Church of God Opens Meeting

2000 Expected to Be at Turner Meeting for Sunday Session

Eight hundred persons were in Turner Friday for opening of the second annual Oregon state-wide camp meeting of the Assemblies of God, in session there for 10 days at the Turner Memorial camp grounds, and by Sunday 2000 were expected to be in attendance, leaders reported last night.

Members of this faith are present from all the western states and from Alaska. Outstanding speakers for the camp meeting are Evangelist Harry McAllister of Toronto, Canada, who speaks each night at 7:45 o'clock; and Evangelist N. W. Jennings of Virginia, who brings the message at 2:30 o'clock each afternoon.

An innovation this year is the junior camp meeting for children, set up in its tent quarters and with Evangelist Dorothy Hoppie the junior camp's main speaker.

The general council of the Assemblies of God was first organized at Hot Springs, Kansas, and since that time has grown to the largest body of Christian people in the Pentecostal movement, with representation throughout the US and in 37 foreign countries.

Records show that during 1935 the Assemblies had 3606 ordained ministers, and that at the close of 1937, or a gain of 15.42 per cent. In the same period the affiliations with the general council increased from 3149 to 3473 assemblies, representing a membership of 175,362 or a gain of 29.4 per cent increase over 1935.

A three-day session of the Oregon district council of the Assemblies of God also was held at Turner, ending Thursday night with ordination services for 12 pastors. Rev. Ernest S. Williams of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent, was moderator for the council sessions. One hundred ministers attended.

The district council re-elected Rev. C. G. Weston, pastor of the Salem church, as district superintendent, which post he handles concurrently with the local pastorate. Other officers named were: Rev. Atwood Foster, Cottage Grove, secretary; Rev. Alan H. Banks, Albany, treasurer; C. W. Abalt, Portland, and Leonard Weston, Medford, general presbyters; Ferris A. Dodd, Silverton, E. James Cornwall, Myrtle Point, A. Harold Persing, Roseburg, A. H. Hostved, Hood River, and Lester Carlson, La Grande, all district presbyters.

Tiny Caveman Best Dressed

At Leslie's Dress up Day Event; Olinger Has Program, too

Two-year-old Cave Man Freddie Rose was the hit of Leslie's Dress-Up day party yesterday afternoon, swathed in fur and strutting mightily to walk off with the award for the best historical costume.

Though Caveman Freddie controlled most of the spotlight before the 288 who witnessed the parade, others came in for rewards.

Jan Gardner, dressed as a fairy, took the prettiest costume prize; Bob Coleman, with a newspaper outfit, the most original; Joyce Reeves, as a clown, the funniest; Judith and Floyd Hinz, the former in colonial costume and the latter as a dancer, the best group; Richard Wyatt, as a Chinese mandarin, the best foreign; Beldon Owens, the best character representation, as Old Black Joe.

Judges were Mesdames Duane Gibson, Fred Thompson and Leslie Sparks. Entrants were: Alice Rose, Jane Gardner, Janet Coleman, Joan Herman, Nellie Horneffer, Ray Meyers, Bob Coyeman, Joyce Reeves, Robert Crossier, Dickie Cockling, Elmer Killenki, Billie Herman, Gerald Herman, Judith Henry, Floyd Hinz, Lloyd Hinz, Bruce Rogers, Allan Gemmel, Laoretta Deacon, Marilyn Wyatt, Suzanne Singleton, Betty Merle Rhoten, Freddie Rose, Ann Kellogg, Orin DeChien, Beldon Owens, Geraldine Radcliff, Howard Dean, Virginia Ellis, Charlotte Moffitt, Darrell Gemmill, Kent Myers, Elizabeth Kellogg, Robert Canfield and David Curtis.

Dressup day for the children at Olinger playground brought lively competition yesterday afternoon, with Judges Mrs. Roy Howard, Mrs. C. J. Morgan and Mrs. Jack Scherer making the awards as follows:

Prettiest costume to Gail Monana Lohead as a Hawaiian girl; most original, Daryl Satter as a WPA worker; funniest, David Craven as a farmer boy; best group, Peggy Frantz and Jack Vickers as a doctor and nurse; best group, Emma, Gay Hendrickson as a Dutch girl; historical, Fern Johnson as a Puritan maid; best representation, Phyllis Felmer as a hobbit.

A special attraction was the locally made crocheted thread exhibit loaned by the Miles library, and the exhibit of work done by the adult women's crocheted class taught by Martha Madson.

Responsible for the successful parade were Harold Hawk, playground director, Edith Boyle, Hilda Smith and Mrs. Madson.
