It's Food for Thought Allright---

We quote in part a letter we received from someone, no doubt a newcomer, whose remarks seem so appropos. We quote these lines:
Busick's Markets, Salem, Dear Sir:
We like trading in Salem very much. We have traded at your markets as well as some others and have this fault to find. Each week-end the ads list specials that anyone with any knowledge of the food business knows at a glance are nothing more or less than bait. If one is in need of these specials well and good, if not they must pay more than they should for the foods they do need. It always seems to us that our orders always cost us more at the store with the lowest price specials.
To this we can only say, there's fool for thought in those lines, and we add this: The prices listed in this ad are for an entire week to and including Thursday, February 10, for all items excepting fresh meats. Meat prices change too often and too meat is purchased day by day.
