

Demos Choose Neal as Head

D. J. Richards Is Chosen Committeeman in hot Session

by the credentials committee. Other officials elected by the central committee were: Vice chairman, Mrs. Ruth Norris of Salem; secretary, Wayne Williams of Liberty; treasurer, Mrs. Clare Brabec, Salem; state committeewomen, Mrs. Marian Downs, Salem; congressional committeemen, D. C. Bloom, Salem, and Mrs. Euphonia English, Stayton; nominating committee, Paul Fehien, Stayton, Allen Earle, Salem, Mrs. Ann Donham, Salem, Mrs. Mayme Robinette, Salem; and Gladys Walters, Salem.

In the election of officers, the biggest battle developed over selection of the state committeemen, a post held for eight years by A. M. Dalrymple. A surprise move came when Dalrymple, nominated along with Bayne and Richards, declined to run, stating he was "stepping out along with his friend, John Marshall."

Bayne ahead on first ballot. On the first vote for the state post, Bayne received 27 votes and Richards 26, five write-ins being cast. On claim that Bayne had not received a majority of the 48 qualified committeemen present, Bayne declared he was willing that another vote be taken, which after considerable discussion was done, with the result that Richards received 31 votes and Bayne 27.

Bayne declared at the close of the meeting that he might protest the vote on the ground that business of the old committee had not been properly concluded and that some officers had been elected by a plurality and some by a majority.

During the discussion over the protest to seat the eight, two of the committeemen it was aimed at made statements, these being Dr. Floyd Utter, chairman of the state parole board, and Willis West, attorney in the PUC.

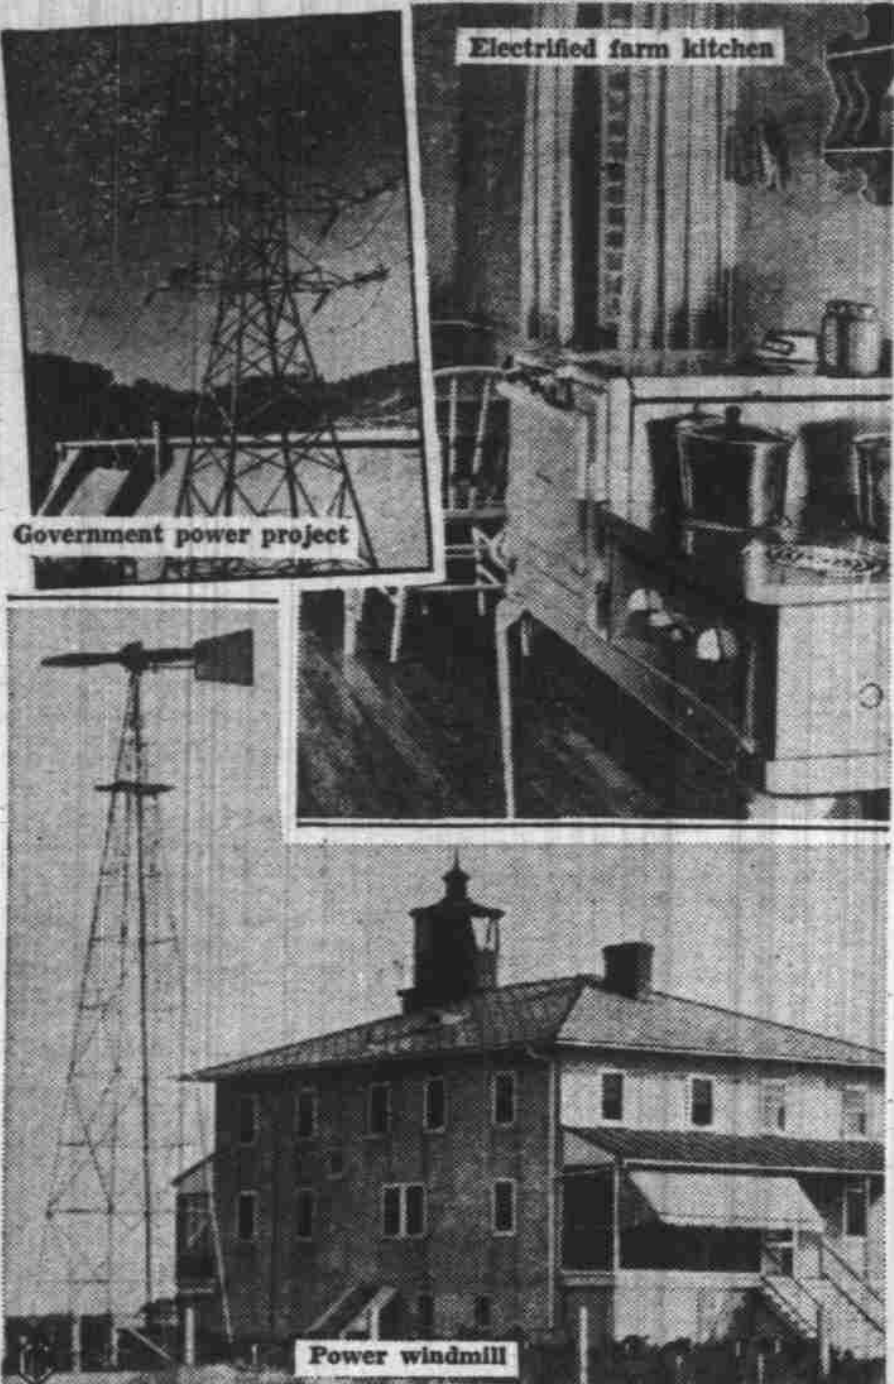

Dr. Utter stated that he had deliberately failed to qualify to vote yesterday because he had heard the fight on the corrupt practices act was coming up and that he did not wish to serve if it were against the law, but that when he did get ready to qualify he would get the county clerk to get a ruling in his case.

West held that inasmuch as he was not directly appointed to his position by an elected state official, but rather by Commissioner Wallace, the corrupt practices act did not hold in his case.

After the protest was brought onto the floor, Committeeman Dalrymple referred to it as introduced "merely as a piece of spite work and nothing else," and pointed out that the state committee had been made up for years of men serving minor public offices.

The committee gave a unanimous vote of thanks and appreciation to John Marshall for his services during the six years he has been county chairman.

Farm Brothers Turn Inventors

While the government pushes ahead with vast power projects designed to electrify rural districts, two Iowa brothers are capitalizing on an invention which they perfected 10 years ago. John and Gerhard Albers, of Sioux City, Ia., developed their idea when they became fed up with having to get their battery-powered radio charged about every three weeks. They rigged up an old windmill, attached it to a second-hand automobile generator and discovered that enough electricity was generated to keep their radio up however heavily used. Improving on their device, they fashioned a more efficient propeller blade, obtained a larger generator and were soon producing enough power to light the farm home of their father and drive the machinery. Soon orders were flooding in on them from other farmers who had heard of their invention. Today they have a thriving business and have placed more than 1,000,000 of their wind-driven power generator sets in rural homes.

Marion Taxpayers Quick in Payment

A comparison of figures compiled and released yesterday by Ted J. Brabec, chief deputy tax collector of Sheriff A. C. Burk's office, shows that Marion county property owners are more prompt in paying their current taxes than those in Multnomah county.

A total of $1,110,764.86 had been collected at the local tax office at the end of the second quarter, June 15. Multnomah county receipts for the same period, as announced this week by Sheriff Martin Pratt, exceed 11 millions.

Percentages show, however, that Marion county collections represent more than 70 per cent of the current tax roll of $1,575,398.82, whereas Multnomah county receipts are still under the 70 per cent figure.

Brabec's figures disclosed that, out of the more than one million dollars thus far collected in 1938, $157,134.21 represented delinquent taxes. Only $621,768.17 of 1938 taxes remains to be collected in the remaining two quarters, which expire December 15.

New Long Type Battery Offered

Another new battery, a Goodrich Kathanode long type for use in several 1938 passenger cars, is announced by the B. F. Goodrich company, Akron, O. Known as the Goodrich Kathanode Electro-Pak, Type KL-57, the battery has all the features of the celebrated Kathanode construction and like all Goodrich Kathanode batteries carries a guarantee to the purchaser for as long as he owns the automobile in which it is installed.

The battery also has the patented power-saving patented cover exclusive with the Goodrich company, which protects against short circuits resulting from service work and accumulation of moisture, oil, dirt or grease around the terminals.

Containing 57 plates, the new battery has the following electrical capacities: Amperes for 20 minutes, 145; amperes, 20 hour rate, 136; 300 amperes, zero degrees Fahrenheit, 5 minutes.

New Car Frame Types Are Seen

Safety, Comfort Improved by Latest Innovations Says DeSoto Chief

DETROIT — (Special) — Increasing the safety, comfort and riding qualities of automobiles represents one of the most important developments made in modern motor cars in the last few years, according to C. E. Bleicher, general manager of the De Soto division of Chrysler corporation. "Largely responsible for these improvements," Bleicher says, "are the recent frame changes, which have gone a long way in developing the safe, comfortable, easy-riding car of today."

"An outstanding example of this is found in the new DeSoto for 1938, which utilizes a deeper, bigger, stronger, more rigid frame to produce a safer, quieter and more solid ride."

"The side rails of the De Soto chassis frame were increased in depth, strengthening the entire length of the frame. Two sub side rail members were added at the dash line to give more rigidity at the portion of the frame which carries the greater burden of body weight.

"The center of the x-member was made deeper, using a new type of construction with gusset plates riveted to the top and bottom to give added strength.

"Front Section Wider The front part of the frame was made wider at the dash line and at the point where the steering gear is attached. This greater width, together with DeSoto's utilization of a sway eliminator bar, gave the car greater stability and evenness on curves.

"De Soto's use of rubber float bolt mountings on the chassis frame has done much to improve the comfort and riding qualities of the car. By eliminating metal to metal contact, these spool shaped rubber isolators prevent road shocks and noises from being telegraphed to passengers."

Dynamite Blast Doesn't Hurt Car

Buick, Occupants Able to Drive Away Following Tunnel Accident

Not every automobile comes into contact with a dynamite blast and emerges the winner. This happened, however, to a Buick sedan in Switzerland, according to an account of the incident cabled to W. F. Huffstader, Buick general sales manager, by d'Arcis & d'Arcis, the agency in Geneva.

According to the Geneva agency's account, a Buick Series 40 special sedan carrying three passengers entered a tunnel near Tiefenkaestel, Switzerland, which through error had not been blocked for traffic, although blasting was going on inside.

Rocks Rain Down The car had just passed the middle of the tunnel when the passengers were stunned by the terrific explosion directly above them. A mass of rock was blown apart by dynamite and a huge block weighing at least half a ton landed on top of the car, while smaller stones struck the radiator, fenders, side panels, roof and trunk.

When the smoke had cleared away and the passengers recovered from their shock they realized to their own amazement that none had been injured. Although badly dented, the car was driven back to Zurich, a distance of 100 miles.

Pigeons Depart In Flight South

Three hundred carrier pigeons took off early Saturday morning from the express office at 12th and Oak streets, wheeled around a bit and then winged south toward their home roosts at Oakland, Calif.

The owners of the birds, members of the Golden Gate Racing Pigeon club, hoped the pigeons would make the 500 mile journey before nightfall Saturday. The pigeons were shipped to Salem Thursday for the race which is an annual event.
