Recent Gains

Heavy Burst of Selling at Gong Puts Composite Price Down 1.2

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 .- (AP)-The stock market took a sharp tumble today and returned to the line it held throughout October and early November prior to election day.

A heavy burst of selling near the final hour just about completed the process of eliminating the post-election gains. When it subsided and the market steadied before the closing g , ng, the share list had slipped down the hill almost as fast as it went up on the surge of optimism after the election.

Traders, shifted to the selling side when the market generally displayed a distinct reluctance to follow an early show of strength in steels and aircrafts. At the finish losses of 1 to more than 3 points were record-in U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Inter-b.; cutter cows, 7-7½c lb.; canner cows, 6-6½c lb.; balls, 8½ 9c lb. national Harvester, General Motors, Goodyear, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Union Carbide and other outstanding shares.

The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks was down 1.2 points at 51.9, the sharpest fall since the late Sertember warfrightened selling.

Ample Feed on Oregon's Ranges

PORTLAND, Nov. 16 .- (AP)-Excellent rains, mild temperatures and ample feed kept livestock on Oregon ranges in good condition, the federal bureau of agricultural economics said today in its November report.

Abundant hay and grain stocks existed in eastern Oregon at HILLSBORO-Ladino clover comparatively low prices. Cattle seed production reached a new were in better than average high in Washington county this shape and more were held over year. The yield from 104 acres to consume range and feed of ladino totaled '0,033 pounds stocks. Many ewe lambs were on of clean seed, according to W. hand but stockmen said there F. Cyrus, county agent. Chicago Wheat Down 3/4 Cent, but Regains Some of Loss terms of the Anglo-American trade pact, Chicago wheat prices fell % of a cent today, but later recovered somewhat.

Doubt whether or not the British tariff duty of 6 cents a bushel against United States wheat would be removed did much to make traders irresolute. Cheap offerings from exporting countries acted also as a drag.

cause they had to make some sort of gesture for the going away. "We may as well make a dinner party of it, and ask a couple of men, too," Margaret said gloomily, "for we haven't entertained anyone for ages, and I, for one, am beginning to get self-conscious about never paying off."

Good old Paula, who would have come herself if her "new lady" would have let her have the day off, sent her young cousin Ellen instead, and when Aunt Bet saw a black dress and white apron in the kitchen instead of Margaret in a smock, she really felt like her old self again, and so did Daddy who missed the dinner parties, and the wine that went with them, more than he cared to admit.

After an argument that at times threatened to be a battle, they decided on Lane Penney, who was so diverting that he might actually take Sue's mind off Ken and divert her permanently, though that was probably too much to hope—on Sue's old "steady" Joe Atwell, who had always had an eye for Margaret, and two runners up-Perry Dryer and Fred Lacey. There were others they would like to have asked, but better a really nice dinner for a few than a beanfest for
