Club Notes

Hello, club members! Gee, I'm about starved waiting for my big turkey dinner that I hope to get next Thursday. I op, that you all have big dinners but no tummy-aches. Don't fight over the wish-bone or the d-um-sticks because next year I'm going to try to fix it so that every Thanksgiving turkey will grow extra legs and wish-bones.

That should bring down the price of turkey this year.

I'm going to furnish towels with all the future airplane contests.

Last week persons present heard Kay and Pat Marshall, Marilyn Hill, Beverly Kenney, Dale Reeves, Georgina Young and Mary Banish. After laying around all week, Bra! and the band came to and struggled with Lies in E sharp. Then everyone in the band settled back and slept through the rest of the show. (Just billibilies in the rough.)

This week six (yes, said six) big cartoons, stage show, news and chapter 7 of "Red Barry" with Buster Crabbe and the first showing of "Stable Mates" with Wallace Beery, Mickey Rooney and Oscar O'Shea.

Doors will be open at 12:20 so you can come early and get a good seat.

See you all at one o'clock.

Bryant asks that all persons having claims against the bank call at the receiver's office and present receiver's certificate of proof of claim, accepting in return the dividend check.

The funds now ready for delivery include the principal of the judgment secured by the State Savings and Loan association against C. C. Bryant as receiver, in a decision handed down by the Oregon supreme court.

How to Purchase Good Turkey Told

Housewives should use precaution in purchasing their Thanksgiving turkeys, the state agricultural department advised Friday.

"If your butcher sells you a prime bird he should give you one that is well fleshed and covered with fat," agricultural department officials said. "It should be well bled, well dressed and free from pinfeathers. There should be only slight abrasions of the skin, and it should be well formed.

"The commercial grade bird is the poorest of the three grades. This bird is poorly fleshed and has little fat. It will have numerous pin feathers, skin abrasions and discolorations. Deformed birds are included in this grade."

Housewives who pay attention to a few simple rules should obtain a good bird within their budget, officials concluded.

Tax Plan Held Not Adequate

Galloway Says System Is Unsatisfactory; Sees Change Coming

Oregon needs a tax system that more nearly balances the distribution of taxes between the counties and the state than does its present setup, Charles V. Galloway, chairman of the state tax commission, declared in an address before the Oregon Association of County Treasurers here yesterday. He referred particularly to school district taxes and their distribution.

The speaker indicated that some important changes in the tax structure probably would be sought at the next legislative session.

Principal business of the Oregon county clerks and recorders, also in convention here Friday, involved proposed minor amendments to the existing laws. Discussion centered chiefly on the use of the absentee ballot, destruction of chattel mortgages after they have been filed and civil service for all public employees.

The suggestion was made that election days be eliminated from the list of legal holidays and that public employees be allowed two hours to vote.

Civil Service Mullied
Special committees were appointed to consider the civil service proposal and more general use of the absentee ballot.

Speakers outside of the clerks and recorders group were Earl Snell, secretary of state, and Roy Lockenour, dean of the Willamette university law school.

Part of the afternoon was given over to a joint meeting of the clerks, recorders and treasurers at which Attorney General L. H. VanWinkle discussed the proposal of the federal government to tax the securities and revenues of the state, counties and municipalities, and the salaries of officers and employees.

The annual banquets of the clerks, recorders and treasurers were held Friday night.

Both groups will elect officers at the closing sessions Saturday afternoon.
