600 Former Oregonians Paid in Other State; Others Paid Here

State lines no longer are obstacles to the flow to and fro of unemployment compensation benefit checks.

More than six hundred former Oregonians who now reside in other states are being paid job insurance upon credits earned in this state and their benefits to date total approximately $25,000, according to officials of the state unemployment compensation commission.

Works Both Ways
On the other hand, claim deputies in Oregon's 12 employment offices have taken 1168 claims for Oregonians who earned their job insurance rights in other states during 1937. California furnished 974, or 83 per cent, but 18 states represented on the list, Minnesota was next with 26, Michigan had 20, Arizona 19, Utah 14, New York 10, Wisconsin and Massachusetts, 9 each; Iowa 8, Texas and Pennsylvania, 4 each; Indiana 3, Connecticut and Maryland, 2 each; and Idaho, Maine, Rhode Island and Tennessee, 1 each.

California also leads in the amount of money claimed from the Oregon benefit fund, with $18,717 out of the first $22,170 paid. Washington is next and Minnesota third. Claims have been filed in 21 states against job credits earned in Oregon during the base year now in effect, as follows:

California Leads
California, 441; Washington, 59; Minnesota, 33; Utah, 16; Iowa and Mississippi, 10 each; Arizona, 9; Idaho, 8; Texas, 6; Alabama, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada and Tennessee, 3 each; Alaska and New York, 2 each; and Arkansas, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Montana, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Wisconsin, 1 each.

Satisfaction of interstate claims was made possible by a reciprocal agreement between Oregon and 41 other states whereby unemployed workers who have sufficient earnings in another state may collect their earned unemployment compensation benefits by filing application at a state employment office in the state in which they now reside.

Foreign Autoists 26,679 in August

Registration of nonresident motorists in Oregon aggregated 26,679 during August, bringing the total for the first eight months of the year to 197,854. Secretary of State Small reported Saturday.

The state of California contributed 56,925 visitors or more than half of the eight months total while Washington accounted for about one-third of the remainder with 16,709.

August saw Oregon welcome its farthest traveled guest when a motorist from India registered. Ashland topped the state's check-in stations with 4158, although Brookings' total of 3992 was a close second.

Deadline on Taxes Set September 15

Midnight, September 15, is the deadline on payment of third quarter 1938 taxes without interest or penalty. It was announced at Sheriff A. C. Burk's tax collection office yesterday.

Payments by mail will be accepted without interest requirement if they are postmarked before that hour.

T. J. Brabec, deputy in charge of tax collections, said approximately $1,270,000 had been collected in taxes this year and of this sum $1,020,000 has been on the 1938 roll. He estimated 76 per cent of the current roll alone had been paid.

Job Is Half Done On State Library

Oregon's new combined state library and office building is now approximately 50 per cent completed, the contractor reported to Governor Charles H. Martin here Saturday.

The report indicated that the structure would be completed and in readiness for occupancy not later than January 1.

The building will cost $1,000,000, including landscaping and other incidentals.

Swansons Return From Jaunt East

10,000 Mile Motor Trip to National Shrines Is Completed

Mr. and Mrs. M. Swanson and family of 1695 Saginaw have just returned from a 10,000 mile motor trip through the eastern and central states, visiting historical and literary shrines of the country and taking note of economic conditions apparent in the various sections.

This was the fourth of their cross-country trips and concluded their visitation of the national parks, historic and other spots in the United States and parts of Canada.

While in the east, the Misses Pearl and Violet Swanson and Lloyd Swanson attended the Columbia university summer session.

Some of the high points of their trip included, in New York city, visits to Rockefeller Center, the world's fair site on McQueen island, and inspection of the Wilamette meteor, weighing 15 1/2 tons, which fell near Oregon City in 1902, at the Haydn planetarium.

Historic spots viewed in Massachusetts included the birthplace of Benjamin Franklin in Boston, the Old South Meeting House built in 1729, the site of the Boston massacre and Bunker Hill monument, Buckman Tavern which was the rendezvous of the Minute Men, the Old North Bridge at Concord, and many historic spots on the road between Concord and Lexington.

Following the Lincoln highway homeward, the party was actually alarmed at the number of people found headed toward Oregon, some of them evidently under the impression that they could live easily here with little or nothing to start with.
