

Trouble Seen For Hot Goods

Wage-Hour Administrator Says Buyer May Get Into Trouble

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour law administrator, hinted today that buyers might be in for trouble if they knowingly purchased "hot" goods.

By hot goods he meant those produced at standards lower than the law provides and circulated in interstate commerce.

At a press conference, a reporter asked him questions about "collusion" between buyers and sellers. Saying he did not want to work any hardships on persons who made honest mistakes, Andrews added:

"But where there is evidence of collusion, where a person buys with the full knowledge that the goods are manufactured contrary to law, certainly this section (section 15) ought to be taken into account."

Makes Sale Unlawful Section 15 of the act makes it unlawful to offer for interstate transportation and sale goods produced by workers employed in violation of the minimum hour provisions of the fair labor standards act. The following section prescribes a fine up to $10,000 or six months imprisonment.

"I am wondering," Andrews said, "if gentlemen like Mr. Perkins (Fred, Perkins, York, Pa., battery manufacturer) who says he is not going to comply, I am wondering what will happen if his hot batteries get into interstate commerce. Will he be able to sell them in interstate commerce?"

Perkins announced last Sunday that he could not afford to abide by the law and would defy it. In 1933 he was convicted in federal court of violating the NRA but before his appeal could be decided the supreme court outlawed the blue eagle statute.

Certifications Unneeded Some of Andrews aides said purchasing agents have inquired whether the wage-hour act required manufacturers to certify. As was done in NRA days, that the goods offered for sale were made in compliance with wage-hour regulations. The law does not require such certification.

The administrator said he had received requests for rulings which would exempt from the act employees of the national association of band instrument manufacturers, Elkhart, Ind., the National Patent Box Manufacturers association, the United States Beet Sugar association, and dried fruit packers on the Pacific coast.

The American Stock Yards association also applied for an exemption ruling, but was turned down by Andrews general counsel.

Foreman Testifies In Baker Hearing

Ballantyne Says Warnings Never Made Men Not to Join Union

BAKER, Ore., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Gilbert Ballantyne testified in a national labor relations board hearing today that Richard Bolton, president of an AFL union local, had told local union members Ballantyne always treated men square.

Ballantyne, foreman of the Stoddard Lumber company which is charged by the NLRB with unfair labor practices, told of the incident in answering an NLRB accusation of treating union men unfairly.

Ballantyne said the occasion arose when his automobile was badly damaged last April and Bolton called union members together to determine whether any of them were responsible.

Never Threatened In cross-examination, Ballantyne also testified he had never warned men that they would be fired for joining the union, but had taken the attitude that they could do as they pleased.

Ballantyne testified that Harvey Lewis, who the AFL claimed was discriminated against, was not reemployed after a layoff because his work was not satisfactory.

He said Lewis was employed because the bishop of his church had asked it to prevent revocation of Lewis' parole.

The NLRB counsel sought today to prove that Lyman Hyde and Joseph Stoddard, mill officials, had agreed to recognize the local Associated Timber and Lumber Workers' union as bargaining agency in preference to the AFL.

State Efforts Held "Futile"

Patton Attorneys State First Judgment Order Is Sufficient

Efforts of counsel for the state capitol reconstruction commission to have a new judgment entered in the Patton condemnation case, in which the Patton property owners were awarded a verdict for $46,600, are branded "an eminent example of futility" in defendants' answering memorandum, filed in circuit court yesterday.

Attorneys for the commission themselves presented the form of order to be entered on the verdict and it was followed with minor variations, Carson & Carson, defense attorneys, assert in their memorandum. The former have maintained this order did not constitute a formal judgment, that their appeal notice was premature and that a new judgment order should be made by the court. Should they be overruled, it is understood time for perfecting appeal will have elapsed.

The order already entered "is sufficient and the plaintiff recognized it by attempting to appeal from it, the defense memorandum continues. "Only when this appeal became abortive did the plaintiff cast about for something upon which to hoist itself from its self dug hole."

The memorandum was accompanied by an affidavit from Edith Louise Patton stating that the state took over her property August 4, 1933.

Wallace Scores GOP Farm Plans

Secretary of Agriculture Says Interest of GOP Is "Hollow One"

READING, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, charged tonight that interest being shown by republicans in the farm problem was a "hollow one" that would be forgotten "as soon as the votes are counted."

In a speech prepared for delivery before a democratic rally to which Pennsylvania farmers had been invited, he said the "same old republican big-money gang" was trying to return to power in Pennsylvania.

"I don't think you are going to let them fool you," Wallace continued. "I think you are going to take your stand for the kind of same progress the democratic party, under the leadership of President Roosevelt, has given you."

Turning to republican charges that new deal farm policies have failed, he said the administration's program would enable farmers this year to receive an income nearly twice as large as that of 1932, the last full year of the Hoover administration.

Meanwhile, Continues to Prepare for Possible Hostilities

KOMAROM, (On the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border), Oct. 27.—(AP)—Czechoslovak soldiers and their commanding officers talked tonight of a peaceful settlement of the Hungarian territorial dispute, but nevertheless made further preparations for possible armed conflict.

Steel-helmeted troops patrolled the Czechoslovak side of the Danube river. High explosives already were attached to a large steel bridge over the Danube leading into Hungary and mines were laid on sections of a highway leading to the bridge. New strands of barbed wire were strung. Czechoslovak soldiers questioned all travelers over the bridge.

Fall field equipment was available to the Czech troops and one big gun pointed toward the border.

On the Hungarian side of the border bridge stood a lone soldier. No artillery was visible. Hundreds of Czechoslovak soldiers were quartered in buildings in the immediate vicinity of the bridge and at steel and concrete fortifications near Komarom.
