Withdrawal Is In Advisement

Kimmel Contends no Valid Judgment Is Entered in Patton Case

Circuit Judge L. H. McMahan yesterday took under advisement the motion of the state capitol reconstruction commission for withdrawal of its appeal notice and for entry of judgment in the condemnation action against Edith Louise Patton and others.

In arguments before the court Rex Kimmel, assistant attorney general, contended no valid judgment based on the jury's verdict of $45,600 for the defendants had been entered while John H. Carson and Custer E. Ross, for the defense, maintained that a journal entry allegedly made at the suggestion of the state constituted an effective judgment.

Upon the court's decision hinges the question of whether or not the time for the state to file a bill of exceptions on appeal has expired.

Judge McMahan will hold jury school Monday morning and open his trial term at 1 p. m.

305 Days to Equal Weight in Fat

Producing more than her own weight in butterfat in 10 months, an Oregon purebred Jersey cow, Sybil Tessie Lorna, has established a new world's record for dairy cattle under 305-day test rules. Under official test supervised by the American Jersey Cattle club, from December 1, 1937, to October 1, 1938, she produced 1020.52 pounds of butterfat. Her 305-day yield of 17,121 pounds of milk tested 5.96 per cent fat. Still milking at the rate of 48 pounds a day, the 6-year-old Jersey, bred and owned by L. A. Hulburt, Independence, is traveling across the continent to Columbus, Ohio, where she will be displayed at the national dairy show as "The Cow That Jumped Over the Moon."

Republican Dance Set Here Friday

Socially Pleasant Affair With Little Politics Introduced Plan

Rhythm and republicanism will merge for one big evening at the Salem armory Friday, October 21 when the Marion County Republican club, cooperating with the local Young Republican club, stages a public benefit dance.

Robert E. Jones, general chairman, said last night.

Tommy Thomas and his tennorsers fresh from billings at Mount Angel and the Cottonwoods, have been engaged to play.

Win Jenks, president of the Salem Young Republican club, will be in charge of ticket sales, assisted by Gordon Reed, Jim Haley and Barbara Benson. Hugh Scott will be in charge of public speeches.

The dance is sanctioned by the Marion county republican central committee, and by the local chapter of Pro America, republican women's organization.

Special entertainment will be provided, and it is planned to broadcast dance music from the armory, Jones said. Political activity will be limited to introduction of candidates who attend, with possibly a single short talk during the intermission.

Building Plans Get Opposition

Official Hits Use of Accident Commission Fund for Structure

The proposal to erect a state industrial accident insurance building with funds of the accident commission, on property located directly opposite the capitol probably will meet with considerable opposition, it was indicated Saturday.

One prominent state official said he was opposed to using funds of the accident commission for any purpose other than for the benefit of workers and their dependents.

"Any diversion of these funds would be a mistake," this official declared.

World Centralize Offices
The new building, under the proposal, would cost approximately $1,000,000, and would house the public utility department and the unemployment compensation commission, now located in downtown Salem.

Funds provided by the accident commission for construction operations would be repaid by rental charged against the public utility commission and the unemployment compensation division.

Title to the structure would remain with the industrial accident commission until such time as it was paid for. The title would then pass to the state.

Submittal to Lawmakers
The public utility commission is now paying rent to a private property owner while the unemployment compensation commission is paying rent to the Salem school district.

Construction of the proposed new building would make it possible to house all state activities in Salem in state-owned structures.

Officials favoring construction of the new building said they would submit the proposal to the 1939 legislature.

Local Observatory Opened to Public

Bradley's Amateur Setup Said to Be Largest of Its Kind

The B. L. Bradley amateur astronomical observatory, declared to be the largest of its kind in the United States, will be opened for public inspection from 2 to 5 p. m. today, Bradley announced yesterday.

The planet Venus will be visible through the 14-inch reflector telescope recently completed by Bradley with the cooperation of the Salem high school vocational shop classes.

To house his big telescope and several smaller ones built previously, Bradley has had a revolving dome-type observatory constructed in his back yard, five blocks south of the city limits and a short distance east of the South Commercial street extension.

In addition to showing his guests a daytime view of Venus, which now resembles the moon at five days before full phase, Bradley will explain the mechanics of his new telescope.

The observatory dome was built by A. H. Moore, the telescope mirror ground by Bradley and precision machine work for the mounting and controls done by the high school shop classes under supervision of C. A. Guderian and Floyd Slegmund, machine shop and mechanical drawing instructors, respectively.

Ward vs. Nolan, October 14, settled and to be dismissed.

Zimmerman vs. Zimmerman, November 4, removed from calendar because of affidavit of prejudice, and Dawson vs. Tucker substituted on that date.

Judge L. H. McMahan will hold jury school Monday morning and try the case of Gram vs. Disney at 1 p. m. the same day.
