Woodland Area Opened For Summer Camps

Perhaps you've been wondering, as I did, about the Silver Falls recreational area which has come into sudden prominence this summer.

It's a surprisingly large and unusually beautiful tract of land, in the Silver Creek Falls forest which has been developed by the government for use of organizations whose members wish to vacation in the outdoors.

I was so curious, that I motored there on a Sunday afternoon, armed with a pass so the gatekeeper would let me in. Passes are necessary because the park department has developed the spot as a camp not for picnics, barring traffic that would greatly lessen the attractive primitiveness of the place.

The recreational area took three years to build and is a monument to the much maligned WPA with its attractively designed cabins, deep swimming hole and convenient dining lodge. No wonder there were never less than 250 workers, and sometimes up to 600, for there are 4000 acres of cleared property, cabins built from hewn logs, even hand made furniture, let alone 30 miles of cleared trails and two and a half miles of graveled road from the highway.

The area was planned, and is being used for camps for various organizations such as church or club groups, to remain for a week or more at a nominal cost (a dollar day). This year the YMCA was in charge because it has equipment available. The whole summer has been spoken for, the area is divided into three units so that many organizations could be occupying it without interfering.

My party was guided by Mrs. Gus Moore, who, with Mr. Moore, has spent four pleasant weeks as one of the supervisors of two boys' camps. She's enthusiastic and rightly so.

First we visited the log administration building where youngsters can spend their nickels on bars and gum, where the counselor has his office and where there are temporary headquarters for the trained nurse.

There are three units, Hillside, Trickles Falls camp, and Bear Creek and a family unit is being planned. Each unit boasts two leaders' cabins that hold two apiece, and six regular cabins, with each room for four. Cabins are logs with screen wire. All open work is equipped with copper screening, construction is also for winter use. Near each unit is a lavatory with showers and wash tubs.

The swimming pool nestles in a low place in the center of the area and is a natural pool aided by attractive stonework. The main fire circle is surrounded by attractive split-log benches facing a more pretentious bench for the counselor and song leader. A large ball ground has proven the popular place in the area.

MARION—Wednesday was spent at the home of Mrs. Fred Shermacher by the Women's Sewing club. Mrs. Herman De Langh presided at the business session. Work on the two embroidered quilts was done and a covered dish luncheon was served at noon.

Attending were Mrs. Elzy Pickard, Mrs. Mac Robbins and Lucille, Mrs. Herman De Langh and Janet, Mrs. C. E. Wilcox, Mrs. Homer Smith, Mrs. Claude Overholser and Ruth, Mrs. Elmer Conover, Mrs. Warren Gray and the hostess.

KEIZER—The Keefe home was the scene of a gathering Friday afternoon honoring Mrs. Ray Bunnell, nee Irma Keefe, who is visiting at the paternal home. Musical numbers were presented by Mrs. Bunnell and Mrs. F. O. Breckenridge. Out-of-state guests were Miss Mary Keefe, who is librarian in the University of Washington, Mrs. I. F. Bunnell, also of Seattle, and Mrs. L. L. Raver of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bunnell will leave Friday for their home in Gatun, Panama.

SALEM HEIGHTS—The social sewing division of the Woman's club will meet at the home of Mrs. Ben Rathjen for an all-day meeting on Wednesday, with a covered dish luncheon served at noon.

Entertaining at Lunch Calls For Hints

Some tidbit found among those ideas which come so frequently to the notice of a writer of woman's features; For an elegant luncheon dish to serve about this time of year, center the plate with a marinated tomato filled with a mixture of minced yolk of egg, mustard and mayonnaise that has been fluffed up with cubed egg white, lay alongside a hot ham sandwich that's topped with grated cheese that has been browned under the broiler. Arrange fresh cooked green beans on the plate and top off the mixture with ripe olives, celery curls and fresh dill pickles. Fluffy little jackets or capes to wear over your evening things are high fashion favorites to date.

HONEY PEANUT ROCKS

2 cups flour 1 teaspoon baking powder 1 teaspoon soda 1 cup butter 1 cup hot water 2 cups milk 1 cup honey 2 cups oatmeal 1 cup chopped raisins 1 cup chopped peanuts Sift dry ingredients together. Cream butter and honey well. Add oatmeal, raisins and peanuts. Then dry ingredients and milk. Drop on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 300 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. A sandwich loaf is very nice for party refreshments and here is a new way to serve it. Instead of cutting servings from one large loaf, frost individual sandwiches with cream cheese. They help to make a pretty party table. Decorate the individual plates with sprigs of parsley and radish roses. These are made by cutting petals' or slicing down around the radishes and placing them in ice water until ready to serve.

Two combinations for buffet meals are suggested below: Ready-to-serve cold meat platter, au gratin potatoes, tomato aspic salad, fresh peach shortcake with whipped cream, coffee. (Spiced ham, jellied veal loaf, liver sausage and salami make a good combination for the cold meat platter.) Creamed veal with mushrooms served in toasted bread baskets parried potatoes combination fresh vegetable salad, pineapple upside-down cake, coffee or cider. (Creamed veal may be made from left-over roast veal. Silvers of green pepper and pimiento add a colorful decorative note.)

Lamb Chop Grill Makes Fine Meat Dish

Because lamb combines so well with practically all vegetables and fruits, it is a favorite for the combination grill. "Lamb loin, rib, or shoulder chops, lamb steaks cut from the leg, or squares of lamb threaded onto a skewer, are all suitable for the main part of the combination grill meal," says Inez S. Willson, home economist. Shoulder lamb chops are among the thrifty meat cuts which are cooked by broiling. These may be made very attractive if boned and rolled. All chops or steaks for broiling are cut thick, at least one inch, because then the outside can be nicely browned while the inside is still tender and juicy.

For broiling, place the chops or steaks on the broiling rack so that there is a distance of about three inches between the top of the meat and the heating element. This insures a moderate temperature for broiling. If the distance must be reduced, the temperature accordingly. When one side is nicely browned, season, turn, and finish the broiling on the second side.

Potatoes, cooked in water first and then dipped in melted butter may be added to the grill during the last few minutes for browning.

Pickled Peaches Among Canned Specials

Pickled peaches, plums and apricots, not to mention pears, are among the most practical specials to include in the fall canning schedule which provides for unusual and very pleasing winter menus. Pickled peaches especially are excellent for heating and serving with meats in winter. They make a winter salad ingredients, too.

MOTHER'S PICKLED PEACHES

1 1/2 pounds fruit 7 cups sugar 2 cups vinegar 2 teaspoons cinnamon bark 1 teaspoon cloves Cook syrup and pour over fruit in a crock for 4 consecutive days and if fruit isn't done by then put in and cook a while. If wanted, may be processed for 25 minutes in jars to make seal or may be left in a stone crock.

Today's Menu

Ground veal is going to be the meat for today and it will be formed into cakes and browned. Tomato-onion-carrot salad Ground veal cakes Fresh applesauce Green beans in butter Sherbet with peach sauce Cut tomatoes in quarters, carrots in fingers and onions in slices. Let stand for a while with French dressing, then arrange in a wooden bowl with lettuce. Brown the veal cakes quickly, then put in a covered dish and let cook very slowly for half an hour or so. Serve with browned gravy.

Waldorf Salad Appears In new Guise

Although the old favorite Waldorf salad is just about as pleasing to the family after they've had it time after time, an occasional variation will make a new salad of the good old apple combination. In this recipe the nuts are replaced by peanut butter to give a stylish flavor.

WALDORF SALAD WITH PEANUT BUTTER SALAD DRESSING

2 cups diced apples 1 cup cut celery 1/2 cup peanut butter salad dressing Toss celery and apples together with the salad dressing. Place lettuce cups on salad plates and fill with salad. Yield, six servings.

PEANUT BUTTER SALAD DRESSING

1 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon mustard Dash of cayenne 2 tablespoons flour 2 tablespoons sugar 2 yolks or 1 egg 1 cup irradiated evaporated milk 2 tablespoons peanut butter 1/4 cup vinegar Blend salt, mustard, cayenne, flour and sugar. Add egg yolks or beaten egg. Mix well, then add milk. Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Stir in the peanut butter, then the vinegar slowly. If salad dressing is too thick, thin with a little evaporated milk. Yield, one and one-third cups.

This peanut butter salad dressing clings nicely to the salad ingredients and has plenty of zip. Incidentally, if you have some left over from your salad making use it as a sandwich spread. You will like it.

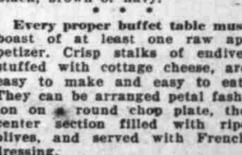

Sandwiches Filled With Interesting Variety

Sandwich making gives a woman's imagination a chance to revel for there are no end of fillings. If you let inventive feelings have their way, you can concoct many different and delicious spreads. For instance, using cream cheese as a foundation, many variations may be made; scraped cucumber, peanut butter, jam, dates, green pepper or shredded pineapple may be added to the cheese which has been combined with a little milk or cream to make it light and fluffy. Variations in sandwiches is not confined to the fillings. Delightfully different ones are made from orange bread, pecan butter-scotch bread, chocolate bread and banana bread. A filling of chopped dates and nut meats, moistened with mayonnaise, is especially nice with orange bread. A good filling for nut bread sandwiches is quince or currant jelly.

New Color Smacks of Green Fields

"Clover" is the color of a new group of accessories being featured in suede gloves, sweaters and hats. It's a color as luscious as it sounds and tremendously smart when worn with blue, black, brown or navy. Every proper buffet table must boast of at least one raw appetizer. Crisp stalks of endive, stuffed with cottage cheese, are easy to make and easy to eat. They can be arranged petal fashion on a round chop plate, the center section filled with ripe olives, and served with French dressing.
