West Salem News

The theme of Kingwood American Legion auxiliary for June is peace, with the emphasis upon a better understanding among the people of different nations, says Fildac Chairman Mrs. H. Boening, who has been active in spreading the message of peace as manifested by Fildac, an interrelated organization to maintain, foster and develop that spirit of comradeship which was manifested by the allied soldiers on the battlefields of the World war.

She points out that during these last dark months when war clouds seem to hang low over Europe, the men of Fildac have been on guard. Meetings have been held and the spirit of friendliness has been practiced by the member countries of Europe. Much has been accomplished by the combating of false news and the skillful handling of "misunderstandings." The sincere desire for peace and open minded willingness to meet the other fellow half way on the road to peace, surely can not fail to help bring about peace on earth, food will toward men.

"Fildac really aims, through careful study to find out the causes of possible war and then to work toward the elimination of such causes. Truly may we say 'blessed are the peacemakers,'" she adds.

Each year Fildac takes up one or more European Fildac country and studies something of its customs, problems and aspirations. This is accentuated by exchange of letters, photographs and postage stamps along with lectures, pictures, etc., pertaining to this country. This year France has been the special country under consideration.

Hoover May Wed Star's Mother

Mrs. Lola E. Rogers, mother of Ginger Rogers, film star, may become the bride of Chief of Man J. Edgar Hoover, it was reported recently in New York City. When asked about the possibility of a wedding soon, Mrs. Rogers said, "It's up to him." Hoover, it was learned, telephoned her immediately upon finding the body of James Bailey Cash Jr., in Princeton, Fla., recently. Hoover's picture, decorating her New York apartment, is shown at Mrs. Rogers' elbow.
