Informal Affairs
Are Calendered
For Today

While Salem folk are still coming and going and entertaining out-of-town guests several informal affairs are being given this week. This afternoon Mrs. Ira H. Gardner has bidden a group of matrons to her home on Knapp street for a dessert luncheon. The yellow and white decorative scheme will be used in the table decorations and summer flowers will be used about the room. An afternoon of cards will follow the luncheon. Guests will be Mrs. Ralph Kietzing, Mrs. L. J. Stewart, Mrs. Albert Cohen, Mrs. Earl Holt, Mrs. Arthur For, Mrs. Elmer Berg, Mrs. Herbert Bailey, Mrs. Herman Hill and Mrs. Gardner. Mrs. Ringle Hostess. Mrs. Philip Ringle will be a bridge hostess tonight in honor of a group of her friends at her home, 2014 1/2 street. Following several hours of cards a late supper will be served by the hostess. Bouquets of summer blooms will be arranged about the guest rooms. Those bidden are Mrs. Richard Kroschel, Mrs. Thelma Hoover, Mrs. Merritt Truxax, Mrs. Ralph Bailey, Mrs. Elmer Berg, Mrs. William Monroe, Mrs. William Stacey, Mrs. Lawrence Lister and the hostess Mrs. Ringle.

Style-Smiles --- by Gretchen

"I can't understand why people are always complaining about marriage. Harry and I have been married three weeks now without a single cross word!"

Bring out the medals quick—not only for such a record but for the electric blue, pleated chiffon she wears. There's a checkerboard effect where stitching forms a deep yoke on each side of the bodice and again, horizontal stitching all around the hips. More green than blue, the turquoise crepe, right, its sleeves cut all in one with the bodice. A draped V neck, and fullness below shirring on tummy.—Copyright, 1938, Esquire Features, Inc.

Berry Box Sizes
Vary, Check on Size, Weight

A morning's jaunt around the country, talking to pickers, growers and home canners would net a great many ideas for most any homemaker who plans on putting down a good supply of food for winter consumption. If you depend on the classified ads for berry or fruit buying needs, remember that some offerings are better bargains than others, and they aren't always what they seem. The sizes of boxes vary, so check up on the quantity as well as quality and price.

The canner boxes hold more than an ordinary hallock, and usually contain around a pound, or 16 ounces. According to the state department of agriculture, the standard hallock must hold a minimum of 12 ounces or 3/4 pound. The safest way is to find the price in pounds rather than crates or boxes because some crates are of 12 boxes, others contain 24.

It's best to can blackberries, especially the wild ones as soon as possible after picking because they are at their best they must be ripe, yet when at the correct stage of ripening are quite soft and juicy.

When canning blackberries, loganberries or youngberries for pies, it's practical to add to sugar, merely filling up the jars as tightly as possible with berries, then adding water to cover. Process the regular length of time.

Several farmers are selling "tame wild" blackberries which have very much the flavor of the wild variety yet are less expensive. Boysenberries are favored by some housewives for winter sauce, they are comparatively inexpensive, and although a large berry, make good flavor in sauce. They are less desirable as a berry to eat fresh.

Raspberries are inclined to pack in the jars, so after the canned berries are completely cold, lay the jars on their sides, rolling them occasionally. To keep berries from packing, some home canners bring them to a boil in the syrup a time or two, allowing to cool in the liquid before packing them in the jars and sterilizing them to the proper degree.

Preparing the larger part of a meal ahead is possible when there are several cold dishes and perhaps only one to cook at the last minute. Last minute preparation is reduced to a minimum and the family cook remains cool when dinner's served.

Here are several menus suited to the plan. Chilled tomato juice. Veal fricasse with mushrooms. Buttered rice. Cold brand muffins. Red cherry tart. Iced tea.

Or another that begins with salad: Green salad with French dressing. Escalloped macaroni and cheese. Fresh pickled beets. Bread and honey. Rice pudding with fresh raspberry sauce.

Then comes a third where hot soup is the dish to lead the parade: Chicken-vegetable soup. Sliced cold meats. Potato salad with dill dressing. Stuffed eggs. Gingerbread. Rhubarb sauce.

Stewed bread for those families that can't use up a loaf of fresh bread before it's getting along in age. Put the cut bread in the steamer or lay it in a strainer over hot water, cover with a linen napkin and allow to steam until quite soft. Serve while still hot.

Or day-old bread will make a main dish when it's toasted and topped with creamed cheese or with creamed chipped beef and served with a fruit salad.

More and larger casserole dishes will help use up those crumbs from day-old bread. Grind and keep them in a jar and utilize frequently for baked dishes.

Today's Menu

We'll have veal chops and potatoes with lemon butter to make up a menu that includes: Peanut-cabbage slaw. Boneless veal chops. Potatoes with lemon butter. Buttered squash. Apple snow.

GREEN APPLE SNOW
3 egg whites
3/4 cup apple pulp
Powdered sugar
Cook apples and when soft measure 1/2 cup of pulp (usually strained is best). Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually add sweetened apples and continue beating. Pile in dishes, chill well and if wanted, serve topped with a soft custard.

Blackberry Pie Takes
Egg, Flour
A pie that uses blackberries for flavor also includes an egg, which thickens the juice. BLACKBERRY CUSTARD PIE Fill an unbaked pie shell with blackberries, add 1 cup sugar, 1 1/2 tablespoons flour and one beaten egg mixed together. Cover with solid pastry, put in a 450 degree oven, bake for 10 minutes and lower heat to 350 for 30 minutes more.

Nut Bread Includes
Rye Cereal
Nut bread that has the new rye flake cereal as an ingredient has a flavor quite different from those using all flour. Here is a recipe from the manufacturer of rye flake cereals. ALL-RYE NUT BREAD 1 egg 1 cup brown sugar 2 tablespoons melted shortening 1 cup rye flakes 2/3 cup sour milk or buttermilk 1 1/2 cups flour 1 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon salt 3/4 cup chopped dates 1 cup chopped nut meats Beat egg well; add sugar gradually and beat until light. Stir in shortening, flakes and milk; mix thoroughly. Sift flour, soda and salt together. Add to first mixture with dates and nut meats, stirring only until flour disappears. Pour into greased loaf pan with waxed paper in bottom. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about one hour. Yield: 1 loaf (4 1/2 x 9 1/2 inches).

Built-In Counter in Kitchen, Handy
An old kitchen can be made modern by a simple and practical built-in counter, with high stools to sit at according to one householder who read a recent story on these pages. She built in a counter to seat all the members of the family, and her's faces the window, being built up against the wall instead of out into the room.

Although goose feathers are much better for pillows than those of turkeys, ducks or chickens, the latter can be used if the fowl has been dry plucked or skinned, but scalding injures the quality of the feathers, experts say. Geese may be plucked as often as every six weeks through the spring, summer, fall, and winter, up to the mating season. Care is necessary, however, with feathers obtained in this manner to see that they are of the proper ripeness, which means that the quills appear dry and do not contain blood.

White pillows are usually taken for granted as an article of household furnishings and given little thought after once acquired, the feathers as well as the covering do wear out, and need renovating about once every 10 years, or oftener, says Mrs. Eileen Buxton, extension specialist in clothing at Oregon State college. The natural oil in the feathers dries out after a while, and the quills then become brittle and break when pillows are no longer soft, elastic and light, they need new feathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Paulus Plan
Trip to East Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Paulus are leaving today for an interesting trip along the eastern seaboard. En route they will stop at Chicago, Washington, D. C., and New York City. For four days they will be in Atlantic City attending the Elks convention. Mr. Paulus is exalted ruler of the Salem Elks lodge. On the return trip they will go into Canada and stop at Lake Louise and Banff. They plan to be away three weeks and will leave tonight from Portland on the streamliner.
