Christmas Party
Honors Yomarco
Class Saturday

A lovely affair Saturday night was the annual Christmas party for which Professor and Mrs. T. S. Roberts were hosts at their North Summer street home in compliment to members of the Yomarco Sunday school class of the First Methodist church.

The rooms were festive with holiday decorations and wreaths, cedar boughs and greenery were arranged in the studio. The serving table in the dining room was covered with white cellophane over a lace cloth and centered with a miniature Christmas scene flanked with tall red tapers.

A varied musical program was given the first part of the evening opening with Professor Roberts playing several organ numbers. Miss Edna Thomas, pianist and Professor Roberts played Dialogue by Clokey and Miss Thomas played a piano solo, Romance by La Forge. Miss Ruth Bedford sang O Holy Night and R. D. Barton sang Gesu by Yon. A trio composed of Miss Thomas, Professor Roberts and Miss Marian Chase, violinist, played Ave Maria by Bach-Gounod. The program was closed with the group singing Christmas carols. Dr. James E. Milligan gave short talks.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lamka, Mr. and Mrs. Brown E. Sison, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spence, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Children Honored Guests
During Afternoon

The employees of the Safeway stores entertained their families at a party given especially for the children, at the Marion hotel on Sunday afternoon. Joseph Wanger was in charge of the annual affair, and acted as master of ceremonies.

Christmas decorations were used, and following a program given by the children, Santa Claus distributed gifts. A lighted tree was part of the decorations.

Mrs. H. H. Carl, Mrs. A. A. Keene and Miss Helen Litchfield of the East Central circle of the First Methodist church are in charge of the general aid tea being given in the carrier room of the church on Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. T. S. Roberts will provide a musical program for the afternoon.

Guests at Show
See Christmas
Decorations

The first Christmas decoration show to be held by the Salem Garden club was staged yesterday afternoon, at the old Patton home, a perfect setting for display of wreaths, mantel decorations and dainty centerpieces.

Many visitors were busily jotting down notes for their own Christmas decorations at home. Mantel arrangements were not for competition but were most effective with greenery, colored bows and candles.

Mrs. Daniel Fry, jr., arranged one mantel with pine, large clusters of gold and silver grapes and red candles. Mrs. Ronald Frizzell arranged cedar, gold and green bows and green candles on another mantel under a round mirror in a fir wreath.

One of the small bedroom mantels was decorated by Mrs. Chester Cox and Mrs. Clifford Brown with holly tipped with fleecy snow, white balls, white candles in crystal sticks centering it with an old fashioned arrangement of waxed flowers. Mrs. Karl Becke arranged the last mantel with fir greens, cones, and large vases of berries.

First and second prizes for small wreaths were won by Mrs. Paul Hendricks with a miniature of Mexican orange and snowberries, and by Mrs. Clifford Brown with a tiny one of waxed ivy and red and silver berries.

A large wreath of heather, cedar and berries won Mrs. Lester Barr first in that class and a mistletoe circle second for Mrs. G. F. Chambers.

Mrs. Chambers also won first among the bows with an arrangement of cedar, pine and cryptomeria. Mrs. Chester Cox's arrangement of small branches of bamboo thrust through Christmas balls in a silver jug won second.

Miss Edith Schryver won first of the garlands with a large one of cedar, and Mrs. Walter Kirk's of pine, silver bells and red bow won second.

Among the many madonnas were Mrs. Lowell Kern's Belgian mother and child which placed first, and Miss Elizabeth Lord's Mexican carved wood madonna placed second.

Mrs. Chambers and Miss Edith Schryver won first and second of the packages; children's prizes were won by Marjorie Becke and Joseph Busick.

Mrs. Mervin Fidler won first of the table centerpieces with a group of carved soap angels, the adoring madonna and child arranged with cathedral candles on a mirror. Mrs. Lester Barr with an antique red table cloth, white candles, and arrangement of snowberries in a silver casket was awarded second.

Twin vases were won by Mrs. Max Page with a berry arrangement with both laurel and leaves and gilded mistletoe and leaves in white and gold shell vases. Miniature vases were won by Mrs. Chester Cox with tiny white Italian vases on a mirror, and Mrs. Leo Canfield with arrangements in which Grecian pottery featured. Mrs. Max Page won best of Della Robbia wreaths with her arrangement of grapes, laurel and strawberries. Mrs. Carl Nelson's wreath of lady apples and love apples won second.

Out-of-town guests at the Monday Night dinner dance last night at the Marion hotel were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. John Carney of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murton of Hillsboro who were all guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller.

Mrs. Eason's Pupils in Musical Program

Mrs. David Eason was hostess to the weekly repertoire class yesterday at her home on South Liberty street. There was a short musical program given by the pupils, assisted by Miss Maxine Goodenough, violin pupil of Miss Mary Schultz.

Those attending were: Marjorie and Miriam Becke, Carolyn Robertson, Nancy Buren, Marilyn Wyatt, Tommy Ford, Horace Beldin, Diane Story, Margaret Cooley, Diane Zosel, Elizabeth Nelson, Patsy Sears, Marjorie Reeves, Betty Mercer, Lora Barker, Barbara Bell, Janice Patterson, Betty Ann Swanson, Eileen Goodenough, Margaret Hood of Gervais, Marjorie Snyder and Irene Fuller of McMinnville, Mrs. Kenneth Dalton, Miss Henrietta White and Mrs. Berta Kirk Barker. Mrs. Eason and Emylin Grigg, former members of the class assisted.

Rotary Women Meet for Luncheon Monday

The Women of Rotary met for their annual Christmas luncheon yesterday afternoon at Godfrey's. A "white elephant" party was enjoyed following the luncheon. The table was centered with a red bowl of holly surrounded by cellophane and matching tapers.

Those present were: Mrs. George Arbuckle, Mrs. Lester Barr, Mrs. F. R. Bresler, Mrs. Clarence Byrd, Mrs. O. F. Franklin, Mrs. George Grabenhorst, Mrs. William Munroe Hamilton, Mrs. Walter T. Jenks, Mrs. James E. Milligan, Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. Ervin F. Smith, Mrs. Homer H. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Virginia A. Sprague, Mrs. J. Lyman Steed, Mrs. Ivan Stewart, Mrs. T. J. Ampsoker and Mrs. Hugh E. Rosson.

Mrs. Terril Soloist for Organ Concert Tonight

Mrs. Laura Rand Terril, director of the church choir club, will be the soloist tonight at the Christmas program which Professor T. S. Roberts is giving at his studio every night this week. The concert is being broadcast by two loud speakers from the studio. The public is invited to drive by between 8 and 8:30 o'clock and hear these programs. Mrs. Terril will sing "The Virgin's Lullaby" by Regis, Wednesday night Miss Ruth Bedford will be the soloist for the organ concert. She will sing "No Candle Was There" by Lehmann.

Guests Arrive by Plane
From Oakland

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erickson, jr., and daughter Emelita of Oakland, Calif., arrived in Salem yesterday to spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erickson. The family came to Portland by plane from Oakland. Dr. Mary Erickson will spend the holidays on a field trip along the coast and will be accompanied by Miss Barbara Blanchard, who attended school with Dr. Erickson at the University of California.

Birthday Party to Honor
Nancy Fuhrer

Nancy Fuhrer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fuhrer, will celebrate her fourth birthday this afternoon when her mother entertains with an informal party at the Fuhrer home on Stewart street. Games will be played and refreshments served with the Christmas motif used in the decorations. Mrs. Luke Shields will assist the hostess.

Guests bidden to honor Nancy are Jean Hoffman, Patty Pickens, Carol Mary Shields, Jean, Margaret and Julia Ann Miller, Sally Terril and Suzanne Fuhrer.

Wenderoth-McGahn
Vows Said Sunday

Mrs. Mabel McGahn became the bride of Harry Wenderoth on Sunday afternoon at a quiet ceremony at the First Christian church. Rev. Guy Drill officiated at the wedding. The bride, who was unattended, wore a wool suit of black and gold, wore a corsage of tallisman roses. The wedding followed the church service. A dinner at the Golden Pheasant followed the ceremony and was attended by intimate friends. Later a reception was given at 1595 North 17th street, where the couple will reside following their wedding trip to Seattle and Bellingham. Several showers and evening affairs have been given for the bride the past few weeks.

The Nurses' association is having its annual party on Monday, December 27, at the Nurses' home at the state tuberculosis hospital.
