BACK TO SCHOOL will be a ringing phrase in many homes these next few weeks. . . Mothers are busy getting their young ones off to school . . . packing and rushing them off to fare-well parties. . . Co-eds are more concerned these days about the rushing parties and the thrill of the year will be when sister and brother is pledged to that sorority or fraternity. . . The music of the month is the thud-thump-thud of the trunk being dragged from the attic or basement. . . and the book of the month is father's bank book. . . Sons and daughters will be writing home telling of the great gridiron games and looking forward to that first weekend at home telling mother and father about their first college experiences.

SALEM DAY at the state fair is an exciting one for most everyone concerned. . . parents accompanied by their children seeking all the sights. . . others entertaining visitors. . . Horse show and race enthusiasts attending all the events. . . In one of the larger boxes at the races and seemingly a joyous fall tea table. . . white, gladioli and sinias guarded by ivory tapers. . . Later in the day Mrs. James Young and Miss Beryl Holt drove Miss Budd to Portland where she caught her next train.

FROM FAR AWAY comes news of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan White of Yokohama, Japan. . . They vacationed for several weeks this summer at the beach home of friends in the northern part of the island. . . While there Ivan participated in a doubles tennis tournament in which he was the winner. . . Mrs. White has been bicycling all summer and says it is quite the fad in Japan.

AN ORCHID WEDDING was the exciting climax to the "Flowers and Fashions" pageant at the Multnomah stadium in Portland Tuesday night. . . The bride in ivory chiffon velvet carried a gorgeous bouquet of 12 white hybrid orchids with purple tips, 200 bouvardia and 100 lilies-of-the-valley. . . The six bridesmaids wore light green chiffon velvet and carried bouquets of purple orchids. . . The newest place for flowers this season is on one's hair or purse. . . Every gown and outfit was completed with an unusual flower arrangement. . . This year's queen of Rosaria appeared in a gown of rose made of rose colored taffeta and thousands of velvet petals and a coronet of orchids arranged in her coiffure. . . A number of the models wearing evening gowns wore the new up sweep coiffure that for day time and street wear they were not worn.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving B. Dexter returned Friday night from a trip to Los Angeles and Reno.

Few people who accomplish something big have the foresight to take movies of the feat but L. F. Davidson, who supervised the rock work on Timberline lodge did have the forethought and on Friday night showed his films to a group of visitors at the Salem Federal Art Center.

Among the many interesting things he revealed about the Lodge were that:

All rocks were taken from within four miles of Timberline. They are set in a concrete back that graduates from one foot at the top to three at the base.

Rocks are left as near the original shape as possible, color vary and are placed to look their best. Some weigh a ton.

Timbers used in the central part of the lodge weighed seven tons apiece.

From the ground to the weathercock it is 108 feet.

During the winter of construction, snow was 14 feet deep on the level and a covered area had to be heated for the stone masons working on the last of the rock work.

Timberline Lodge was begun June 25, 1936, finished in February, 1938.

Miss Jeanette Walker, who is assistant to Mrs. Margery Hoffman Smith, director of Timberline Art Project, spoke informally on the decoration of the Lodge and won the interest of the audience immediately with her pleasant manner and fund of information.

Facts she discussed were, that: There are 820 pieces of furniture, 131 iron pieces, 312 yards of hand woven material, 100 pairs of applied curtains, 119 hooked rugs and 141 watercolors in the lodge, all were made by federal workers on projects.

Sewing projects contributed the rugs, handweaving. Historical research and writers projects contributed time and the art project did the designing.

Some of the 8 foot hooked rugs weigh 45 pounds, were made from scraps left from making four-year-old clothes from worn out CCC clothing.

It took two women five months to weave the draperies and bedspreads. They are mostly made from Oregon jute, and wool. Dining room curtains used 141 yards.

Each room is named and designed from an Oregon motif. Blue gentian room, Indian zigzag, Indian woman, pine are all names given rooms rather than numbers. Curtains, rugs and furniture carry the motif.

Iron work was done by hand over small blacksmith forges, strap-iron was used and simple, straightforward designs used exclusively.

The main lounge is based on its hexagonal shape, with davenport.

Woman's Club Holds
First Meeting
"Let's Picnic and Get Acquainted" was the theme for the first meeting of the season for members of the Salem Woman's club at the club house Saturday afternoon. A picnic luncheon was served at 1 o'clock and the guests were seated at tables marked Champeo, Silver Creek Falls and Breitenbush. Greens, ivy and bright colored flowers decorated the tables. Original poems were read by the members and the guests were introduced. There were covers marked for over fifty guests.

Miss Eula McCully, president, presided at the first meeting which was opened by the singing of the national anthem. The local committee, Grace Elizabeth Smith who told of her acquaintance with the author, Mary Stewart.

All committees and department chairmen were introduced and told of their plans for the coming year. Mrs. Clifton Mudd reported on the Art Center and Mrs. William Fargo, chairman of the poetry department, read a poem. Charter members of the organization were introduced and presented with flowers. Reports were also given on the summer activities of the club.

A contest was held during the afternoon to see who could get acquainted with the most people and was won by Mrs. Seymour Jones. Mrs. A. E. Ullman was in charge of the luncheon.

Pettits Entertain for 4H Winners
Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Pettit Saturday night entertained at dinner the two boys and two girls declared outstanding in all 4H club events at this year's state fair.

The girls and boys were Mary Louise Armstrongs, Portland; Jacqueline Morton, Cottage Grove; William McBurney, Mulino, and Lynn Hinton, Bellfountain.

They later attended the night horse show. They will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Al Walker at the Dorchester Hotel at Oceanlake next summer.

Campfire Girls Spend
Weekend on Santiam
Two Campfire Girls groups "Aowakiya" and "Cheskahmy" were the guests of Mrs. Edward Weller at her cabin on the Santiam this weekend. The girls enjoyed swimming, hiking and corching around the campfire.

In the group were Mary Weller, Martha Weller, Mary Parker, Patricia Varley, Patty Zeller, Sarah Morse, Rosemary Geiser, Pauline Foster, Jean Gemmill, Jane Ace, Bonnie Benson, Alice Ross, Nancy Brown, Mrs. Paul Morse and Mrs. Edward Weller.

Disabled Veterans to Have Meeting
The meeting of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war and auxiliary will be held Tuesday evening instead of Monday as both organizations have been organized. The meeting reception to be held for the national commander of the DAV, Mr. Owen A. Galvin of Minneapolis. The meeting is called for eight o'clock at Multnomah county court house.

Among those planning to attend from Salem are Mrs. Vern Ostrander, retiring state commander of Oregon and newly appointed national executive committee woman of the thirteenth district, Mrs. Frank Crozier, local commander, Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Smith who told of her acquaintance with the author, Mary Stewart.

Miss Lena Belle Tartar is among those returning to Salem after summer vacation. She visited relatives at Oysterville on Willapa harbor and enjoyed a trip to Vancouver, B.C.

Her vacation was partly spent in Portland where she took a course under the famous Father Finn authority on training of adolescent youth. She had heard his famous Paulist choir 22 years ago in Chicago and found his work with young voices most absorbing. Father Finn has for 35 years been a choral director in Chicago and New York and John Paulist choristers now include 30 voices. A few years ago the group took first prize with 500 choirs competing.

An interesting program has been planned for the Salem district fall meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church which is being held in Eugene on Wednesday. Several missionaries on furlough to the district are to speak. Mrs. Louis Magin of Salem will preside. The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church postponing its regular Wednesday meeting until Friday at 2:15 o'clock on account of this conference.
