Pension Plan Gets Support

Author of HR 1499 States Objections Removed From new Plan

Improvements over earlier drafts of the Townsend pension plan, embodied in House Resolution 4199, have removed all of the valid objections to the program and brought it widespread support among all classes of citizens, it was contended by Arthur L. Johnson, author of the resolution, in an address before a large crowd at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon Monday noon.

The plan as now set up with a 2 per cent gross income tax would provide pensions of approximately $60 a month, possibly as low as $53 a month in the beginning, Johnson said. These pensions would be no more than sufficient to support the elderly people in comfort. The resolution as now drafted would not compel the beneficiaries to spend all the money within a month.

Simplicity Advantage
It would apply to approximately eight million people, about half of whom would be removed from gainful occupation to make room for that many of the younger unemployed, the speaker said. It would have the advantage of simplicity and economy of administration over present social security legislation, which the speaker criticized because of the piling up of large reserves unnecessarily.

Attacks California Plan
Johnson, formerly connected with the California labor commission, attacked the "30 every Thursday" scheme now on the ballot in that state, an unconstitutional and one of the "crackpot" ideas that are harming the general welfare act cause.

The speaker was introduced by Congressman James W. Mott, who praised the welfare act program and declared that a much misunderstanding had arisen because of the early mention of a $200 a month pension, which never was included in any of the bills except briefly in the first draft of the McGroarty bill. Mott was active in drafting later measures on the subject which were before congress.

Two Pedestrians Injured by Auto
Elderly Women Receive Leg Fractures, Cuts; Driver not Held
Two elderly Salem women, Mrs. Alice B. Frizzell and sister, Margaret B. McFadden, are undergoing hospital treatment at the Salem General as a result of injuries sustained about 8:30 Sunday night when a car driven by Wellington W. Hill of Corvallis struck them down at the intersection of Summer and Center streets.

Hospital officials said last night both women were convalescing nicely. Mrs. Frizzell has a compound fracture of the right leg and severe body bruises, while Miss McFadden also has a fractured leg, several fractured ribs and numerous bruises and abrasions.

Hill, who was not held by police, told them he was driving west on Center street at a speed of not over 30 miles per hour and was partially blinded by the lights of an oncoming car as he swung out to miss another car which had stopped in the intersection.

13 Counties Sign State Fair Space

Special booths on the ground floor of the agricultural building have been reserved for county exhibits. An inventors' show in the agricultural pavilion will be an added attraction at this year's fair.

Premium List $30,000
County reservations have been made by Lincoln, Lane, Wasco, Marion, Columbia, Clackamas, Benton, Curry, Hood River, Coos, Polk, Linn and Yamhill. Tillamook is also expected to show.

Spitzbart said he had not yet received a reply from Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan, who recently was invited to visit this year's fair.

This year's premium list carries prizes of more than $30,000, which exceeds the amounts posted in previous years.

Municipal Judge Reports National Gathering Is Best Ever

"Both from the standpoint of attendance and interest, the convention was the best the order has ever had," said Municipal Judge A. Warren Jones yesterday, speaking in regard to the national convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at Cincinnati, to which he was a state delegate and from which he returned to Salem Sunday.

Judge Jones gained distinction when he was appointed tyler during the convention and assigned to the ritualistic committee. The appointment gained him a valuable point from which to view the ritualistic work of officers and the drill team.

"Dr. Fred Dilley, of Brazil, Indiana, who was elected grand worthy president, is an exceptionally fine man," said Jones, "and his election was especially gratifying to me."

The order's parade, which took place August 14, numbered better than 13,000, according to Jones. The day was hot, as was his entire stay in the east, reports Jones.

"While I had no opportunity to inquire into business conditions," Jones said, "anti-new deal sentiment was prevalent and many expressed interest in forthcoming elections on our coast."

Heating Plant Decision Near

Site Probably to Be Set Next Week; Commission Advises Haste

Definite decision as to the location and amount of land required for the proposed new central heating plant to serve the capitol group of buildings here, probably will be made early next week, the state board of control announced at a meeting Monday.

Dr. E. C. Dalton, member of the capitol reconstruction commission, appeared at the board meeting and urged speed in purchasing the required land. He said that under provisions of the grant actual construction work would have to begin by October 14.

The plant was estimated to cost $114,000, of which the PWA has approved a grant of $51,000.

Members of the board made it plain that purchase of a site for the heating plant would not be restricted to Twelfth street, which abuts the state office building land on the east.

Proposals involving sites for the heating plant will be opened by State Purchasing Agent Fry at 2 p. m. next Monday.

A sketch of the proposed new state tuberculosis hospital in Portland was filed with the board. The hospital will cost $200,000, of which $110,000 was appropriated by the last legislature. The remainder was granted by the federal government.

Immediately following selection of a site for the central heating plant the emergency board will be called into session. This board will be asked to appropriate funds to pay for the site.

It is likely that the heating plant will be equipped to burn both hog fuel and oil.
