

Old Appraisal Gets Mention

Trial to Resume Monday When State to Rest; Fee Issue Decided

(Continued from page 1) chambers, the court ruled that testimony as to the amount paid for other properties in the same block should be admitted in evidence. Judge McMahon made the reservation, however, that this testimony was to be admitted only to show, in accordance with the defense's contention, that the capitol commission had not made a bona fide effort to reach an agreement with the owners by negotiation. The jury, he said, would be instructed that the price testimony should not be considered in deciding on the fair market value of the Patton property.

Custer E. Ross and Carson for the defense said it was the defense's contention that payment by the state to Supreme Judge Henry J. Bean and Louis Lachmund was commensurate with the value of their properties but payments to some of the other sellers were not.

Prices paid, as testified to by Alton John Bassett, commission secretary, were as follows:

T. B. and C. M. Kay, irregular piece of land, $44,000; Marjorie Huntington, 55 by 100, $11,930; Ellen Edes Meyers, 45 by 16, $12,760; W. I. Staley, 66 by 165, $14,250; S. F. and Sarah Kimball, $14,850; F. C. Bowersox, 64 by 84, $6,120; Florence A. Young, 45 by 66, $5,350; F. G. and M. E. Myers, 50 by 100, $13,400; Josephine Baumgartner, 55 by 100, $10,000.

Banfield put the prices paid for the Bean and Lachmund properties at $24,700 and $25,500, respectively, with both owners retaining their houses. The Bean home was moved to a new location and the Lachmund house sold to Willamette university for $1600.

Two Appraisals by Revisors Are Glorified

Bassett was followed on the stand for the state by Albert R. Bullier, Portland realty agent, who placed value of the Patton property at $35,350, and by J. F. Ulrich, Melvin Johnson and W. G. Krueger, representing the Salem Realty board, who put it at $31,123.58.

The disputed question of attorney fees for the defense was settled as far as the present trial is concerned, when counsel for the two sides stipulated that for purposes of appeal only it could be considered that a reasonable attorney would set the fair fee at $1500. Bassett had been asked by each defense lawyer, and denied by the court. If the case is appealed, the supreme court will be asked to decide the question whether or not the state should pay any attorney fee.

Assistant Attorney General Devers and Rex Kimmel, who are representing the capitol commission, said the state would rest early Monday afternoon.

The defense will put Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Chariton on the stand and four or five other witnesses, Carson said. It is expected the case will reach the jury before the day ends.

The members of the current jury panel who are not serving in the Patton case were notified yesterday not to report until 9 a. m. Tuesday, when the capitol commission's condemnation suit against Alice Farnell and others is set for trial.

E. S. Grigby, project superintendent, termed demands unwarranted, saying nearly a ton of ice was used daily to cool drinking water on the project.

Praise Handed Barkley Mild

President Claims He Is Neutral; Also Lauds Chandler Record

Both Ride Special Train Part of Day Senator Barkley boarded the presidential special in Ohio. Gov. Chandler met Mr. Roosevelt at Cincinnati, across the river from Bowling Green. Barkley accompanied the president as far as Bowling Green. Chandler left the presidential party at Covington.

Surrounded by thousands at Marietta at the unveiling of a monument to pioneer settlers of Ohio, he told his listeners he was "pushing on" like the pioneer to find a solution to social and economic problems and expressed the hope "you will push on with me."

In his speech the president made a bold reiteration of his earlier, inferential, plea for the election of liberal candidates.

"I believe," he said, "that the American people, not afraid of their own capacity to choose forward-looking representatives to run their government, want the same cooperative security and have the same courage to achieve it, in 1938 as in 1788. I am sure they know we will always have a frontier—of social problems—and that we must always move in to bring law and order to it.

Turning to present day conditions, the chief executive said that the whole western and southern civilization which grew from the settlement of the northwest are "on a mental migration."

These sections, he said, are "dissatisfied with old conditions" and are seeking security. Not interfering in Kentucky, asserts

The president spoke at Latonia race track near Covington saying he wanted to "make it definite and clear" that he was "not interfering in any shape, manner or form in the primary campaign in Kentucky."

Mr. Roosevelt said there was "no doubt" Governor Chandler would make a good senator but that he thought Chandler would be the first to admit that it would take many, many years "to match the national knowledge the experience and the acknowledged leadership in affairs of the nation" of that of Barkley.

Toward the end of his address, the president referred to "charges and counter charges of the use of political influence exerted on primary voters."

He said that it "is contrary to direct and forceful orders from Washington for any federal employe to tell those under him how to vote, and I trust that the same rule applies to those who work for the state of Kentucky."

Rosser Action To End Today

Teamster Official Sent Men to Burn Mill Is Claim of Hayter

Robison also told the jury not to believe Banks because "the law says the testimony of an accomplice comes from a polluted source."

Rosser resumed the stand this morning for further examination by the prosecution. Yesterday he said he never was arrested, but today he admitted he had been arrested and fined on a charge of beating his divorced wife.

He admitted telling fellow prisoners in the county jail here that "if Banks testifies against me, they had better keep either him or me in jail for a long time."

Dr. Leo Schatz, Portland physician, testified for the defense that he treated Cecil Moore on February 1, two days after his arrest, for a swollen jaw and injured back confirming Moore's statement that Moore was beaten by a Portland detective. On cross examination, however, the doctor admitted the back injury could have been caused by lumbago.

Dr. H. H. Judd, Portland chiropractic physician, testified for the state that he treated Moore for an injured back two months before his arrest.

Harkins Missing, Harkins Testifies Edwin Goodenough, Salem attorney who represented Lew Harkins, Salem beer truck driver, testified for the defense that Harkins disappeared last Monday or Tuesday. Banks had testified that he first got the idea of burning the mill during a meeting with Harkins last October. Harkins was charged with arson but the charge was dropped. The defense had expected to use Harkins as a witness.

Paul Mumpower, Portland detective and Detective Sam Mahorn of state police, denied Rosser's charge that Mumpower spat in his face the day Rosser was arrested.

District Attorney Bruce Spaulding testified for the state that Moore said his back injury was caused by a venereal disease instead of a "police beating." Eugene Carson also testified that Moore was not beaten.

Judge Walker again denied Vanderveer's motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

No charge is made for instruction. Classes are open to all children and young people who may be interested. Locally the recreation project is sponsored by a committee of citizens headed by W. A. Weddle.

Leroy Knapp Dies From His Wounds, Cheating Gallows

SPOKANE, July 22.—(P)—Leroy Knapp, 23, paid with his life today for the slaying of William Walker here in 1937—the first to die of three youths convicted to death for the bank robbery slaying.

Leroy died early today in a Spokane hospital after predicting he would not live through the night. Hospital attendants said Leroy's sister, visiting him, said: "Goodnight. I'll see you in the morning."

"I won't be here then," Knapp replied.

Leroy was shot a month ago when he attempted to escape from the county jail with his brother Stanley and Herbert Allen. Stanley is under sentence to hang Aug. 5 and Allen Aug. 16, both for the same slaying. Both are in the state penitentiary.

No Aid for Those Who Quit to Farm

When a worker insured under the state unemployment compensation law quits a job to resume his farming operations, he is engaged in self-employment and is available for work for his previous employer, and hence not entitled to benefits under the law, officials held yesterday.

This is particularly true where, in the resumption of his farming operations, he substitutes his own labor for help he hired to operate the farm.

The principle was laid down by a commission referee in the case of Aiden Sturtevant against the W. C. Crone Lumber company after a hearing held in Eugene.

Clackamas Finds Lack of Jobless

OREGON CITY, July 8.—(P)—There may be a lot of unemployment in the rest of the country but Clackamas county found today that she didn't have enough to provide current help for all her federal projects.

A call for 50 men for the $13,482 sewer project brought out only 25, and landscaping of the high school has been stopped for lack of labor. What will be done about getting 500 to 600 men for the $200,000 Molalla flood control work became an acute problem, with only 200 applicants for WPA certification available.

Bid for Factories Urged Upon State

PORTLAND, Ore., July 8.—(P)—The northwest should bid for electro-chemical and electro-metallurgical factories that manufacture cellulose, plastics, cellophane, artificial silk and other artificial fibers, E. T. Hodge, economic geology professor at Oregon State college, and Walter W. R. May, Portland industrial promotion man, said at the institute of northwest affairs at Reed college today.

The northwest, they said, now offers all raw materials and electrical energy needed for this type of factory.

The region's economy is out of balance, they argued, with too many farm and forest workers for the number of industrial workers. Plants of the sort advocated could boost the industrial payroll materially and create a regional farm market badly needed.

Eleven Recruiters Second-year—John R. Schultz, 1240 Center street; Milton E. Hartwell, Salem route seven; William E. Snell, 219 West Lincoln; Glenn L. Hochstetler, 470 South Winter; William J. Thompson, 965 North Capitol, and P. Wilbur, Salem.
