

Jones Opposes Picketing Bill

Professor Says Measure Might Invade Labor's Lawful Rights

Danger that the anti-picketing bill on the November election ballot might destroy hard-earned rights of labor inclines William C. Jones, Willamette university professor, to oppose the measure, he told the Salem Lions club yesterday in a discussion of the ballot proposals.

The labor bill's terms are ambiguous, Jones declared. He said he was "not unaware of the difficulties of labor strife," but felt opposed to the bill because it might invade labor's legitimate rights.

Pension Bills Rapped
Professor Jones denounced both old age pension measures the Townsend plan as an example of "economic witchcraft" and the citizens' retirement annuity bill as "not as bad as the $30 every Thursday plan for California" but proposing a compound tax precedent to a sales tax. Either measure would necessitate the creation of a huge bureaucracy, Jones declared, and the Townsend plan "would require half of our population to administer the act while the other half are receiving the money."

Favors Pinball Bills
Emphasizing that he was telling no one how he should vote, Jones said he nevertheless felt privileged to express his opinions on the measures. The two slot machine prohibition bills he favored because "the only ones who have a sure thing with these slot machines and pinball games are the manufacturers and the owners."

Jones opposed the lottery legalizing amendment because it is offered with "a sop to the voter" in its provisions for raising old age pensions and relief funds.

As to the liquor regulation measure, Jones said it would be supported or opposed according to whether "you are interested in further restricting the trade in alcoholic liquors" or "you believe the present system of control is satisfactory."

The professor spoke in favor of the bills to raise legislators' pay, give the governor more time to consider bills before approving them, require both applicants for marriage licenses to submit to physical and mental examinations and declare a state policy against stream pollution.

Fireman's Dance To Be November 2
In order to raise money for their annual Christmas toy program, the firemen of Salem have announced the annual Firemen's Ball for the night of Wednesday, November 2, at the Crystal Gardens.

Persons who have old toys which they are willing to donate to this cause, to be repaired and given to underprivileged children, are asked to call the fire station, but to call the fire chief's number so that in doing so they will not turn in an alarm. Following notification, the firemen will arrange to have the toys collected.

The elevator will be in operation for the convenience of those attending. Theodore G. Nelson, secretary of the Social Welfare society announces.

From 1:30 to 2 p. m. the meeting will be taken up with precinct organization routine. From 2 to 2:45, both republican and democratic candidates for state senator and representative in Marion county will be expected to tell what their action will be on liberalizing old age pensions if they are elected.

Following this a straw vote will be taken and while the ballots are being counted, Mr. Nelson will explain the purposes and program of the Social Welfare society. Elected precinct delegates will consider recommendations as the final event of the afternoon.

Puckett's Return Here Is Arranged

Deputy Sheriff Contacted in California Brings Fugitive Back

Arthur Puckett, 21, fugitive from a larceny charge brought by Salem police, is being returned here by Deputy Sheriff B. G. Honeycutt from Eureka, Calif., where the prisoner was shot in the leg recently while attempting to evade officers, Sheriff A. C. Burk announced last night.

Honeycutt who had gone south to pick up Lloyd Baker at Madras, Calif., on a morals charge, was contacted in Sacramento Wednesday night by long distance telephone and police radio when the sheriff here was notified that Puckett was able to travel. Within twenty minutes after Sheriff Burk had asked the sheriff at Sacramento to telephone to locate the deputy,

Honeycutt heard a police radio broadcast directed to him and called his office here. Puckett is charged here with larceny of goods from the Safeway store at 935 South Commercial street last July 30. City police asserted he was also the leader of a group of boys who engaged in wholesale bicycle thefts.

Umatilla Senator Facing Elections But Chooses Seat

Senator Best of Umatilla county, while here Thursday, inspected the new senate chamber and expressed preference of a seat during the 1939 legislative session.

Best informed friends said that he was not a hold-over senator, but added that he was sure of being reelected.

Senate seats are allowed by a special committee appointed for that purpose. This committee will meet in Salem prior to January 1.

Vocational Heads Entertained Here

Ninety members of the Willamette Valley Vocational association were entertained at a banquet in the Salem high school cafeteria Wednesday night by Salem instructors. Visiting vocational teachers and directors were presented with hand-tooled leather key holders bearing the association insignia and a replica of the new state capitol. Jens Svith, Salem agriculture instructor, acted as toastmaster.

Highlight of the entertainment part of the program was the faked arrest of all visitors, who were then "forced" to make a tour of inspection through the new capitol. After the capitol visit the members listened to a panel discussion conducted by O. D. Adams, state vocational education director.

The next meeting will be held at Albany in December.
