Clover Stand at Rickey Is Good

RICKEY-Corn and potato planting is rushing the farmers here, with some of the clover hay ready to cut. Due to late the ground is hard to rut in good shape because of baking.

Some fields of clover are exceptionally good this year While application to Franquette walnut proper stage of development for rain is needed very badly on orchards located on the valley corn and potato grounds it would floor for the control of blight be hard on the clover as the should be made as agon as posgrowth is so rank that a hard sible. Franquette plantings in the rain would knock it down.

All-Time Record Crop in US Prediction Nets Drop;

Exports Boost CHICAGO, May 31-(AP)-In a brisk rebound, the Chicago wheat market today virtually overcame

1% cents tumble to fresi fiveyear bottom price records. Temporary collapse of wheat values, forcing corn, rye, oats and lard quotations all down to levels unmatched heretofore this season, followed an authoritative trade forecast that the 1937 United States wheat crop would be the largest ever known, 1 055,-000,000 bushels. The previous record crop was 1,099,000,000 bushels, harvested in 1915.

Export Buying Lively On the other hand, lively export buying from North America today, about one million bushels, helped to rally the Chicago market, and so too did the fact that May delivery at Winnipeg showed 10 cents nulge in the last 48 hours of trading.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to 1/2 cent lower compared with Saturday's finish, July 68 %-69, September 70-70 %; corn %-% down, July 54 %-1/2. September 55 1/2 - 1/8; oats unchanged to 1/4 off; tye varying from 1% decline to 14 advance, and provisions showing 5 to 12 cents setback.

Third Spray for Nuts Is Due now

Third walnut blight spray should be applied now, according rains and then the hot weather to Robert E. Rieder, assistant county agent and county horticultural inspector.

Superintendent Marrowfat's room that in his description of her." She meets a man in aviator's togs pant. and the two are trailed by Gregory to a room above a cheap cafe, where the man is attacked by hoodlums. Gregory helps him escape. Gregory then takes the girl, Sabine, to his hotel apartment to save her from police questioning. She is friendly out will tell him nothing about herself or the telegram in code dropped by the aviator (a Scotland Yard operative) and picked up by Gregory. She spends the next day with the infatuated Gregory, although messages from her guardian warn her not to do so. They lunch happily at a roadside inn until Sabine grows pale at sight of a lame man called "The Limper." She wonders if her "friend" sent him and cautions Gregory to be careful. Gregory goes to get his car and is at-tacked by an assailant who throws pepper in his eyes. Sabine disappears. Back in England the following day, Gregory relates the whole story to his employer, Sir Pellinore Gwaine-Cust, British in-

"Because I'm a born story-teller, and always save the tidbit till the last. I could make a fortune writing thrillers if I weren't so darned lazy, but I think you'll agree now that I'm on to something big."

Sir Pellinore drank again of the old brandy. "I agree entirely. I wouldn't be surprised if Gavin Forescue isn't the king pin in the whole of this devilish business we're up against. You're right, my boy, in your intention to follow this up. What's your next move?" "I want a plane. It must be fast, foolproof and whatever make has the least noisy engine. I'll pilot my-self. Most of my work will be night flying and I'll have to observe, as well as fly the plane, so I want the sort of thing that flies itself almost, if you can get it for me."

"Most planes do these days. Any-how, the best machine that money can buy shall be at your disposal at Heston tomorrow. What then?" might be useful to us and, if that's not a muscle of his face betrayed his so, we should be very pleased to have
