

Modern Kitchen Plan, Polk Fair

Traveling Model Made by OSC Departments to Be on Exhibit

DALLAS—Last-minute announcements and information on the Polk county fair to be held at Monmouth on September 1 and 2 will be made in a special Polk county fair broadcast from station KOAC on Tuesday, August 30, at 12:15 p. m. by Josiah Willis, county school superintendent and secretary of the Polk county fair board, and W. C. Leth, Polk county agent.

Mr. Willis and Mr. Leth expect to have information on the various community booths and 4H club entries.

Kitchen to Be Shown
A special attraction at the fair will be an exhibit of a modern kitchen at a moderate cost designed to meet the needs of an Oregon family.

Mrs. Virginia Schneider of Oregon State college will have charge of the kitchen demonstration and will explain the various arrangements possible for different sized kitchens.

The kitchen was designed and constructed by OSC departments. Miss Maude Wilson, in charge of home economic research, is a nationally known authority on housing and has planned the working units and the arrangements. Mrs. Herbert Sinnard, professor of architecture in agricultural engineering, designed the built-ins and supervised construction. Professor F. E. Price of the agricultural engineering department, supervised the lighting and electrical equipment. Miss Jean Patterson, home specialist in the extension service, supervised the interior decorations.

The traveling kitchen is making a circuit of Oregon and will be on display in Polk county only at this time.

Commander Hawks and Friend Die in Plane Crash

Charred wreckage is all that remains of the plane which carried to their deaths Lieutenant Commander Frank M. Hawks, 41, and his companion, J. Hazard Campbell, socialite flier, near East Aurora, N. Y. The small plane struck a high tension wire and crashed to earth in flames. Hawks had been demonstrating it to Campbell. Hawks lived about two hours after the crash, but did not regain consciousness. Campbell died shortly after his companion. Holder at one time of about 225 air records in the United States and Europe. Hawks gave up daring performances a year ago to concentrate on the "safety and comfort" of flying. Photo shows wreckage of the plane which Commander Hawks was demonstrating to Campbell.—(L.N.)

Linn Irrigation Meets Announced

First in Monday Session at Harrisburg; Five Others Planned

ALBANY—With the irrigation meeting to be held at Harrisburg August 29, under direction of County Agent Floyd Mullen, a series of five such meetings are to be conducted throughout the county. The meetings are being held for the purpose of discussing irrigation policies and equipment, and are due to the unprecedented dry spell experienced by the county this year.

The dry weather this season cut the berry crop at least half. Those farmers who had previously installed irrigating systems will no doubt show good returns at the close of the season. Agent Mullen stated that many more farmers were contemplating installing systems before next year.

Dates Announced
Dates for these meetings have been set for August 29, at 9:30 a. m. at the Lee Foster farm between Harrisburg and Halsey, with visits being made to several irrigated farms in that neighborhood. On August 30, the Dale Eisenmann and Charles Hart, Jr., farms in the Connor district six miles northeast of Albany, will be visited. Here a sprinkler system is being applied to vegetable gardens, water being supplied from dug wells and operated by car motors.

On August 31 the Homer Davis farm just south of Crabtree will be visited at 10 a. m. The water on this farm is being supplied from a sough for the purpose of irrigating farm crops.

At 1:30 on the same day the Dave Horseburgh farm four miles southwest of Scio will be visited. On this farm the sprinkler system is in use for Ladino clover, while the W. W. Harder farm in the same vicinity is being irrigated by the flood system, operated by a water pump and small gasoline engine. Borovicka's

School Chiefs Return to Job

Principals, Section Heads to Prepare for Start of School Term

Salem's 11 counterparts, modern or otherwise, of the little red schoolhouse will stir into activity next week as principals and department heads return to begin last-minute preparations for the year's instruction of an estimated 5500 boys and girls scheduled to start September 12.

Three hundred seventy of the pupils will be entering school for the first time; 413 will be stepping up from elementary to junior high school.

Enrollment Slacks Off
The sharp enrollment gains of recent years apparently will not be repeated this year. Supt. Elias Galster said yesterday as he studied estimates submitted from the various schools. The city's school population is tending to level off after a period of steady increase. One reason he sees for this condition is a slowing down of emigration from the midwest.

Grade principals estimates of this fall's enrollment totaled 2,251, only 197 more than the actual count two weeks after classes opened last September. Junior high principals saw prospect of a drop of 110 together at Parrish and Leslie. Principal Fred Wolf believes there will be little if any change in registration at the senior high school.

Principals Give Exams
With the position of elementary supervisors for prospective first grade pupils will be given by the principals in their respective buildings. Children who reach their sixth birthday before December 1 may register without taking the tests of "school readiness." Those who will become six between that date and March 1 will be admitted next month if such tests show them prepared for school. Appointments for the tests may be made by telephoning the school administration building.

An estimated enrollment by buildings is as follows:

Bush, 433; Englewood, 330; Garfield, 245; Grant, 248; Highland, 281; McKinley, 268; Richmond, 231; Washington, 215; Parrish, 986; Leslie, 478; senior high, 1825 (not official).

OSC Rooks Report On September 19

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Students planning to enter Oregon State college for the first time this fall will report September 19 for the opening of Freshman week, regardless of their plans in connection with fraternity membership. E. B. Lenson, registrar, announces. As in the past, formal fraternity rushing does not commence until the following Friday, after the entire class has been "introduced" to college life on exactly the same footing.

Early indications are for a freshman class as large or larger than last year, with total registration depending on the percentage of former students returning. Living costs are expected to be slightly lower this year, while NYA financing assistance will be somewhat increased compared with last year. Registration for old students is Saturday, September 24.

Electric Service Consumption More

An increase in electrical service in June compared with June, 1937, was reported here Thursday by N. G. Wallace, state utilities commissioner.

Residential service was up 17.5 per cent while commercial and industrial consumption was down 14 per cent.

The number of residential and rural customers increased 4.56 per cent during the first six months this year, compared with the similar period last year. The average consumption increased 8 per cent.
