WCTU Hears Talk On 64th Conclave

Reports on the 64th annual WCTU convention held at San Francisco recently were heard at the Tuesday meeting of the Salem unit, with Mrs. Ruth Tooze speaking.

Mrs. Tooze, who was one of the 2000 delegates, outlined the 12-point program adopted by the convention for extensive social and economic reforms. She also displayed a Frances Willard centenary souvenir map showing the more than 250 memorials—statues, churches, schools and drinking fountains—erected all over the nation in honor of the WCTU founder. Mrs. Tooze told of the hospitality shown by the bay city to the delegates.

Mrs. James Killip of Philadelphia, who with her husband is in the city while touring the nation with a "Safety on Wheels" trailer car, was a guest speaker.

Chemeketas Plan Spirit Lake Trip

Rated as one of the major events of the year for the Chemeketas and their friends, the Spirit lake trip and Mt. St. Helens climb is scheduled for the coming weekend. Those planning to go are urged to register early at the Senator hotel. Kenneth Jennings is the leader.

St. Helens is not a difficult mountain to climb, members of the club report; but for those wishing something less strenuous there will be another hike, as well as boating and swimming. The driving distance on the trip is 340 miles.

Some members of the Chemeketas will attend the convention of the Federation of Western Outdoor clubs at Mt. Hood lodge, September 3 to 5. Otto Bowman is the local club's delegate.

Prune Lands Back At Original Price

MONMOUTH—An interesting price scale graph was evidenced here recently when Mrs. F. B. Laughlin bought a 10-acre prune orchard near the southeast city limits of Monmouth for $400.

The land sold originally for $125 an acre, and was bought by C. E. Herren from the Craven estate nearly 30 years ago. Herren set it out to prunes. It had no improvements except fences, and soon afterward sold it to L. M. West of Tacoma for $2250. West refused $5000 for the 10 acres during war time when prune prices were soaring. He harvested many crops of prunes, but when his health failed the orchard received less care, and prune prices by that time were sadly depleted.

Certify Youth To Mrs. White

Cvitanov Is in Hands of Juvenile Court While Inquiries Made

Thomas Cvitanov, 17, Sacramento youth accused of breaking into the Bishop clothing store recently, appeared in justice court yesterday and was certified over to juvenile court. Mrs. Nona M. White, county probation officer, said an investigation of his case and of conditions of his parole from the California reformatory at Preston, Calif., would be made before he would be taken before County Judge Siegmund.

Cvitanov is recovering from a bullet wound in the back received when, a city officer reported, he attempted to resist arrest. He is now able to walk with the aid of a cane and will be kept in the county jail until his case is disposed of.

Politics as Hobby Urged by Teacher

Prof. Jones Says Nation Needs More Non-Pro Politicians

Making a hobby of politics was urged upon busy business men in an address at the Salem Rotary club luncheon Wednesday by Prof. William C. Jones of Willamette university, who suggested that the community and nation are in need of more active, non-professional politicians.

To the professional politician the "great game of politics" is an exact science, based upon the activity of the precinct committeemen. Where a real "machine" rules politics, the precinct committeeman is also a professional, with his minor political job dependent upon his "delivering" the precinct at each election. Jones described how a few dollars judiciously spent—in an extremely legal manner—will often swing enough votes to reverse the expected outcome. Erroneous ideas about the sort of men who are political bosses also received mention. Prof. Jones declaring that Boise Penrose, one of the greatest of bosses, was an honor student at Harvard university and an outstanding authority on politics and government.

Qualifications of presidential candidates outlined by Prof. Jones included party regularity, availability—which he said covered a multitude of considerations—reputation and personal wealth.

Testimony Heard In Divorce Case

Four Women Witnesses on Stand in Bartholomew Divorce Action

Four witnesses, all women, were placed on the stand for the plaintiff in the divorce case of Vivian Bartholomew vs. Lyle P. Bartholomew yesterday afternoon before adjournment time. The trial, before Circuit Judge L. G. Lewelling, will be resumed at 10 a. m. today with further testimony to be presented on behalf of Mrs. Bartholomew.

Two of yesterday's witnesses, including the plaintiff, told of an expedition to the Bartholomew cottage at Nelscott last June 4 intended to produce evidence in support of an allegation, made in the divorce complaint two days later, that the defendant was unfaithful. The plaintiff's religious faith required such an allegation, one witness stated.

A third witness told of assistance given at Nelscott and the fourth, briefly, of the Bartholomew home life some years ago. The witnesses in addition to the plaintiff were Mrs. Mary Slotboom, Mrs. Georgia Denny and C. G. Morgan.

Lions May Invite Corrigan to Stop

Salem Lions club members will discuss a suggestion at their luncheon meeting today noon that the club invite Douglas Corrigan, trans-Atlantic "wrong-way" flier, to make Salem one of the stops on his prospective nationwide good will tour. The publicity committee, of which Tommy Hoxie is chairman, has had the matter under consideration for several days. Corrigan has a sister-in-law, Mrs. Bjarne Erickson, living in Salem.

Chamber to Hear Townsend Officer

Arthur L. Johnson Author of General Welfare Act to Speak

Arthur L. Johnson, author of the general welfare act resolution now before congress as HR 4199, which embodies the principles of the Townsend recovery plan, will be the speaker at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon next Monday noon. It was announced yesterday by local leaders in the movement.

Mr. Johnson, previously chairman of organized labor's legislative committee in California and active at nine sessions of that state's legislature, is now secretary of the General Welfare Federation of America and chairman of its legislative committee, active in promoting the welfare act before congress, and is also a practicing attorney in the national capital.

He is on a nationwide tour which includes only two stops in Oregon, here Monday noon and in Portland Monday night. He is coming north from California. He addresses the Los Angeles chamber of commerce this week. He will be introduced by Congressman James W. Mott. The address will be broadcast at 12:30 p. m. over station KSLM.
