Unusual Instrument To Be Played

The Alicia McElroy ensemble program being given on Saturday night in the Roberts' studio at 505 North Summer street will include several features of particular interest in Salem. Josephine Albert Spaulding, soprano will be the assisting artist to Miss McElroy's ensemble of six musicians and will sing a group including the aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

The program includes some of the finest chamber music, several numbers being especially arranged by Miss McElroy, pianist and director. Each instrument will be featured in a group of compositions and the celesta will be heard in a composition by Johann Sebastian Bach "Blithe Belles," arranged for orchestra by Percy Grainger. Miss McElroy will play the celesta, Prof. Roberts the organ and Mrs. Florence Hutchinson of Monmouth Normal school the piano in this number.

Also on the program is a composition "Fireflies" by Mrs. David Eason which has been especially arranged for the celesta and makes a charming number for that instrument. The celesta is a modern addition to the instrumentation of a symphony orchestra having been invented in 1886. Its purpose is to embellish, just as the harp, and is used in many modern compositions. Resembling a small organ, this instrument has a keyboard of four octaves, with middle C the lowest note. Hammers striking steel plates produce bell-like tones. There are only two such instruments in Portland, one owned by the Symphony society and this one belonging to Miss McElroy.

Tickets for the program are on sale at Wills Music store and Cook's stationery. The concert will begin at 8:30 o'clock.
