pleasant and did not show a bit of irascibility. I told him he was violating the law by coming here and he smiled."

Police Chief Harry Walsh and Captain John Sinnott, who were surrounded by a crowd of officers, rushed him at the field, said they were struck in the face.

At a press conference later in a Newark hotel, O'Connell declared he was "handled very brutally" by the Jersey City police at Pershing field. He and Mrs. O'Connell left on a 10:15 p. m. (EST) train for Washington.

"The minute they recognized who I was," he said, "Chief Walsh, one or two uniformed officers and four or five plainclothesmen jumped on me, threw their arms around me and pushed me. As I got in the car, one of the officers shoved me as hard as he could into the back seat."

Attack Upon Jews Quoted by O'Connell

He said he was "badgered" at the police station and asserted that "the thing that impressed me most about their whole psychology and philosophy was their anti-Semitism." He added:

"Chief Walsh said all of those who supported me were just Jews and that Jews caused the whole trouble there and they were going to put an end to their agitation. 'That is not true,' said Casey. 'In fact, O'Connell thanked me for the service performed by Jersey City police who probably saved his life by rescuing him from the enraged crowd.'

"He was as white as a sheet and trembling like a leaf when I met him. He told me 'I want to thank you for saving my life.' He told me he had come to Jersey City believing his sponsors had a lot of friends here, but when he reached Pershing field he was convinced he was entirely alone against the mass of people."

"I told him he was entirely free to go if he wished to make his speech, but I advised him against doing so because of the temper of the crowd. He said, 'No business. If ever I liked seeing a policeman it was when they saved me from that crowd.'" mercial Credit Co., and its branches. This also named Walter P. Chrysler and 17 other persons. "Wording of" indictments was almost identical, Fleming said. It was the government's second attempt to obtain indictments against the "big three" of the automobile industry. A grand jury at Milwaukee considered similar evidence last winter, but was dismissed on December 17 before it could make a report. Fleming said he did not know when the government would seek trial of the indictments returned today. He said the trials probably would be held in South Bend.

Mouth Closed

If you please, do not refer to Martha Raye as "that funny girl with the big mouth." The screen comedienne wants to be known as a glamor girl now, with shapely legs, a lovely voice, etc., and that funny suit about her mouth is out. Martha filed suit against a picture magazine, asking an injunction against use of her photograph beside that of a chimpanzee, both with mouths ajar, as it were. Here you see Martha as in the old days, and now.

German Attacks On Czechs Cease

Sudeten German students scheduled for June 2 at Usti, Czechoslovakia, near the German border, had been postponed until October in order to avoid possible trouble.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, May 27.—(AP)—The government tonight postponed indefinitely the special session of parliament called for next Tuesday as it faced slow progress in efforts to reconcile differences with the autonomy-demanding Sudeten German minority.

It was reported unofficially that the Czechoslovaks hoped to have ready by tomorrow an outline of the maximum concessions they would be willing to make for the sake of satisfying the demands of the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

In the drafting of concessions to the Sudeten Germans it was emphasized the government remained adamant against any compromise involving restrictions on its foreign policy.

One of the Sudeten German demands is revision of the nation's foreign policy with its mutual assistance pact tie with soviet Russia.
