2 Dead 50 Injured in New York Subway Crash

Two dead and an estimate ranging from 30 to 50 injured was the toll of the recent subway crash in New York City. Two heavily burdened southbound trains telescoped, killing Emanuel Auerbach, who was apparently riding near the tiny cab of Salvatore Cota, driver. Cota was extricated alive, but died shortly after. Cota's train smashed into the rear of the front one. Police believe the accident was caused by an unidentified person jerking an emergency cord, when he saw a woman passenger on the first train caught in the doors just as the train was pulling out of 116th street station. News pami swept the crowded cars as all lights went out and a short circuit started a fire. Photo shows firemen breaking through the sides of coaches to remove passengers.—(IN).
