County Agent Office Tells Method to Control Blight Spread

Grapefru't Calif., Sunkish, crate. 2 00 Brown rot of stone fruits is chards visited during the past few weeks, says Robert E Rie-Canal Calif crafe der, assistant county agent. This disease, in its oloscom blight stage, is very sectors at times and especially on cherries when there are rains during the blos-Cauliflower local, No. 1 soming period, as was the case

Caulifewer local No. L Gelery Utah crate String beans, Calif. lb. Broccell, doz. Celery Hearts, doz. It is too late now to prevent blossom blight; however, it may not be too late to prevent the disease from spreading to the fruit and causing serious loss before or at harvest time, states

Spray for Blight On cherries which are hard hit with the blossom blight, a petal fall spray should be applied as soon as most of the petals are off. Rieder recommends that this spray be a 3-3-50 Bordeaux and to 100 gallons of this spra7, 4 pounds of lend arsenste may be added to control syneta beetle.

Blossom blight shows up plainly now as brown colored, dead blossoms, stems, and clusters. By carefully looking over a few trees, the grower can determine to what extent his trees are affected.

Later fruit sprays or dusts will be necessary to hold the disease in check, especially if thereis much rain before harvest

The rot on prunes and peaches in bad seasons such as this one is liable to be should be controlled by fruit ducts or spray, advises Rieder.

This disease is undoubtedly a greater factor in fruit less than most growers readze, and there are cases where the whole crop has been lost due to a combination of blossom blight and fruit

Extension circular No. 306, dealing with brown rot disease is available at the county agent's

Country's Crops May Be Largest In-Many Seasons

Favorable crop prospects in Oregon are not unlike conditions generally in the country as a whole, according to the monthly review of the agricultural situation and outlook just released by the Oregon State college extension service. The season is starting off with prospects for crops, ranges and pastures modcrately better than in any of the ast several years, which is pretty good considering that crop production last year turned out 13 per cent above the 1924-1929 average.

Some parts of the Great Plains area are still lacking in subsoil moisture; so that crop yields in such districts will depend upon adequate rainfall during the rest of the growing sea-

The abundance of production now in prospect is evidenced somewhat by the April 1 government estimate of winter wheat production-726 million bushels. This compares with 685 million 1cst year and 546 millions as the 1927-1936 average. Allowing 200 million for spring wheat, the crop could be large enough to care for all domestic and export requirements and a very substantial increase in surplus

Feed grain production prospects are below average, but the supply will be ample considering the near record carry-over.

Conditions are favorable for heavy milk production, and surveys show increases in young chickens and turkeys, owing to favorable feed conditions and better prices for nimal products relatively than for crop products, statistics show.

The Oregon farm price index is given at 65 per cent of the 1926-1930 average level, two points lower than in February end 27 points below March. 1937. The farm cost index shows a decline of six points compared with a year ago.

Shell Releases Brochure

25th Year Here

National and western progress is substantially reflected in a brochure just isued by Shell Oil company over the signature of its president, Sidney Belither, and in commemoration of the company's 25th anniversary.

Shell's contributions to public welfare, both nationally and in the west, are shown in terse facts and figures listing wages and salaries paid, employment siven, operating expenditures, increased investments and tax payments. In reviewing Shell progress nationally, the brochure shows growth in investment from $215,-732,516 in 1922, when the Shell Union Oil corporation was incorporated, to $380,202.888 in 1937. In this 15-year period net earnings have increased from $9,-596,351 to $20,668,880 in 1937; production from 16,644,000 net barrels to 48,653,026; and opersting expenditures from $26,-410,493 to $200,476,063.

At the close of 1937, 28,771 men and women were on Shell payrolls nationally, and were receiving a total of $54,687,045 in wages and salaries. Contributions to federal, state, county and municipal governments in 1937 taxes, collected and paid by the Shell group of companies, totaled $78,338,923.

Announcer Car for Air Circus

Here is the Standard Oil company's announcer car which will be at Salem airport Sunday, May 15, to announce the events and winners for the air circus to be sponsored by the Salem 20-30 club. The circus is scheduled from 2 to 6 p. m., and will be shifted to the following Sunday in case of bad weather. Accompanying the car will be F. T. Garische, jocund announcer. C. S. Emmons, chairman of the circus committee, says he expects the presence of the truck to add greatly to the spectators' enjoyment of the meet. Salem merchants are giving hearty cooperation in providing merchandise prizes for the circus, according to Ralph Mapes, chairman of the committee in charge of prizes. As the circus will be strictly an amateur affair, except for the free-for-all grand finale, the winners will welcome the prizes of gasoline, oil, clothing, tools and sporting
