units of the parade had passed the reviewing stand. This was followed by a stunt competition of exceptional merit, numbers in which were offered by a Newport novelty band, the Salem Cherrians with the Salem high school band assisting, a ladies' drill team from Lents VFW post which was uncanny in its precision, special drill by the Seventh Infantry band, the Tillamook juvenile band, an instrumental trio from Mt. Hood post, an outstanding quartet of girl acrobats sponsored by Corvallis post and native dances by three Umatilla Indians.

First division of the parade included the reviewing party of distinguished visitors. The second consisted of the Seventh Infantry band and troops and National Guard troops; the third included the numerous VFW units and auxiliaries with the Seaside girls' band, Canadian Kiltie band, Cootie Drum corps and Astoria Anchor Girls' drum corps. In the fourth division were various patriotic organizations aside from VFW and its affiliates, some of these organizations entering floats as well as marching groups. Music for this division was provided by the Salem Municipal band, Albany Legion Junior band, Tillamook Legion drum corps and Oregon City Legion Junior drum corps.

In the fifth division were the Cherrians, the Artisans, Woodmen of the World, Eagles and Moose drill teams, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, Girl Scouts, floats entered by the Rebekahs, Odd Fellows, Eagles and Moose, the Business and Professional Women's club, the Tillamook high school band and the Salem Heights band. Outstanding floats and displays representing business and industry, marching units of the Salem Trades and Labor council, the Independence and Dallas

bands and the Master Bread band of Salem were in the sixth division.

In all the parade was approximately twice the length of the line of march. Starting promptly at 7:30, more than half of it was on Sweetland field before the last units had started, about 8:40. Under these conditions it was impossible to say how long the parade was, but since the route was about 18 blocks, the parade on that basis would have been 36 blocks long.

Entertainment features of the convention are not yet at an end. The stunts which have featured every day, the Dugout and the carnival will continue. The VFW junior parade will be at 1:30 p.m.

Purchasing of Liquor For Insane Man Hit

GRANTS PASS, July 12—(AP)—In the first case of its kind in justice court, Judge E. W. Madison sentenced M. G. Burrough to 30 days in the county jail for purchasing liquor for a person under interdiction. The recipient of the liquor was found insane the same day and placed in the veterans' facility at Roseburg.

Testimony Ended In Foree's Trial

posed to have made before the grand jury. Defense Counsel Ed Goodenough made a fairly lengthy closing statement pointing out the good reputation enjoyed by Foree and indicating that his client, because of his limited education, was distinctly at a disadvantage when confronted by the officers.

District Attorney Bruce Spaulding, in closing, said the officers were perfectly honest when they secured the confession from Foree and were simply performing their duty.

Al N. Banks, former Salem teamster union official and principal witness against Al E. Rosser, former secretary of the joint AFL teamster union council in Oregon who was convicted of arson Sunday, testified that he discussed plans for burning the mill with Rosser, then made arrangements with Foree to audit funds paying three men who set the fire without asking embarrassing questions.

London Man to Be Kept out of Case

"gentleman in London," called his wife obscene names, and threatened her with "three years of hell with headlines."

He has left his quarters only for short walks, usually twice a day. Apparently he has spent most of his time reading, and receiving a few callers.

Winfield House, the countess' famous mansion in the heart of London, usually a gay society gathering place, has been quiet for the past week. Rarely has the countess passed through its guarded gates.

Elections Take Vets' Interest

Selection of Next Year's Convention City to Be Made at Session

ger, Pacific coast labor leader, was softened to eliminate reference to him as a communist, but asked that he be deported if convicted of charges of attempting to overthrow the American form of government.

A proposal to urge tax exemption for veterans was tabled. Other resolutions dealt largely with internal affairs of the veterans' organization.

O. E. Palmateer, department commander of the American Legion, was one of the convention speakers. He scored the policy of the federal government in refusing to give relief work to disabled veterans on the ground that they are physically unfit for gainful occupations and receive benefits from the government.

Congressman James W. Mott presented a factual address upon the Economy act and the repeal of some of its features in the last congressional session.

Neil H. Kime, executive secretary of the national VFW organization, stressed the importance of building up membership in order to be more effective in veterans' legislation.

Commander Snellstrom presented his annual report showing an increase in membership during the year.

Information designed to be of practical aid to veterans having disability claims, and especially to service officers whose duty it is to assist these claimants, was presented in the service officers' school and in the sample disability rating case presented on the convention floor in the afternoon. There was much conferring of department politicians interested in candidates for the junior vice-commandership during the day, but no "dark horse" candidate had been brought out into the open. Those most prominently mentioned were O. J. Johnson of Pendleton, E. W. Horton of Marshfield and Phillip H. Ringie of Salem.

Thomas Ahead in Oklahoma Primary

answer to his speech delivered here Saturday.

In that address Mr. Roosevelt asserted Senator Thomas, seeking renomination, had been of "enormous help" to the administration.

He tossed a compliment to Governor Marland, another senatorial aspirant, for his oil conservation work; and by inference declared "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, who seeks to return to the governor's chair he left in 1935, was "nationally known as a republican."

State Republicans Will Meet Hoover

MEDFORD, July 12.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover will confer with Oregon republican leaders here tomorrow night. Frank P. Farrel, Jackson county central committee chairman, said about 40 party members would be invited to a dinner.

The ex-president is en route to California from a British Columbia fishing trip.

Lane County Fire Held in Control

EUGENE, July 12.—(AP)—The Western Lane Fire Protective association said it would control a 400-acre forest fire at Gunter 40 miles southwest of here on the Smith river tonight if favorable weather conditions continued.

The fire, one mile from the Siuslaw National forest, destroyed old growth timber in a rough and inaccessible section. Al Hanson, Willamette National forest supply aviator, took off from the Eugene airport at noon with about a ton of food and equipment for fire fighters.

Directors Reject High School Co-op constitutionality of the 1935 legislative act retiring teachers and principals at age 65 was upheld. Copper stated in this connection he had heard, though not officially, that there is a move on foot to have the matter carried to the supreme court of the United States.

The board accepted the resignation of Martin J. Elle, senior high school science instructor. Two new teachers were selected: Miss Helen Kaitanen of Astoria and who has taught at Silverton and Bend, was appointed as substitute English teacher in the junior high at a salary of $1363.71; and Miss Evelyn Dorothy Carpenter of Corvallis, with teaching experience in Montana, was elected home economics teacher, with position unassigned.

Supt. Silas Gaiser reported that two teachers elected for next school year, Horace E. Pattison and Hope Chamberlain had not accepted the Salem offer. Pattison will remain at Milwaukee and Miss Chamberlain has accepted a scholarship to Northwestern university.

Mahoney Suggests Wheat Loan Rates

included proposal of the Salem Civic Players for rental of the Oldhi attic as a workshop and the auditorium there for production of plays next year; call for bids for burners for Parrish Junior high school; bids on plumbing at Olinger field, Highland and Englewood. The board authorized repair of a fire escape at the Oldhi and approved the regular bond for the school clerk.

PORTLAND, July 12.—(AP)—A loan rate of 75 cents per bushel would meet the cost of production and permit wheat growers to carry their crops without financial hardship, Willis E. Mahoney of Klammath Falls, democratic nominee for the U. S. senate, said today in a telegraphic recommendation to the secretary of agriculture.

The candidate said the wheat price at Pendleton was about 50 cents a bushel.
