Scenes of Damage in New England Hurricane

Boats at the point harbor in Boston being lashed against the brick walls during the terrific wind and rainstorm which struck six New England states and did heavy damage at fashionable Long Island. More than 127 persons lost their lives in the catastrophe.

High wind uprooted many trees and light buildings throughout the east and New England. This tree trunk crashed down on an auto near New York City. Rescue workers were kept busy saving marooned families and helping in the evacuation of those in lines of flood-swollen rivers.

Exhibits at Woodburn Community And Grange Fair Declared Equal To Showing at all-State Display

WOODBURN—One of the most successful Woodburn Community-Grange fairs yet to be held closed here Saturday night, with the exhibits pronounced as good as any like exhibits at the state fair.

The feature of Saturday's program was the school children's parade with West Woodburn school awarded first prize; Grassy Pond, second, and St. Benedict of Woodburn, third. The Lincoln grade school and the Washington junior high school of Woodburn entered but did not compete for prizes. Hundreds of persons lined the curb on both sides of the street to witness the parade which was led by the Master Bread band of Salem under the direction of Joe Hassenstab. Judges for the parade were E. Parzy Rose and Mrs. Carol Van Cleave of Silverton and Supt. "Pat" Beal of Hubbard.

Joan Tweedie won the prize for the best decorated bicycle with Lavern Beaudry second and Muriel Haroldson and Eldora Hermonson third.

For pets Charles Barrett won first prize, Donald Ashland second and Kenneth Broyles third; miscellaneous, Patricia Bauman first, Priscilla Asper, Ted Hanauka and Jimmie Crimmins all tied for second.

The Young Oregonians troupe from Portland put on a splendid show in the big tent north of the armory, followed by a "mutt" show sponsored by the Woodburn Rotary club. Judges were Harold M. Austin, Arthur L. Reiling and Howard Magnuson. Charles Hackett received the prize for the best all around
