There's nothing like tennis for form. It's so true bookies won't have any part of it. Such bookmakers as Broadway Jack Doyle and other takers of the wager usually go on their vacations while the nationals are in progress. History proves their wisdom. In the men's singles, 56 championships have been won by 21 different stars. And though women's sports are supposed to be harder to guess, 50 women's singles titles have been cornered by 21 players.

J. Donald Budge, of course, is Giants last year, came back to the man they're all picking to win plague Bill Terry again today by this heat. The redhead from Oak- hurling the Dodgers to a 7 to 1 land is points off his game. He's victory over his old mates. sick and he shouldn't even play. Physically everything is against him. Yet, the scarcest thing for Tom Baker, allowed nine hits around this beautiful club is a as he chalked up his second long-shot player who'll bet even straight win over the Giants and dough that Budge loses a single his 10th victory of the season.

It's a bit different among the New York women but the guess is it'll be Helen Jacobs and Alice Marble in Coffman, Brown (7), Castleman the finals. When they get there, the experts will have to do a bit of work as Helen and Alice are evenly matched with Helen playing on a not so sure ankle.

There have been several upsets here. Five years ago, "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta pulled the biggest one by whipping defending champion Ellsworth Vines in straight sets, "Bitsy" wasn't given a chance and the match wasn't even played on the center court so all many spectators know about the sensational happening was what they read in the papers. But form prevailed. The great Fred Perry of England skipped through the rest of the field to sixth straight win. win the title.

So, on down the record of St. Louis champions, you can't find a single unknown as you can in golf, where a fellow might rise up to win a title and then fall right back into permanent obscurity. There are no George Stallings' or Sam Parks' in big or even little time tennis. Ninetynine times out of 100 the number 9 ranking star will lick the num-ber 10 player in a crucial match, Johnnie Cincof id, Meridi 1 the number one will beat number two and so on-right down

Long Shots Come Through in 3 Races as Meet Nears Finish

It was "long-shot" day at the state fair horse races Friday; and the outsiders came through in flying fashion, three of them returning the fancy price to backers of $72.50, $54.00 and $28.58. From top to bottom it was easily the fastest day of racing of the meet, but the fun didn't start until the fifth event. Meto Boy Pays $72.50

In that particular race, Meto Boy made a beautiful bid on the back straight-away and held the lead until the finish, to kick through with the $72.50 nose
