

Tillamook in Second Place

Salem, Corvallis Tie at Third Rung; Snider of Salem Wins Crown

(Continued from page 7)

185-pounds: Dixon, Corvallis, defeated Smith, Hill, Bevans, Hill, took an overtime decision from L. Patapoff, Albany.

Heavyweight: Hague, Hill, took a fall from Gookins, Salem, 2-30. Vagt, Tillamook, defeated Cooper, Hill.

Runners-up were: Bob Allen, Salem, 95; Bill Jones, OSB, 105; Taylor Arthur, Chemawa, 115; Vernon Moffitt, OSB, 125; Art Watson, OSB, 135; Louis Bonney, Tillamook, 145; Clayton Harris, Tillamook, 155; Bill Tripp, West Linn, 165; Glen Dixon, Corvallis, 185; Ted Hague, Hill, heavyweight.

Semi-final officials were Lloyd Grod, Don Hendrie and Roy Mink.

Don Hendrie and Roy Mink refereed the finals.

Yakima Noses out Salem Y Quintet

YAKIMA, March 5.—(AP)—Nosing out Salem, Ore., 32 to 31 in overtime tonight, Yakima won the northwest YMCA junior basketball championship. Salem was defending champion. In the consolation finals, Portland central Y defeated Seattle 42 to 28.

Seahawks Sink Clippers

SEATTLE, March 5.—(AP)—The rampaging Seattle Seahawks knocked the Spokane Clippers out of any possible chance to figure in the Northwest Hockey league title playoffs tonight with a sparkling 5 to 3 victory.

CURTIS COMMENTS

Here 'tis March, meaning that it's time for a couple hundred golfers to start training for the annual city tournament. In view of the increased number of men playing golf in Salem this year, there ought to be that many entries.

Haven't heard from the Active club, which has sponsored these tournaments in the past, but the city tournament is by this time a fixture and there's no question but that it will happen sometime in April, which is just around the corner. This is the tournament in which golfers who aren't members of the Salem Golf club have exactly the same privileges as club members.

Don Hendrie is the defending champion and a number of the low scoring boys have been looking for a chance to see whether there is any chance of breaking in there. But the golfers who shoot in the 80, 90s and 100s also have as much ahead of them in this event, for it's divided up into flights of 16, then flights of eight with everybody staying in for the second round, and the less expert flights battle for prizes just as valuable as the top notchers.

This is the season when sunshine is at a premium, and the boys are taking full advantage of it when it comes, or even gray days that aren't too wet. The course is in excellent condition.

The high school boys always get going first. The qualifying round for the Salem high team was played Saturday, with Farmer turning in low medal of 73. Comstock and Woods tied at 76 but Comstock went play off; Carrey was fourth with 78

10th in Row Won By War Admiral

MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—War Admiral sailed into this tropical port with his 10th straight victory today in the $50,000 Widener challenge cup race—and sail he did.

The mighty mite of the horse world, running over the treacherous racing strip of Hialeah where favorites have been biting the dust of defeat for 46 days, made his field of a dozen rivals look like selling platters. From Hagfall to finish, it was all like Admiral. His margin as he crossed the wire was a length and a half over Mrs. E. H. Bartlett's Zevson, with War Minstrel third.

Don McNeill Wins Indoor Net Title

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP)—Don McNeill, 19-year old junior at Kenyon college in Gambier, O., today fashed off one of the brilliant form that makes him one of the nation's most promising young tennis players as he defeated Frank Bowden of New York, 9-7, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5, to win the men's national indoor tennis championship.

The women's singles title went to Virginia Hollinger, 21-year-old redhead from Dayton, O., who is a defensive player pure and simple.

Linfield Again In Conference

Northwest Faculty Group Admits School; Will Revise Schedules

PORTLAND, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—Faculty representatives of the Northwest Intercollegiate conference voted today to accept the application of Linfield college for reinstatement after 14 months as a non-member.

Conference coaches revised the 1938 football schedule to provide for participation by Linfield, which will compete also in baseball, track and tennis this spring.

Normals Not Accepted

The conference voted against expanding to take in Washington State normal schools at Bellingham, Ellensburg and Cheney.

"It was decided that at present the athletic progress of the conference of privately endowed colleges would not justify any expansion in the membership of the conference," President William R. Davis of Whitman college said.

The conference now includes Whitman college, College of Idaho, College of Puget Sound, Willamette and Pacific universities and Albany college. Albany does not participate in football or baseball.

Girls Challenge Former Players

MT. ANGEL.—The girls' basketball team of Mt. Angel Academy and Normal have challenged the former players of the school to a contest on the academy floor Sunday. The game will begin at 2 p.m.

The academy sextet has established a record this year taking six out of seven games played. The one defeat was handed the local girls by Turner February 16.

Among the alumnae players, former stars on the school team, to tangle in Sunday's game will be Dorothy Schwab, Agn's Grosjacques, Henrietta Saalfeld, Helen Piennet, Adele Zollner, Arlene Simson and Florence "erschweiler.

Six Records Fall In Columbia Win

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP)—Six meet records were smashed tonight as Columbia university's athletic array snatched team triumph from their Manhattan rivals in the final event of the Intercollegiate AAAA indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden, Columbia retained the team title with 27 points to Manhattan's 24.

Ben Johnson, negro king of the indoor sprinters, and his teammate, Herb West, clinched the meet for Columbia by finishing 2-3 in the broad jump, the final contest after running 1-2 in the 60-yard dash.

Yale, which had been picked to give Columbia the closest tussle for team honors, finished third with 18 points.

One Foul Chalked Against Roseburg

ROSEBURG, March 5.—(AP)—Edward Sindt has been known by various nicknames but never like the one he carried today. To his friends on the Roseburg Junior high school basketball team he was "Dirty" Sindt. He acquired that cognomen after his team set some kind of a record Friday night by beating Ashland, 38-16, and committing only one foul. Sindt was the guilty player.

St. Helens Ties Astoria Hoopers

ST. HELENS, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—St. Helens high school defeated Astoria, 28-25, tonight to throw the two schools into a tie for the district 5 championship. They will meet again for the title Monday night.

Seaside defeated Vernonia, 39 to 21, for third place.

This afternoon Astoria defeated Vernonia, 43-25, and St. Helens downed Seaside, 48-11.

Dallas and Newberg to Compete for Top Place And Tournament Chance

DALLAS.—The Dallas high school basketball team will meet Newberg high at the Oregon Normal school gymnasium Monday

Corbett Is World Champ, California

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—(AP)—Young Corbett, the man who licked the man who licked the champ, was recognized today by the California state athletic commission as world's middleweight boxing champion.

George Payne of San Jose, chairman of the commission, said recognition was accorded Corbett because he scored a 10-round decision over Fred Apostoli of San Francisco here last month.

Previously Apostoli had beaten Freddie Steele of Tacoma, the universally recognized champion, by a technical knockout. The Apostoli-Steele bout was of the non-title variety.

Maxie Wants to Avenge Brother

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 5.—(AP)—Max Baer wants to avenge brother Buddy's licking at the hands of Gunnar Barlund last night.

Max opined today he'd be ready to tackle the Finnish heavyweight any day after next Friday, when the former heavyweight champion has a date with Tommy Farr.

Johnny Revolva Wins in St. Petersburg Tourney

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Johnny Revolva, former PGA champion of Evanston, Ill., won the St. Petersburg open championship today by defeating Chandler Harper, 23-year-old Portsmouth, Va., professional, two strokes in an 18-hole playoff. Revolva had a 75-four over par.

Flood Control Project At Burns Is Under Way

BURNS, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—Thirty men and two trucks were at work today building levees to prevent threatened property damage from the overflowing Silves river. The work is being done as an emergency WPA project.

Dallas and Newberg to Compete for Top Place And Tournament Chance

DALLAS.—The Dallas high school basketball team will meet Newberg high at the Oregon Normal school gymnasium Monday

Mrs. Caldwell Is Hostess to RNA

BROOKS—Mrs. Stella Caldwell entertained the Ladies' Auxiliary of the RNA at the home of Mrs. Iva Meddis Wednesday afternoon to quilt.

Plan Easter Party

The Methodist Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon in the church for its regular meeting. Plans are being made to have a silver tea and Easter party to be held in the church the Wednesday before Easter. The afternoon was spent sewing.

Billy Cotter, who has been ill in a Salem hospital, is recovering satisfactorily. George Campbell, who has been in a local hospital, has been brought home and is improving.

Bank at Heppner To Pay Dividend

HEPPNER, March 5.—(AP)—J. L. Gault, receiver for the First National bank of Heppner, said an 8 per cent dividend for depositors was assured by transfer of the coal mine property to the government.

The payment would be increased to 10 per cent if other land holdings were disposed of at a satisfactory price, Gault said, bringing total returns to about 85 per cent.

Eitenman First to Hear Goon Charge Sentence; Is Given Year in Jail

PORTLAND, Ore., March 5.—(AP)—Chick Conrad Eitenman, 24-year-old truck driver, was the first suspect in the Portland police drive against alleged labor terrorism to receive a sentence when Circuit Judge Robert Tucker ordered him to serve a year in the county jail.

Eitenman pleaded guilty to three charges of assault and battery, growing out of alleged attacks on motor company employees.

"EXTRA FARE"

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

SYNOPSIS

Jaxie Cameron, lovely young newspaper columnist, travels aboard the Big Chief, extra-fare train, in search of copy for "The Friendly Corner." Tommy Ackerman, staff photographer for the Star-Tribune, sees her off, taking a flashlight photograph for the next morning's edition as Jaxie waves farewell from the observation platform. She meets Carrie Dade and the latter's two children. As Jaxie stands near the rail of the observation car, she almost loses her balance when the train rounds a curve, but Kirby Elliott—tall, gray-haired and humorous—grasps her arm as she sways precariously. Introductions and the discovery of mutual interests follow. Inside the car, Mose, the porter, tries to pacify Mrs. Sanders, a demanding elderly woman who shares Section 6 with Elliott. Jaxie Weatherly, guest-writer from western farm unused to luxury trains, looks for "the bed for the extra money" which the agent had promised him. An unassuming little man in khaki sits reading among his duffel bags, which contain heavy coats for the elderly bride, tells her overbearing and penurious groom that they should have taken a drawing room.

held it quietly and competently. The cries ceased suddenly and round tear-glistering eyes inspected the stranger. Jaxie smiled encouragement. The flushed little face relaxed into a cherubic smile and became alert to this new friend whose arms were so gentle and eyes so bright. Jaxie turned a triumphant smile upon Mrs. Dade. "Isn't she the darling?"

"I'm surprised. She never will go to strangers."

"Oh, we're good friends, already; aren't we, Adorable? You run along when the train rounds a curve, and baby and I will sit in my section while the porter makes up your berth. I'm Miss Cameron, of the

"Not THE Jaxie Cameron who writes 'Our Friendly Corner'?" gasped Carrie.

CHAPTER V

Harry Bortin was that dominating male of the species who offsets his inferiority in the world of affairs by being the head man at home and tolerating no illusions about it. It was high time to show Marie who was boss in this family, here and now. There had been enough of letting her have her way about spending her father's allowance on a church wedding and the elaborate trousseau on which she had set her heart. Her uncle's gift of a honeymoon Harry would have preferred to invest more practically in house furnishings, but Marie was insistent upon the trip to California which Uncle Jerry had suggested, to visit other of her relatives and to display her Harry Woman still likes to flaunt her power to lead a man to the altar, regardless of who or what the man may be. It is exhibit number one for the evidence of her supremacy in the primal contest of feminine rivalry.

Star-Tribune. You needn't worry about baby and me, said Jaxie. Carrie Dade stared and gasped. "Not the Jaxie Cameron—who writes 'Our Friendly Corner'?"

"The very same," laughed the girl.

"Why—I'm pleased to meet you, Miss Cameron," the woman offered timidly. "I'm Mrs. Dade, and this is Junior and you are holding Patsy."

"I like you all," Jaxie declared. "But I am afraid you are going to have a pretty difficult journey with these two alone."

Mrs. Dade smiled wanly. "Yes, she admitted, "but that isn't the worst of it. If I were going on a pleasure trip, it would be quite different. You see—my mother—well, they think she is dying."

"Oh, I'm so sorry," Jaxie was all concern. "She lives in Los Angeles?"

"No. She and my father went there this spring, after they had saved and planned all their lives for the trip. They had been there only a month when mother was taken ill, and she's been getting worse right along. Now she has asked for me and father wired me yesterday to come as fast as I could. That is why I am paying extra fare—to try to get there before..." her voice faltered.

Jaxie looked away and amused herself. "But I can't impose on your kindness, Miss Cameron," Carrie objected presently.

"Are you afraid to trust your baby with me?" she smiled gently. "Oh, no—of course, it's not that. Then run along and do as I tell you before Patsy decides I'm not good to use, after all," she urged.

Carrie stepped, and trotted Junior down the aisle by the hand to the dressing-room, comforted by the younger woman's kindness.

the girl's soft breast. Mose bustled away and entered drawingroom A, at the end of the car, with an armful of fresh linen.

When Mrs. Dade reappeared with the pajamaed Junior in tow and clad hastily in her own dressing-gown, Jaxie met her frightened glance at the emptiness of section 7 and smiled, and with "I hope you won't resent my interest in your comfort, Mrs. Dade. You see, I happened to notice that drawingroom A was not occupied, so I had the porter move your things in and make up the berth there for you. I thought you and the children would be so much more comfortable."

"But—Miss Cameron—I can't afford..."

"You don't understand, perhaps, Mrs. Dade. After a train starts and the space is not all reserved, you can get better accommodations for practically nothing. Won't you please accept that little from me—for Patsy?"

Carrie's appreciation was pathetic. "Why—Miss Cameron—how can I ever thank you?"

"Don't," advised Jaxie. "Just take the babies in there where the air is better and you won't have to worry about their disturbing anyone else, and get a good rest. Your mother will need you to be rested when you arrive in Los Angeles, I'm sure."

"You're so kind..." taking the sleeping baby. "I do hope you rest well, too."

"Oh, I shall," Jaxie promised. "Nothing ever keeps me awake. Goodnight, Junior," stroking the tired, bewildered youngster's hair. "Be a good boy and sleep tight, and we'll see a lot of beautiful things in the morning. Good night, Mrs. Dade."

(To be continued)

Copyright, Edna Robb Webster. Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

POLLY AND HER PALS

That Maternal Instinct

You Asked for It!

By CLIFF STERRETT

MICKY MOUSE

The Top of the Morning

A Cure for Carelessness

By WAIT DISNEY

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

Toots and Casper

Wimpy Likes His Rare!

By JIMMY MURPHY

THIMBLE THEATRE—Starring Popeye

Hamburger Sharks and Sea Spinach

By SEGAR

Beginning a New Story

Wimpy Likes His Rare!

Now Go on with the Story

By SEGAR