

By RON GEMMELL

Already rumblings of regret are radiating from Rose City athletic circles because the eight high schools there are left out in the cold in so far as the Oregon State High School Athletic Association is concerned.

Ed Salstrom 3 Times Hero

Ties it up in First two Extra Periods, Gets Winning Points

Eddie Salstrom, Leslie's tow-headed forward, was thrice a hero last night before a wild-eyed, near-capacity crowd in the south-end junior high's spacious hardwood court, as he potted tying baskets in the first two overtime periods and went on to score the winning two points necessary, according to the rules, in the third to give Leslie a 22-20 win and the second-half city intramural league championship.

Rules Prohibit

Gilmore replied to the letter in the way he could. He simply pointed out to the Portland guy, who professed great ignorance by even insinuating that a Portland athletic team compete with teams affiliated with the OSHSAA, that under the rules of the association it is impossible for a team not in good standing to get on the same mat as a team which is.

Neck-n'-Neck

The Portland gent wasn't satisfied with exposing his ignorance by condemning Gilmore for not having extended an invitation he was powerless to extend, but jumped down the latter's throat for billing the meet this week as a state championship affair.

Can't Blame Benson

That it is tough on Benson, or any other school that has spent arduous years and gone to a good deal of expense to build up its minor sports program only to find that its competitive circle has narrowed its radius until it hardly remains a circle any more, is readily understandable.

Could Get Smarter

BUT, it would seem that people as intelligent as Portland school officials are supposed to be—and as smart as they'll even admit to being, should be able to digest the fact that the ruling was put into effect by a 21-1 vote of the OSHSAA delegate assembly, and QUIT blaming Salem high school officials for enforcing it.

Luisetti Will Break Record

New 4-Year National Mark Certain; Each Division Title Is at Stake

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—(AP)—Two southern and three northern-division basketball teams of the Pacific Coast conference fight this weekend for sectional titles but overshadowing those races is the finishing drive of Angelo Luisetti for national scoring record honors.

Stanford's Luisetti is within four points of breaking the individual collegiate scoring mark credited to Glen Roberts of Emory-Henry College, Virginia. Roberts' four-year record is 1,531 points for 80 games. Luisetti has compiled 1,523 tallies to date and has a minimum of two games and a maximum of five yet to play.

That the long-legged forward, one of the greatest players the game has produced, will better Roberts' mark is conceded on all sides.

Here's how their scoring efforts compare by seasons:

Stanford, seeking its third successive conference championship, leads the southern division with nine wins and two defeats and one game to play, with California, Friday, California can tie the race with a victory and take the title by winning the playoff game, scheduled for Saturday if necessary.

That New N. L. Horsehide

By BURNLEY

SPRING training exhibitions, if they prove nothing else, should shed some light on the future effects of the new National League baseball.

The older circuit's newly remodeled horsehide is supposed to be less lively than the old standard ball, still to be used by the American League.

Dunchin Beats Jack Lipscomb

Hoosier Hot-Shot Curled Around Ring Post for Conclusive Fall

Curly Dunchin curled Jack Lipscomb, the Hoosier Hot-Shot, around a ring post, from outside the ring last night at the armory to take all the fight out of him and win the third and deciding fall.

Lipscomb lowered the boom on Dunchin in just 20 minutes of the first session, with a little drier tactics than usual. They were so foul, in fact, that Dunchin became very angry and employed the same standards to flip Lipscomb in the second fall.

In the third, Lipscomb heaved Dunchin overboard, and wouldn't let him back in the ring. When Referee Elliott attempted to interfere the Hoosier-one let him have one on the kisser and jumped out after Dunchin. The latter picked Lipscomb up in a crotch hold, whammed against a ring post several times and then dropped him. Elliott counted to 20, and that was that.

Wagner, Johnson Draw Fans gave a rousing ovation to the draw ruling handed down by Elliott on the Johnson-Wagner 45-minute fray. Gust Johnson, making his debut here, was a hit-the-tee much in altitude for Wagner to carry on with as he has others. Wagner, however, took the first fall with a pair of double-drop kicks, an airplane spin and a body press, and Johnson took the second with three body slams and a body press. The third fall, which was stopped by the time-limit, was a fast and furious affair.

Pat O'Dowdy packed too many fists for Ace Freeman in the curtain-raiser, using both rights and lefts to subdue him in the first fall, and taking the third with a half Boston-crab. Freeman won the middle number on a foul. Referee Elliott momentarily becoming tired of O'Dowdy's kicking, biting and such.

Naval Experts of 3 Nations Confer

LONDON, March 1.—(AP)—Naval experts of the United States, Great Britain and France met at the foreign office today to consider Japan's refusal to divulge her naval building plans, but they reached no decision of whether to retaliate by building warships of more than 35,000 tons.

The foreign office said the 55-minute conference was an informal discussion of the naval situation and probably would be followed by several other meetings before any decision was made on invoking the "escalator" clause of the 1936 London naval treaty.

(This treaty—not signed by Japan—provides that powers which signed it may, by common agreement, build warships as large as they believe necessary if they find a non-signing power is building ships larger than the treaty allows. The treaty fixes the maximum size of warships at 35,000 tons.)

Reorganization Is Attacked by Byrd

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—The administration's government reorganization bill would hand over to the president vital policy-making powers now lodged in congress, Senator Byrd (D-Va) said today.

His voice ringing, Byrd found fault with numerous provisions of the measure. He said it would permit an increase in the number of government employees and might raise the cost of government "many millions of dollars."

Passing frequently to read from documents fished from a bulky brief case, he referred several times to his experiences with state government reorganizing when he was governor of Virginia. "No governor ever thought of asking for the powers" which the pending bill would give the president, he said.

WU Trustees Plan Centennial, 1942

PORTLAND, March 1.—(AP)—Willamette university trustees authorized preparation of three manuscripts today in connection with the institution's centennial in 1942.

One will be a university history by Dr. Robert Moulton Gaidke, the second the Memoirs of Professor James T. Matthews and the third the Autobiography of Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president for 19 years.

Patriot Club Loses Use of School, Bottles Cause

PORTLAND, March 1.—(AP)—The school board refused the use of school buildings to the "committee for the defense of democratic rights or the same group under any other name," today because custodians at Lincoln high school found five whisky bottles following a meeting in the auditorium.
