Hero of Silent Films on Radio

Rumors that William S. Hart, cowboy hero of the silent films, would stage a comeback were denied when the former screen star was interviewed by George McCall, left, radio commentator, and explained that injuries suffered while he was making westerns made it impossible for him to consider appearing in pictures again.

Charboneau Head Of Fifth Annual Hop City Festival

INDEPENDENCE—Plans began to be formulated again for the fifth annual Hop Fiesta to be held in Independence at two recent meetings of the Hop Fiesta committee.

Election of new officers resulted: Clarence Charboneau, president, succeeding Gerald Kelley; John E. Black, vice-president, and Glen C. Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The dates for the fifth celebration were set for August 25 to 28 inclusive. Carnival rights have been granted to the Browning Amusement company.

Wednesday night, Sam Slocum, queen contest manager, met with the officers, and was asked to return to direct this year's contest. Slocum stated a different procedure may be used this year to select the queen and the princesses of the Hop Fiesta court. The six highest girls to compose the court, and voting among themselves to select the queen. The winner of the contest to be given an expense-free trip to some scenic spot of interest.

The coronation of the queen will begin the four days activities on the first night, with the juniors taking the limelight on the second night. Many new entertainments and amusements to be planned.
