Justice Court Hears 8 Cases

Miller Hayden Back From Vacation and Clears up Court Docket

Salem Justice Court went through a cleanup day as Judge Miller B. Hayden returned from vacation and state police signed complaints that had been held up during the court's one-week outing. Eight cases were disposed of and traffic charge complaints issued against nine other defendants.

Harold Edwin Davis pleaded guilty to a state police charge of violating the basic traffic rule by driving 84 miles per hour, reportedly along the Pacific highway north of Salem, and was fined $5. Other dispositions: Ivan C. Ramseyer; $5 fine, illegal headlight; Harland N. Taylor; $1 fine, no tail light; Joseph Arnold Dowd; pleaded guilty, case continued to July 1 for sentence on charge of illegal headlight.

Vernon Stanley Rockwell; $10 fine, no public utilities permit; George Edwin Stanley; $1 fine, defective muffler; John Paul Christy; $1 fine, no operator license, and $1 fine, no tail light; Herbert Fromm; $1 fine, failing to stop.

Complaints charged other defendants as follows: F. J. Kraeger, defective muffler; Marie Doolittle Clark, violation of basic rule; John Howard Lanktree, illegal headlight; Florence Elma Irwin, failing to stop; Clarence Cecil Fairbanks, no chauffeur license; Joe Harvey Drake, four in front seat; Daniel Newman, violation of basic rule; W. C. Snider, no operator license; Lyod Rex Mudgett, no operator license.

Circuit Court
 W. B. Herron vs. Charles P. Pray et al; demurrer to complaint alleging plaintiff legal capacity. Circuit court has no jurisdiction over subject matter of action, several causes improperly united and facts insufficient to constitute cause of action.

City of Salem lien foreclosure complaints against defendants as compared with 135,198 last October when the high mark since 1929 was reached. The May, 1938, employment, however, was 6000 below that of May, 1937, and twice the low depression mark reached in February, 1933.

Under Year Ago
 There were 2,660,917 man days worked in May, about 100,000 less than in May, 1937, and about 1,000,000 less than last October. The total, however, has increased by 300,000 since February and is about double the low depression point.

Contributions by employers to the commission's insurance fund were $283,824, more than double the lowest depression mark, but $166,000 below the September, 1937, total.

Probate Court
 John Gray estate; order dismissing petition for probate and discharging Anna Ditter as administratrix because claim for which recovery was anticipated is not collectible.

James S. Hays estate; appraisal, $500, by Joseph Fisher, George H. Bell and E. Roy; final order granted Lois E. Williams, administratrix.

W. D. Mohney estate; closing order granted S. M. Endicott, executor.
 Ida Cawse estate; order transferring to circuit court petition of George and Charles Cawse and answer of Frank Cawse.

Frankie Hobbs estate; order for executor to transfer notes and securities to residuary legatees in following total amounts: Lucy A. LaRaut, $2270.74; George W. Dimmick, $4103.73; Mary E. McKay, $3565.13.

Carl Smith estate; final order granted L. D. Smith, administrator.
 Ethel Bray guardianship; appraisal, reporting $6.74 income per month from March 17, 1938, to September 17, 1947, and final payment from insurance company of $2,450.

John Roosevelt and Anne Are now Another Mr. and Mrs.

In a simple Episcopal ceremony, John Roosevelt and Anne Lindsay Clark were married at a high noon ceremony June 19 in the 107-year-old Union church at Nahant, Mass. The two youngsters, both within a few months of their 22nd birthdays, greeted a throng of well wishers, while thousands more pressed police lines outside the church. Photo above was taken at the wedding party left the church. Left to right: Mrs. F. Haven Clark, mother of the bride; Anne, John Roosevelt, the president, Mrs. Roosevelt.

Oregon Industry Hires More Men

Bureau's Report Indicates Improvement in Past Several Months

More jobs have become available in Oregon industry during the past few months, J. C. Joy, chairman of the state industrial accident commission reported Monday. He said these figures in the report were true of all employment in the state.

There were 102,343 men working in May in industries under the workmen's compensation law as compared with 135,198 last October when the high mark since 1929 was reached. The May, 1938, employment, however, was 6000 below that of May, 1937, and twice the low depression mark reached in February, 1933.

Above Depression Low
 The total payroll during April was $11,666,236, compared with $15,465,467 last September and $11,462,959 in April, 1937. The lowest monthly payroll was $4,739,028 in February, 1933. The $138,305,782 payroll during the 1936-37 fiscal year, highest since 1929-30, will be exceeded by the 1937-38 total, which already amounts to $131,331,053 with two months yet to be reported.

Under Year Ago
 There were 2,660,917 man days worked in May, about 100,000 less than in May, 1937, and about 1,000,000 less than last October. The total, however, has increased by 300,000 since February and is about double the low depression point.

Contributions by employers to the commission's insurance fund were $283,824, more than double the lowest depression mark, but $166,000 below the September, 1937, total.

Joy predicted that employment conditions would improve gradually until next fall, due to seasonal work.

 Henry Nordberg, drunk; fined $10, committed to serve.
 James J. Mitchell, drunk, fined $10, committed to serve.

Bob Breen Show On Capitol Bill

Wednesday brings another three-unit program to the Capitol theatre for four days.

Topping the big three is Bobby Breen in his latest smash adventure musical, "Hawaii Calls," with Ned Sparks and Irvin S. Cobb in comedy roles.

The companion feature is the latest of the crime club thrillers called "The Lady in the Morgue," starring Preston Foster, Patricia Ellis and Frank Jenks.

As an added attraction there is a novel short subject called "Czechoslovakia on Parade," which gives the inside story of Europe's powder keg.

Salem Held Best For Home Making

Because people here have met in 72,000 miles travel in every state but two during the past two years declared Salem is one of the finest little home cities in the entire United States, Frank Durkhoff, retired J. C. Penney store manager from Michigan, has arrived in Salem with Mrs. Durkhoff and their two daughters and intends to make their future home here.

Durkhoff has spent the past two winters in California and had visited Salem briefly two years ago. He says that he has consistently heard Oregon referred to as the state least hit by the depression, with Salem the city least conscious of business ills.

Arrived here, he met Claude Talmage, 1765 Center, whom he knew at Ritzville, Wash., 19 years ago while Durkhoff was with the J. C. Penney store. This was the first meeting of the men in that period.

Citizens of Salem and the community are urged to make contributions to the Chinese civilian relief fund for the war and flood stricken thousands in China. The national American Red Cross chapters throughout the United States have promised to raise $1,000,000 for the relief fund. The quota reached to date is $34,588.

There are 180 Red Cross chapters in the Pacific northwest and 69 of these have achieved their goal. The Marion county chapter, Red Cross, is not among those reaching its goal. Any contributions will be greatly appreciated and money may be left at either of the three banks or the Red Cross office. Walter C. Winslow is chairman of the Marion county Chinese relief committee.

Old House Wiring May Be Replaced

Portland General Electric Company, EHFA Offers Plan to Finance

Closure of a contract with the Electric Home and Farm authority, a federal agency, which will provide easy payment financing for modernizing wiring systems in older types of homes was announced this week by W. M. Hamilton, Willamette division manager for Portland General Electric company. The financing service will be available to PGE customers throughout the utility's territory.

"Inadequate household wiring systems constitute one of the most serious obstacles blocking the way to wider use of electricity by the public," Hamilton said. "Due to the rapidly expanding use of electricity by domestic customers for cooking, water heating and better lighting, a severe burden has been placed on the wiring in many homes with the result that it has become inadequate to provide for satisfactory and full use of the newer electrical appliances."

24 Months To Pay
 The EHFA will advance 90 percent on approved wiring installations of more than $40, extending 24 months, and without recourse on the contractor doing the work. The utility will collect installments on the loan along with its regular monthly service bills, in the same manner that EHFA contracts for the purchase of electrical appliances are being handled at the present time. Hamilton stated that in the majority of instances wiring systems can be improved and made fully adequate at comparatively small cost.

Portland General Electric company was the first utility in the northwest to make EHFA financing for electrical appliance purchases available, and is the first in the United States to be approved by EHFA for financing home wiring.

McKenzie Utility District Hearing Set for July 15

Preliminary hearing on the petition for formation of the McKenzie river people's utility district in Lane county has been set for July 15, the state hydroelectric commission announced Monday. The place of the hearing has not yet been determined.

The district would extend from Vida to a point approximately two miles above the McKenzie bridge, and embrace virtually the same area as included in a previous petition.

Hot Days May Scald Berries

Logan Growers Fear Crop Will Be Hurt by Sun After Cool Spell

Continuance of Monday's heat, coming so fast on the heels of cool weather, will probably scald the loganberry crop, just as the same weather treatment did the strawberry yield this season, canners and growers held yesterday.

This week will see canneries and barreling plants busy on cherries, peak for which is expected after the middle of the week, and on logans, boysenberries, red raspberries and boysenberries.

Three cents is the top price offered growers on cherries, with the valley crop this year estimated at between 2000 and 2,500 tons, or about half a normal crop. Rains in this section late last week did only a small amount of damage to the cherries.

Canners are experiencing a slight demand for sour cherries, and these will be taken up at two cents a pound, which price is said to be more favorable to the grower than 3 cents on Royal Annes and blacks, as picking is cheaper and easier.

Some Youngberries Sold
 Some Youngberries have been purchased at 3 cents a pound, which price is figured as more favorable to the grower than 6 cents on red raspberries. Youngberries—though canners say only a few will be packed—run 2 1/2 to 4 tons to the acre, fill the boxes more quickly and picking costs are cheaper, being from 1/2 to 1 cent, as against higher picking costs and production of only 1/2 to 1 ton per acre on red raspberries.

Probably not all the boysenberries grown will find a market, though those on contracts at 3 cents will be packed. Whether or not the control boards have any more to be packed for loganberries will hold will be determined likely today at a conference of control board members and packers.

With the juice business bogged down this season, and the logans in back, almost entirely to canners, it is considered improbable that this entire crop will find a market. Last year up to 80 percent of the logans in this section went into juice, and with the heaviest carryover in the logan history still confronting them, canners are not anxious to make big packs this season. Especially is this so in view of the uncertainty of markets.

Some growers apparently feel resentment at the canners' announcement of their plans for this season, but packers point out that Salem, even with curtailed operations, is in more favorable position than some fruit growing centers.

One canning company that operates 12 plants on the coast is not opening drops of eight of the plants at all this season, and of the four that are operating only on part time, one is in Salem.

Indicative of the curtailed canning operations here, the announcement of one plant that it is working only an hour and a half a day, with but 5 percent of its normal employe roll at this season on hand this year. This situation is general.

Of the fruits now coming on, cherries are about the only item that will be entirely absorbed by the canners and barreling plants, with operators declaring that bulk of the cherry crop will be taken care of, except for small lots grown at homes in Salem.
