

Canada's Mills Needing Wheat

Report of Scarcity for Grinding Into Flour Lifts Mart 1/4c

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 (AP)—Brisk jumps of Winnipeg quotations and 1 1/4 cents maximum bulge here resulted largely today from reported widespread scarcity of wheat for milling purposes in Canada.

Dispatches at hand said many Canadian mills were scouring the country for wheat to be shipped at once to be ground into flour. It was added that more than 100,000 bushels of wheat were under contract for sale in Canada for the week ending Dec. 24, 1937, at 1 1/4 cents above yesterday's bid.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1/4 cent above yesterday's bid. Dec. 95 1/4-5/8, 1 1/2; up, May 60 3/4-1/2, July 60; oats 1 1/2-1/4 advance, rye showing 1/4 cent gain, and provisions five cents lower to an upward turn of two cents.

Higher prices for wheat were reported in the face of estimates that wheat export purchases from North America totaled only about 200,000 bushels. Enlarged export purchases of corn, figured at more than 500,000 bushels, helped lift corn, oats and rye.

Wakefield Is 12th On Corn Exhibit In Chicago Show

ALBANY—Joseph Wakefield, retired farmer, placed 12th in the hard spring wheat class at the Chicago International Livestock show. This is the second consecutive year Wakefield has placed at the show.

The wheat is of the Reward variety, and was brought here by Wakefield from Canada where he formerly lived and where he was engaged in wheat raising. A few years ago, he planted a small plot of the wheat on part of his residence lot, and has found that it retains its hardness through several generations.

This indicates according to Wakefield that it could be successfully grown here.

Wool Mart Stays Cheerful Picture

Broader Demand Remains Firm, Both Foreign and Domestic

BOSTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "The broader demand for wool noted a week ago has continued and the market is in a more cheerful tone than for a long time. Prices are higher slightly for fine wools both here and at short points, especially for women's suede cloths.

"In men's wear, the market is a bit stronger, although activity is not marked. There is some call for both fine and medium wools and the recent low points have been wiped out, with quarter- and three-eighths Ohio selling at 32 cents.

"Foreign markets were mostly closed for the holidays—are generally firm, though not especially active. The piece goods markets are irregular but gradually are clearing out surplus goods and setting some new orders on the new levels of prices.

"Mohair is rather slow and easier on the basis of the recent sale in Texas of adult hair at 30 cents."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:
Scored staple: Oregon: Fine and F.M. staple 75-78; fine and F.M. clothing 65-67.
Mohair: Oregon-39-40.

"GIVE HER WINGS"

By MARIE BLIZARD

SYNOPSIS
When Julie Allardyce, 19-year-old daughter of Professor Allardyce of the Ramsey Preparatory School for Boys, manages to get herself engaged to Dr. Richard Jessup, Fayette's most eligible bachelor, she looks forward to a glamorous future as a married woman. Of course, most people in town had thought Dicky would marry Millicent Dodd, who is 33 while he is 38, but Millicent hides her disappointment and gives an engagement party for Julie. Less tactful is Tommy Jessup, Dick's younger brother. He is still in college, and has always loved Julie. He tells her she will be sorry if she spoils four lives by marrying Dick. Julie tells Tommy to mind his business, but in less than six weeks she begins to find being engaged to a doctor a boring business. It is then she remembers the words of a Pete Waddell, barnmaster and aviation enthusiast, who was flying lessons at the field. He had told her there was a great future in flying for a beautiful girl. She makes a trial flight with Waddell and decides she will learn to be a flyer. But the course costs a hundred dollars. Julie borrows the money from Millicent Dodd.

CHAPTER X

Under Julie's pillow, in a flat purse there were ten-dollar bills. Tomorrow she would send a money order, with a check for the amount, to Jessup's apartment. It was to Jessup she was to report to the flying field.

Her heart swooped into her throat remembering the frail plane in which she had flown with Waddell.

There was something very solid, very placed about a bed. She felt a sudden overwhelming gratitude that she was in hers.

In the morning, she had forgotten her brief fear. She felt under her pillow for the purse and straightened the cover over her pajamas.

"Babetta, bring me the mail on my tray . . . and not very much to eat. Just a touch of chocolate and a toasted brioche." Whatever that was.

Priscilla stuck her head out the bathroom door. There were bubbles of tooth-paste around her mouth. She waved her tooth-brush at her sister. "They put people away for talking to themselves."

"I wish they'd put you in a reform school! And they will if you're late for school many more times. Hurry up! Somebody else might like to use that bathroom if it's at all possible when you get through."

Unmoved by insult, Priscilla said, "You got a letter."

Julie got up fast enough then. She flew down stairs in her pajamas. "Cosy! Cosy! Cosy! I'm starved. I want orange juice, two eggs scrambled, bacon, toast and strawberry jam if there is any."

Priscilla slid down the bannisters. "After that, she'll have a chocolate and a brioche."

Julie might have withered the unwelcome Priscilla for her last remark if her attention had not been glued to the mimeographed sheet in her hand.

It was a form letter from Pete Waddell.

It informed her that ground classes began the following Tuesday at ten o'clock. It further informed her that all students were to be at the airport on Monday prepared to go by motor bus to Rockness report to a Bureau of Air Commerce medical examiner, prior to receiving a student's license. The fee would be $10. There was to be no charge for transportation.
