"Protocols of Elders of Zion"

Truth is mighty and will prevail, but sometimes it works at slow speed. A few days ago an advertisement appeared in this paper for the booklet "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion." Evidently this old forgery is still going the rounds, convincing the gullible that the sews have entered into a conspiracy to overthrow civilization and set themselves up as masters of the world. At a time when anti-Semitic feeling has been whipped up in many countries and the Jews are on the defensive more than they have been for centuries, it seems absurd to use the fictitious Protocols as ground of

There have been numerous investigations of these Protocols. The London Times exposed them as a forgery back in 1921. The alleged author was a Russian, Sergius Nilus. In lie prints. his edition published in 1905 he claimed they were given him by a prominent Russian conservative whose name he did attractive field, one must go far in not mention, who had received them from an unnamed wom- time and space. an who had stolen them from one of the most influential leaders of Freemasonry at the close of a secret meeting of the initiated in France. How is that for a pedigree of authenti-

Americans will remember the campaign of the Dearborn Jacob Conser, who, as a bound Independent, Ford's paper, against alleged Jewish influence, which was based on the assumption these Protocols were true. Finally Aaron Sapiro sued Mr. Ford. The falsity of the Protocols was proved to Mr. Ford's personal satisfaction. He acknowledged his error and stopped publishing the paper entirely.

Literature is full of spurious documents. There were the the second after starting from Sibylline books and false decretals. A high churchman faked Illinois with the covered wagon lives of the saints with accounts of miracles that never hap- immigration of 1848, well equippened with the high moral purpose of spreading Christian- ped, and, from a stampede on the ity. There still bobs up the false oath of the Knights of Columbus and doubtless thousands are still convinced of its ac-

How are we to detect these literary frauds? The simplest way is just to keep a balanced mind and reserve judgment. Most of the forgeries contain internal evidence of their fraud,-they are, as the Berne judge said of the Protocols, full of "silly nonsense." The chief defense is to build up convictions of religious and racial toleration, so one will not be suspicious of those of different affiliations. No group can overthrow government and civilization in this country without the effort being pretty well advertised in advance. And the publicity will kill it before it really gets a start.

Hearings on Rate Increase

The interstate commerce commission is headed west for the South Santiam river 17 miles hearings on the proposed 15 per cent rate increase. At Salt south of Salem. The main line of the Southern Pacific railway and Lake city shippers including business men, stockmen, farm- the Pacific highway pr ers and mine operators voiced opposition to the increase, the town. Jefferson is the geo-There is a certain naivete in the taking of the testimony. The graphical center of the Willamette railroad executives testify they must have the increase to valley. It has good schools, and keep the railroad industry going; and those who pay the well represented. When the water freight object because they are the ones to be stuck. Each power in the Santiam river is side just about cancels the other, which gives the interstate commerce commission scant help. It is pretty generally conceded the roads will get an increase; the question is how much. And the further question is, how much can they retain after it is given them, in the face of truck and water competition. The average freight revenue per net ton-mile was 9.4 per cent lower in 1936 than in 1929, and the average revenue per passenger-mile 34.5 per cent lower. This shows the Willamette valley." This is a the effect of existing competition.

As the ICC says in its report, "While price increases are natural resources-the veritable at times necessary, the vital thing in competition is to increase the salability of the product and reduce its cost." To be portunity. effective this means the railroads should have opportunity to reduce their costs. Now they have so many fixed costs tiam? Indeed, "when the water their liberty of action is restricted. The 1937 wage increases now appear unjustified. Real economies would come through consolidation of lines, dropping of unprofitable branch lines; ter." That is a matter of manifest but communities and labor object. There is fresh talk in destiny. It will come to pass. The Washington of legislation to force consolidation. It will take Santlam river, flood controlled that in order to enable the roads to operate on the basis of modern conditions.

A rate increase of say ten or twelve per cent will probably be made. That will not fully solve the problem. Drastic readjustment is needed in railway mileage and in operating organization. Whether congress or the commission will enable this to be made under private ownership is uncertain. Sen. Wheeler is evidently planning some affirmative legislation in this direction.

Chautemps Ministry Falls

Another French cabinet fell yesterday, that of Camille Chautemps. It fell because the people's front was cracking up under the strains of French politics. The sinking franc reflected fears of French financial stability in the face of expenditures for rearmament, strike threats from workers in industries, and the political realignment in Europe. The fall of a French cabinet is no novelty. This was the 102nd since the establishment of the third republic in 1870.

French prestige on the continent which was supreme for over a decade following the world war has been waning due to two things,—the rise of dynamic fascist leaders and the growth of internal tensions in France. The leftward turn of the government stirred movements in the other direction, with even abortive efforts to restore the monarchy. Disorganized democracy in France was poor match for organized fascism in Europe. Whether the unsettlement will result in trusting the government more to conservative forces, or whether the extreme leftists will prove so embarrassing that But the flood of 1849 pretty well cohesive policies cannot be maintained is the real question at wrecked it, and changed the ssue. France is not going to go communist; nor is it going fascist judging from the present outlook. Unless it gets hold of itself it may go to pot.

It is pleasing to see labor leaders and industrial leaders gathering at FDR's office to talk cooperation for business recovery. These elements have been so busy brickbatting each other (to the injury of all) it is a hopeful sign for business as well as for public health of mind to have them meet in a conference. Labor has more at stake in recovery than capital, because it is closer to the poverty line. The trouble with conferences is, though, they rarely get beyond

We can't figure out why the president is pulling Joe Kennedy off his present assignment as chairman of the maritime commission to send him to London. He is the only real business expert the addistration has; and ought to be given a general assignment of working out a cooperative program to get business running again in this country. There are others better qualified to sip tea at No. 10

The government remains the only utility which upped its rate 50 per cent during the depression. W. W. Howes, first assistant post-master general says there's no chance to return to two-cent postage. What we are in favor of is a "yardstick" postoffice, with half the in-fractional (short lots) because of

A clerk in the interior department got away with $84,000 by wide, others 20 feet." The plat Kansas will be Republican again drawing vouchers and warrants on a fictitious CCC camp. Bits for Breakfast

By R. J. HENDRICKS

Jefferson has a 1-15-38 colorful history and natural advantages that make certain a great future:

3 5 5 The Jefferson Woman's club invited the Bits man to be guest speaker at a meeting on Wednesday, January 12, and requested that the subject be "The History of Jefferson."

Acceptance of the invitation resulted in the paragraphs that will follow in the series commenced today, beginning:

I am gladly haled into your gracious court and required to testify concerning the history of your pleasant city and glorious section. Haled as by legal process, not hailed or hauled as you often note in conversations and the pub-

Delving for beginnings in this

He will be required to hark back to 1809 in our nation's capital city to note the birth of James Madison Bates, who as a broth of a boy aged 15 ran away and went

And to Centre county, central Pennsylvania, to vision the place of the birth, 10 years later, of boy, ran away from his master to find a place for himself in the great world. 5 5 5

This broth of a boy and this bound boy, the first named after sailing the seven seas and pioneering in this westernmost west, and Platte river, being reduced in his fortunes to two oxen and two cows, and enduring the many hardships of that venturesome journey-these two youthful adventurers became donation land claim owners with adjoining acres here, where Jefferson stands.

James M. Bates and Jacob Conser remained neighbors, close neighbors. In that time they founded the city of Jefferson and remained neighbors throughout their active lives, the twain in that long period being the foremost citizens of the place.

Polk's latest Directory has this supposedly reliable information: "Jefferson. Population 450. On churches and fraternal orders are utilized it should become an important manufacturing center. Has a weekly newspaper, several stores, churches and a standard

That is very good. Much might be made of the claim that "Jefferson is the geographical center of great valley in extent, and vast in land of diversity, country of op-high school."

But is not Jefferson on the main Santiam river, not the South Sanpower in the Santiam river is utilized," Jefferson "should become an important manufacturing cenand harnessed, as it will certainly be, will create here an industrial community that will be one of the strong points of the Oregon our pioneer fathers saw in their dreams when they adopted for this commonwealth its motto, "Alis volat propriis," she flies with her own wings.

The fact should be added to the above that Jefferson precinct, ac- first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. cording to the 1930 census, had 887 people. More are her now, because of the dust bowl hegira and from other causes. "Tam" McArthur's "Oregon Geographic Names," generally very reliable, has this:

. . . "Jefferson, Marion county. Jefferson was named for Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States. The name was applied in early days. The place was first called Santiam, or Santiam City, for Santiam river. Milton Hale started Syracuse on the opposits bank of the river, but that place did not develop." That is not quite correct, is it? Santiam City, one of Oregon's many ghost towns, -was below what became Jefferson. It was a creature of early stage coach days: a ferry was there, so a town. course of the Santiam river, so that some of the town lots which had been on the Marion county side were afterward (and still are) in Linn county—though they now show no marks of having ever been part of the scene of urban

But Santiam City was one of the first towns platted in Oregon. The plat was made for Samuel S. Miller, townsite proprietor, September 10, 1851, as sworn to July 23, 1857, before N. R. Doty, justice of the peace. It was filed July 13, 1857, by E. J. Harding, county clerk and recorder of Marion county, and recorded December 1, 1870, by A. B. Cosper, clerk, by O. J. Carr, deputy. It is on page 4, volume 1, Marion county plats.

The platted town contained 23 blocks, each block having 24 lots, the Santism river's bank. The lots were 20 feet wide by 100 feet long; the "main streets 60 feet (Continued tomorrow.)
