

Big new Barns Taxed by Stock

Spacious Additions Will Be Filled to Overflowing, Fair Managers Say

Livestock entries at this year's Oregon state fair are so great that the big new $60,000 barns will be crowded to overflowing, J. J. Taylor, Salem, superintendent of the dairy and beef cattle reported Thursday.

Other entries also were arriving in large quantities from all parts of Oregon and neighboring states.

Unusual interest is evidenced this year by prospective exhibitors in the textile department. Among the exhibits in this division will be Chinese clothing and pottery collected by Mrs. Everett T. May of Salem. A collection of items from South America and Mexico also will be featured. These will be exhibited by Mrs. Marie Flint McCall of Salem.

Hundred Race Horses Here
More than 100 head of race horses already have arrived at the fairgrounds.

Cattle from Idaho, Montana, Washington and California will be included in the cattle show along with many fine entries from Oregon. Judging of dairy beef cattle was scheduled to start at 9 a. m. Monday.

Record Opening Expected
"We will have the biggest and finest show ever held in connection with the Oregon state fair," Taylor declared. More than 300 head of livestock will be shown in the Future Farmers of America contests this year, Earl R. Cooley, state supervisor of agricultural education said.

The grand livestock parade, featuring open classes, will take place at 10:30 Friday in front of the grandstand.

One of the largest crowds of the week was expected at the fair Monday, Labor day.

Fair Will Have Opening Rites

Governor to Declare Fair Open at Ceremonies on Labor Day

Governor Charles H. Martin will formally open the 77th Oregon state fair at a special ceremony which will be held in front of the new administration building on the fairgrounds at 10 a. m. Labor day, it was announced last night by Fair Manager Leo Spitzbart.

Plans being worked out call for J. D. Mickie, newly appointed director of the state department of agriculture and director of the fair, to introduce Governor Martin. Ashley Cook's Portland band will furnish music in conjunction with the event. The gates of the fair will open at 6 a. m. Labor day.

Pace Is Furious
Work around the fairgrounds proceeded at a furious pace all day yesterday as exhibitors got in to the swing of erecting their booths. Work in the art department began as Mrs. Anna Rundell of Portland, superintendent of the department, arrived. She announced that a few of the prize-winning works of art which won blue ribbon awards at the recent Seattle show would be brought to the fair. An unusual number of school exhibits was also predicted for this year. Sixteen works from the Artistic Sketch club of Portland will be a feature of the exhibits.

Head Shearer of Estacada, superintendent of poultry, said that he expected 3,000 entries in his department this season. That would be the largest number yet shown here. He based his prediction on the fact that county exhibits have been unusually large.

4H Dormitory Readied
The 4H club dormitory was being put in condition for the boys and girls who will live there during the fair. L. J. Allen, assistant state leader of 4H, said that reports made to him indicate that every county which has had a county fair this year will be sending in as much or more 4H club livestock as at any time in the past. A total of well over 700 head of stock are expected.

Hughes and Kirk, who brought the wild horses from eastern Oregon to be featured in the bucking contest here, yesterday began working out two special teams which will compete in chariot races. The chariot races will be a feature of the night horse show. Horse show officials were experiencing difficulties in finding space for all the entries which have come in. Indications were that all stable space in the horse show building would be taken before tonight.

Cotton Club Band To Play for Fair

Les Hite's Colored Band Engaged for Week at Fair Dance Hall

Les Hite and his mighty Cotton Club orchestra have been signed to return to Salem for the Oregon state fair.

Hite, who has appeared twice in Salem before increasingly larger crowds, was brought back through special arrangements with Music Corporation of America because of the hundreds of personal requests made for his return. Scheduled eastern appearances have been postponed in order to allow this sensational colored orchestra to fulfill popular demand return engagements up and down the Pacific coast.

His Music Popular
Early last spring, following completion of several moving pictures, Hite started a tour of the coast. Leaving the Cotton club, he came north, playing famous night spots on the way, with the intention of swinging east from Seattle. However, a wave of popular demand a gain routed him south. Today his many requests for more return engagements have necessitated another trip through the northwest.

Hite, who recently appeared with Bing Crosby in Dr. Rhythm, and who furnished much of the incidental music for Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, has appeared in more motion pictures than any other orchestra leader.

Hite, who has been broadcasting nightly for the past decade over coast-to-coast networks of NBC, CBS and more recently MBS will appear for the entire week of the fair, September 5-11, inclusive.

Efforts for Fair Return Full Value

Horse Show Head Informs Lions $150,000 Went Into Circulation

The effort and money that go into the state fair in the promotion of livestock and crop betterment are returned multiplied in value to Oregon, A. W. Metzger, night horse show director and assistant chief of the dairy and foods division of the department of agriculture, told Salem Lions club members yesterday. He said the fair last year distributed from its gross receipts $150,000 in this

Although the new livestock pavilion has been enlarged since last fall, it is too small to accommodate all the stock coming to the 1938 fair, Metzger said. Already other housing for over 35 head of draught horses has had to be arranged.

Corrigan Regrets He Can't Oblige

Douglas Corrigan will not be able to visit Salem during state fair week, the famed "wrong way" transatlantic airman wrote in a letter received by Mayor V. E. Kuhn yesterday morning. The flier thanked city officials for the invitation sent him and expressed regret that lack of time prohibited his coming to the capital of Oregon.

Corrigan has a sister-in-law, Mrs. Bjarne Erickson, residing here. The flier is now en route to Los Angeles, from the east, having also declined an invitation to visit Sacramento, California's capital.
