ordinances from several cities in the valley in order to help the board in its study of an ordinance that would prevent to some extent the great nuisance known as "door bell ringing."

The first meeting of the league will be held early in the year at the call of the new president.

Fight on Freight Increase Opened

PORTLAND, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Representatives of Washington and Oregon commodity groups conferred here today on plans to combat a proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad freight rates at the first meeting of the league.

Spokesmen contended the increase would harm the railroads, threatening destruction to such western industries as turkey growing, and crippling fruit, livestock, and canned goods, and egg production.

"Farmers and stockmen have cut their production costs to a minimum. While the railroads continue to be milked in tens of millions by Wall Street manipulators and by unnecessary duplications of service," Arthur M. Geary, attorney for the farm rate council, said.

Those attending included Solon T. White, Salem, state director of agriculture.

Christmas Safety Urged by Martin

Governor Charles H. Martin yesterday issued a letter urging the citizens of Oregon to cooperate in the nationwide safe Christmas driving program of the national safety council.

The governor said last year's Christmas toll aggregated more than 4290 persons.

"I am sure that all our good citizens will give special thought to safety during the Christmas and New Year seasons, so that tragedy need not mar the joyousness of the holidays," Governor Martin's letter read.

Flood Damage Here Stressed

Major Catastrophe Here Possible, Geologist Says at Hearing

of valley land now good only for pasture would be increased in crop value by $8,000,000, Dr. Warren F. Powers of Oregon State college, pointed out. He said he represented the Oregon reclamation congress and 125 reclamation and drainage districts. He declared three-quarters of a million acres of "wet lands" in the valley could be made to produce $7,500,000 more in crops if they were properly drained and protected from flood overflows.

Lebanon District Reclutters Dangers
Eastern Linn county farmers live in fear of the time when the South Santiam river may cut a channel into Mill creek and follow a new course to the Willamette, inundating thousands of acres of land as it spreads, the engineers were told.

Control of the North fork of the Santiam river "is a matter of necessity," Harley Libby, representing south Marion county farmers declared. He said it was a case of "control peak floods or abandon our lands."

From the same district, G. W. Potts, state farm union president, asserted "there is no guarantee against a repetition of the flood of 1861" because the hills then tree-covered have since been denuded. D. E. Turnidge was a later spokesman for the same territory.

After Secretary Kipp had informed the engineers that "a steamboat operated where this river now stands during the 1890 flood," R. C. Shepherd of Spring Valley added that "there is a possibility that some day there will be a torrential flood in all tributaries of the Willamette river simultaneously and that is what we want to avoid."

Recreational developments were seen by Fred Bauer of Dayton as one phase of the valley project. He predicted that if the flow of the stream were confined and made more even throughout the year countless summer homes would spring up along the valley's streams, swimming resorts would increase in number and boating and recreation would take a new lease on life.

"The way the river is now in our district it is neither beautiful nor accessible at extreme low water," Bauer explained.

Conservation of water along the North Santiam river would make it possible for the city of Stayton to increase its industrial payroll from a present $300,000 a year to $1,000,000, George Keech forecast. He said that at present the city is short of water power in the late summers and a curtailment of industrial operations may result next August.

Federal aid in executing the giant improvement project is absolutely necessary because Oregon farms already carry a heavy burden of taxation because the taxable land is only a small part of the total lands in the state. Charles V. Galloway, told the board.

Detailed data concerning present and future possibilities from irrigation were presented by State Engineer C. E. Stricklin. Other speakers included:

L. W. Colmer, Cottage Grove city engineer; C. Cornutt of Independence, who said many acres of fertile lowlands in his district would be thickly settled if the flood threat could be eliminated; Clyde Williamson, Albany, for the Greater Willamette Valley association; R. E. Besse, for the Northwest resources board; Marshall N. Dana, Portland development enthusiast; Ormond R. Bean, chairman, state planning board; Carl H. Francis, Dayton; Ray S. Gill, state game master; Claud Buchanan, Corvallis; Dr. Warren D. Smith, University of Oregon geologist; Dr. C. D. Oberg, Lane county; W. D. B. Dodson, executive secretary, Portland chamber of commerce; A. G. Selby, for the arm security administration.
