"Can't you just picture everyone's disappointment when they run their fingers over these invitations and find they're really engraved?"

You need no sense of touch when you see her honey-beige frock of sheer wool to know that that expansive flower sprawling over the bodice is really quilted. We like the high notched neckline and crushed brown kid cummerbund, too.

Spring Salad Includes Red and Green

The charm of the unusual is applicable as much to food as to dress or literature, so choose your spring luncheons salads with this in mind and let color, arrangement, and form take the place of extra effort. Cart wheel salads of alternating red wedges of fresh tomatoes and green edged slices of avocado against a green salad background are easy to prepare and attractive far beyond the effort of preparation. A simple dressing of the French type with the addition of crumbled Roquefort cheese, minced parsley, or capers completes this spring tonic in appetizing disguise.
